Voting and Putting.
Anthrax, Leprosy, Etc.
Lo, The Navajo.
P. Rockefeller's Flier.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1927.)

YESTERDAY was election day and golf day. If all men concentrated on their votes and on public questions as many concentrate on "putting" the nation would advance rapidly.

A MAN is locked up in Oregon accused of plotting with Russian Bolshevism to scatter germs of leprosy and anthrax in the United States.

While they are investigating the man's leprosy and anthrax germs, they also might investigate his sanity.

WILL ROGERS says Lo, the poor Navajo Indian has oil on his land, but has got no money for his oil. White men took the Indians' oil money to build a short-cut bridge over the little Colorado River. No Indians use the bridge, but Indians paid for it. Rogers thinks the rest of their oil money will go to build the Boulder Canyon Dam. He mourns with Poor Lo.

ROGERS' kind heart does him credit, but he mourns needlessly. The greatest good to the greatest number is the thing. The worst thing for Indians would be to give them oil money. They would go to town and come back worse than when they went. It sounds cold blooded, but Indians without a lot of money are considerably happier than with it. That applies to many whites, also.

PERCY ROCKEFELLER is included among promoters of a new airship serv' in the Caribbean Sea. To extend the line all the way down through South America, eventually, is the plan.

Wall street gentlemen will find a "flier" in Caribbean flying service much safer than some fliers they took in Caribbean sugar, when sugar was around 25 cents a pound.

SECRETARY HOOVER, really interested in constructive work, submits to the President a plan to encourage commercial flying. Good will come of that. The nation alone can make America's air fleet what it should be.

A ROW of 14 graves in Mexico City's French cemetery contains 14 reasons for believing that Calles' regime and his successor's will be fairly permanent. Each of the 14 graves contains the body of a man shot to death for trying to get rid of Calles, or trying to make himself president.

The Yaqui revolt in Sonora has collapsed with the surrender of 600 Indians, all in jail. The Mexican Army is "hunting down" and killing the remaining Yaqui rebels. It looks like peace in Mexico for awhile.

TROTZKY, who recently commanded the armies of Russia, under Lenin, and kept the various European armies out of Russia, is now in disgrace with his Communist friends.

He entered his carriage in the procession celebrating the tenth anniversary of Bolshevism, but was turned out of the parade and hissed.

They think he is too much of a bourgeois, too much interested in Russia's commercial prosperity.

Trotzky only smiled, and perhaps thought what Disraeli said, when they howled him down in the House of Commons, "the time will come when you will hear me."

SENATOR WATSON says everything that CAN be done, will be done, by Congress to stop the Mississippi floods. If that program is carried out Mississippi floods will be stopped. Congress can, if it will.

Herbert Hoover will show how it can be done, with the assistance of other able engineers.

If this country doesn't think it worth while to spend half a billion once and for all to stop floods that cost a billion at a time, it is a foolish country.

THE private detectives hired by a defendant in the Fall-Sinclair oil case are unable to prove their statement that they were trying to protect our sacred jury system when they trailed members of the jury, looked up their financial condition, found out when the mortgages were coming due. They wanted to make sure that wicked Uncle Sam would not bribe the jurors to send good Mr. Fall or kind Mr. Sinclair to jail unjustly.

Will the government take this supinely?

NEW YORK CITY'S birth rate in 15 years has dropped 25 per cent. Fortunately the death rate shows a decline of 18 per cent. The marvel is that so many are born and remain alive in the unnatural condition of city life.

RUSSIAN Communists sent their men to tell the poor Chinamen how to "throw off their chains" and now the ungrateful Chinese help an anti-Bolshevik attack on the Russian consulate. The Chinese are an old, strange people, and you cannot be quite sure how they will "react" to propaganda or anything else. They will no more change to Communism, after 40 centuries of Confucianism than rabbits would change from lettuce to raw beef.

RUMANIA expects dictatorship on the Mussolini plan to control all Rumania, with Bratiano as dictator. This would shut out Prince Carol. The thing begins appropriately with censorship of all newspapers. Carol's name is barred.

Beauty Wins

JUNE WERNER

KING WILL HAVE NO VOICE IN LEAGUE ACTIVITIES

William J. Kane, newly-elected executive secretary of the Citizens' League of Pittsburgh and Allegheny County, has not received official notification of his election, he said this afternoon.

In the meantime, though Dr. J. Alvin Orr, chairman of the league's board and its official spokesman, is out of the city, it was learned that William L. King, former director of the league, has no voice in the future policies of the organization. He is here merely as a witness in the cases to come before the county grand jury, beginning November 18, and to appear as a witness in Federal Court November 5 in the case of the United States versus Jakie Klein. King is staying at the Penn Lincoln Hotel, Wilkinsburg, where early today he informed The Sun-Telegraph that he does not expect his wife to join him.

KING TO MEET KANE

While King is to confer, within the next few days, with his successor, no appointment has been made yet, according to Mr. Kane. The new director met with Ralph H. Smith, attorney for the league, this afternoon and discussed evidence to be presented to the grand jury.

When King has completed his testimony before the grand jury the government will interpose no objection to his leaving Pittsburgh, it was said today at the office of the United States attorney. It was pointed out

PICK STIRS PUBLIC'S RIDICULE

By MAX HENRICI.

Bewildered art lovers, curious to know why oddly drawn and deliriously colored paintings were hung, and one awarded first price, at the internatinal exhibition of paintings at Carnegie Institute, flocked there last night to hear the explanation of a famous critic, Frank Jewett Mather, Jr., professor of art at Princeton University.

The burning question—why was Henri Matisse's "Still Life" of fruit and flowers given the premier award?—remained unanswered. The picture, said Prof. Mather, is "a gorgeous dream, impulsively painted by the artist while his head was swimming in ecstasy," and perhaps without his having before him the objects pictured. He did not explain in what respects the canvas is superior to others. It may have been its technique—but that, according to Prof. Mather, is none of the layman's business.

Not infrequently the prize-winning pictures at the annual exhibition are not those that the public would have thus honored. Heretofore, however, Pittsburghers have acquiesced in the awards, shrugging their shoulders and saying that art is an esoteric subject in which the layman's opinion is of no value.

But Homer Saint Gaudens, director of fine arts at the institute, has been preaching that art is not for the elect only, but for everybody, and has encouraged the people to express their judgement. The result is that some-

N. Y. Times Congratulates Hearst Paper on Startling Expose of Oil Scandal

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The New York Times prints the following on its editorial page:

Notice has already been taken in our Washington dispatches and on this page of the notable public service, in connection with the jury scandal in the Fall-Sinclair trial, done by the Washington Herald. This is emphasized by the explicit commendation of the District Attorney, and by the acknowledgments made by the government counsel, Senator Pomerene and Mr. Roberts.

The special point of their praise is that the newspaper, which learned by accident, as it were, that plans for tampering with the jury were afoot, kept the matter from premature publicity. Gathering all the details that were possible, it turned over all its information to the government counsel,

Near Death in Fire

PRINCESS MARY

The daughter of the King and Queen of England fled in her nightclothes when flames destroyed the mansion at which she was staying last night.

Fire Routs Princess in "Nightie"

WAKEFIELD, England, Nov. 9.—(INS.)—Princess Mary, daughter of King George and Queen Mary, and her husband, Viscount Lascelles, were forced to flee from their bedrooms in their night clothes early today when fire broke out in the Bretton Park mansion of Lord Allendale, where they are guests.

Princess Mary and Viscount Lascelles were among 20 guests at a house party given by Lord Allendale. Although the blaze burned briskly for some time, all the occupants of the great house escaped without injury.

Lord Allendale's home, which is one of the finest places in Yorkshire, was considerably damaged.

RAQUETTE LAKE, OLD FORGE, N. Y., Nov. 9.—I shall fight three times during 1928, according to tentative plans that I have finally formulated today, after considering the several splendid offers that I have received from various parts of the country.

Rickard has no exclusive contract on my services for 1928, nor has any other promoter.

I shall defend my championship in May, in July and in September. If Rickard is to promote the first championship match of 1928, he will have to make plans for it to take place before the end of May, 1928. I promised Mayor Thompson, of Chicago, that I would defend my title in Chicago, in 1928, if I received a satisfactory offer. The offer I have received from a Chicago promoter is quite satisfactory. I have also received an excellent offer from a promoter to fight in Philadelphia, and one from a New York business man who has made an excellent proposition, and who will get a license to promote a title bout.

I have also a fine offer to fight on the Pacific Coast. I plan to fight three times in 1928 and to engage in two additional bouts before 1930, when I shall retire.

'REBEL' VOTED IN

Controller C. C. McGovern, Independent party candidate for County Commissioner, is the sole Independent survivor of the Republican landslide at yesterday's election.

The stormy petrel of Allegheny county politics, who bolted the G. O. P. after being defeated at the primary, won the minority post, ousting Commissioner James Houlahen, Democrat, who ran a poor fifth in his effort to get a third term.

Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, Republican, target of the hottest fire from the Independent party campaign, led the ticket with a total of about 145,000 votes, according to estimates based upon available returns. He is ill at his home and received the returns by telephone from the Republican headquarters. His running mate, Commissioner E. V. Babcock, was second with about 124,000 ballots.

Justice of the Peace George B. Shields, of Wilkinsburg, the other Independent entry, ran McGovern an unexpectedly close race, being only 12,000 behind his teammate at the finish. McGovern polled about 72,000 votes, while Shields was given approximately 60,100.

The race made by Houlahen disappointed his friends, who counted upon getting at least 50,000 and, in addition, some help from the Republicans. The latter did not deviate from their expressed intention of supporting the straight party ticket, except in some isolated instances, such as Mifflin township, where Babcock was cut in favor of Houlahen, and in the Third Ward, where both Republicans lost in favor of Shields. Houlahen finished with 35,300 votes. P. F. Brennan, the other Democratic entry, was far behind with 11,200, while he in turn was trailed by the Labor entries.

How Nation Voted—At a Glance

By the Associated Press.

New York State—Gov. Smith triumphed in fight against constitutional amendment which would provide for gubernatorial elections in presidential years. Republicans retained control of lower branch of Legislature.

Detroit — Mayor John W. Smith, avowed wet, apparently was defeated by John C. Lodge, grand-uncle of Lindbergh, in close vote.

Kentucky—Flem D. Sampson, Republican, apparently was elected governor over J. C. W. Beckman, Democrat, opponent of Pari-mutuels; Democrats charge frauds; two killings during voting.

Philadelphia—Vare's machine triumphed in the easy victory of Harry A. Mackey, Republican, who defeated J. Hampton Moore, Independent, for mayor. W. W. Roper, Princeton football coach, re-elected city councilman in hot scrimmage.

Ohio—Anti-Saloon League was defeated in backing in a referendum, a bill approved by the Legislature which would have put justices of the peace on a fee basis with authority to try violators of the prohibition laws.

Three Republican Congressmen were elected—James M. Beck in Pennsylvania, Charles G. Tattgenhorst in Ohio, and Clarence E. Hancock in New York. They will have seats which have been held by Republicans.

Concord, N. H.—Miss Gwendolyn Jones, 24, ex-telephone operator, defeated overwhelmingly by Mayor Fred Marden, ex-policeman.

Norwich, N. Y.—Mrs. Katherine Stoddard, Democrat, defeated by Mayor D. H. Curnalia, Republican.

New York City—Mrs. Ruth Pratt, Republican, socially prominent, mother of five children, re-elected alderman.

Secaucus, N. J.—John Kane, president of Board of Education, who defended a smoking schoolma'am when her dismissal was urged, elected mayor. The teacher, Miss Helen Clark, assisted in his campaign.

Glen Cove, N. Y.—The Rev. John W. Gammack, Episcopal Republican, elected public safety commissioner in Long Island town where wealthy New Yorkers have summer estates.

Santa Fe, N. M.—Voters favored a constitutional amendment changing the term of state officers from two to four years.

Cleveland—Effort of former Governor Harry L. Davis to abolish city manager government defeated.

Toledo—William G. Guitteau, city service director, defeated by William T. Jackson.

San Francisco—James Rolph, Jr., elected mayor for fifth term of four years, defeating James E. Power, former postmaster.

Salt Lake City—Mayor C. Clarence Neslen, Democrat, defeated by John F. Bowman, Republican, both Mormons.

Louisville—Mayor Joseph T. O'Neal, Democrat, defeated by William B. Harrison, Republican.

New Jersey—Republicans retained control of Legislature.

"Just for Fun" Marriage Is Voided

Frank X. Dixon, husband in a "marriage for fun", was granted a divorce from Dorothy Moore Dixon by Judge Ambrose B. Reid in Common Pleas Court today.

THE WEATHER

Mostly cloudy tonight and Thursday. Lowest temperature tonight about 32 degrees.

PREJUDICED JUROR FIRED

Accused of racial prejudice, William Coe, a painter, of 7824 Hamilton avenue, was summarily dismissed from jury service today in Criminal Court by Visiting Judge John R. Henninger, of Butler county. The incident is said to be the first of its kind in this county. Coe was called on a jury being impaneled to try Jesse Duncan, aged 51, a Negro, who had lived in Pittsburgh 37 years and at 2547 Charles street, North Side, for 27 years, on a charge of murder.

In his examination of the prospective talesman, William H. Stanton, Negro attorney, counsel for the defendant, asked Coe, who lived in or near Baltimore previous to his coming to Pittsburgh about three years ago, if he could f[illegible] a fair verdict against a Negro. "I do not think so," replied Coe and, pressed for a more specific answer, repeated it. Attorney Stanton then challenged the juror and moved that he be dismissed from the panel, without pay, terming him unfit for jury service. Judge Henninger stated that a person holding such a view was unfit for jury service in Pennsylvania and directed the removal of Coe from the panel.

AIR SUNDAY CONCERT FIGHT

Pennsylvania's ancient blue laws were dusted off and set up as a target in County Court today when the appeal of 19 officers of the Pittsburgh Symphony Society from their conviction on a charge of holding a Sunday concert was heard before Judges D. M. Miller and R. A. Kennedy.

Heated legal arguments started early and threatened to consume many hours. Attorney John Robert Jones, noted Philadelphia attorney, led an army of counsel for the plaintiff, the Sabbath Association of Allegheny County, and Attorney John M. Freeman directed the case of the socially prominent defendants.

The appeal follows $25 fines assessed the society officers for holding a Sunday concert in Syria Mosque, April 24.

Miss Martha Woolslare, witness for the Sabbath Association, was called and produced letters which showed that she had paid dues and been given membership in the society.

Miss Woolslare's testimony precipitated a prolonged argument in which counsel for the society contended that the concert fell outside the jurisdiction of the blue laws.

PUBLIC SCOFFS OVER ART PRIZE WINNER CHOICE

CAN'T SEE "BRAIN" CANVAS

thing like open rebellion against the awards has broken out this year.

Frank disgust has been expressed with some of the canvases that the jury has seen fit to honor. Artists and art teachers, appealed to for an explanation of the motives that governed in selecting the pictures for hanging and making the awards, have been unable to elucidate. There has been a suspicion of humbug. Saint Gaudens, harassed by importunate questioners, has withdrawn into his shell and refused to make any comment for publication. "Take it or leave it" is, in effect, the institute's attitude towards the exhibition.

An art teacher who was taking a party of college women through the galleries recently bade them say, not that they disliked certain pictures, but that they did not understand them. He interpreted many of the paintings, but omitted to mention the prize winning Matisse "Still Life." On being asked to comment on it, he declined, saying, "I do not understand it." But many persons are unwilling to dismiss their dislikes in this way; they want an argument. Prof. Mather gave it to them last night.

He let it be known, in the first place, that the purpose of art is not to please, not to portray the beautiful, but to communicate a spiritual experience. He showed the audience finished pictures of the kind that everyone can appreciate, and damned them with faint praise. The artists, said Prof. Mather, only painted the surfaces of things; they were naive persons, concerned chiefly with the superficial things of life.

The tendency today, he continued, is sharply away from that. The modernists seek to get under the surface. They care little for details and conventionalities; hence the distorted lines and the stark simplicity that makes some of their works look as if they had been executed by children. A house-cleaning movement is under way. Artists had been making their pictures a little stuffy, like a mid-Victorian parlor. The nonessentials that cluttered up the canvas are being cleared away. Abstractions and generalizations are the favorite subjects.

Taking up one picture after another of the new school, Prof. Mather gave his views of what the artist sought to convey.

Matisse, he said, in commenting on the picture that took first prize, was an "impulsivist of the radical left wing." Some artists discover beauty, others create it. Matisse is the latter type; he creates beauty with nature only as a point of departure. The "Still Life" is "a picture of a very artificial type." But Matisse "felt it as a musician feels a chord." He is "a creature of impulse" and depends on ecstacy.

Prof. Mather set alongside of the Matisse another "Still Life" by Duncan Grant. The latter, he said, belongs to the constructionist school, the conservative right wing. Artists of this type are highly "intellectualistic" and delight in geometrical figures appealing to the sense of order.

Of the extraordinary landscape, "Winter," by Sjoberg, with its grotesque exaggerations, Prof. Mather said: "It is a highly intellectual interpretation of nature, expressed in a simple way. Details mean very little in a picture like this. The artist looks for the common rhythm of the clouds and the mountains. He aims to show that what has shaped the mountains has shaped the clouds."

Prof. Mather described another much discussed modernist landscape in the exhibition, "Landscape near Ragusa," by Willy Jaeckel, a German painter, as an attempt to show the architecture and engineering of the cliffs in a simplified intellectualization. It was not intended to be a portrait of the promontory.

A "Portrait of a Woman," by Jaeckel, he described as "the body of a woman reduced to rhythm."

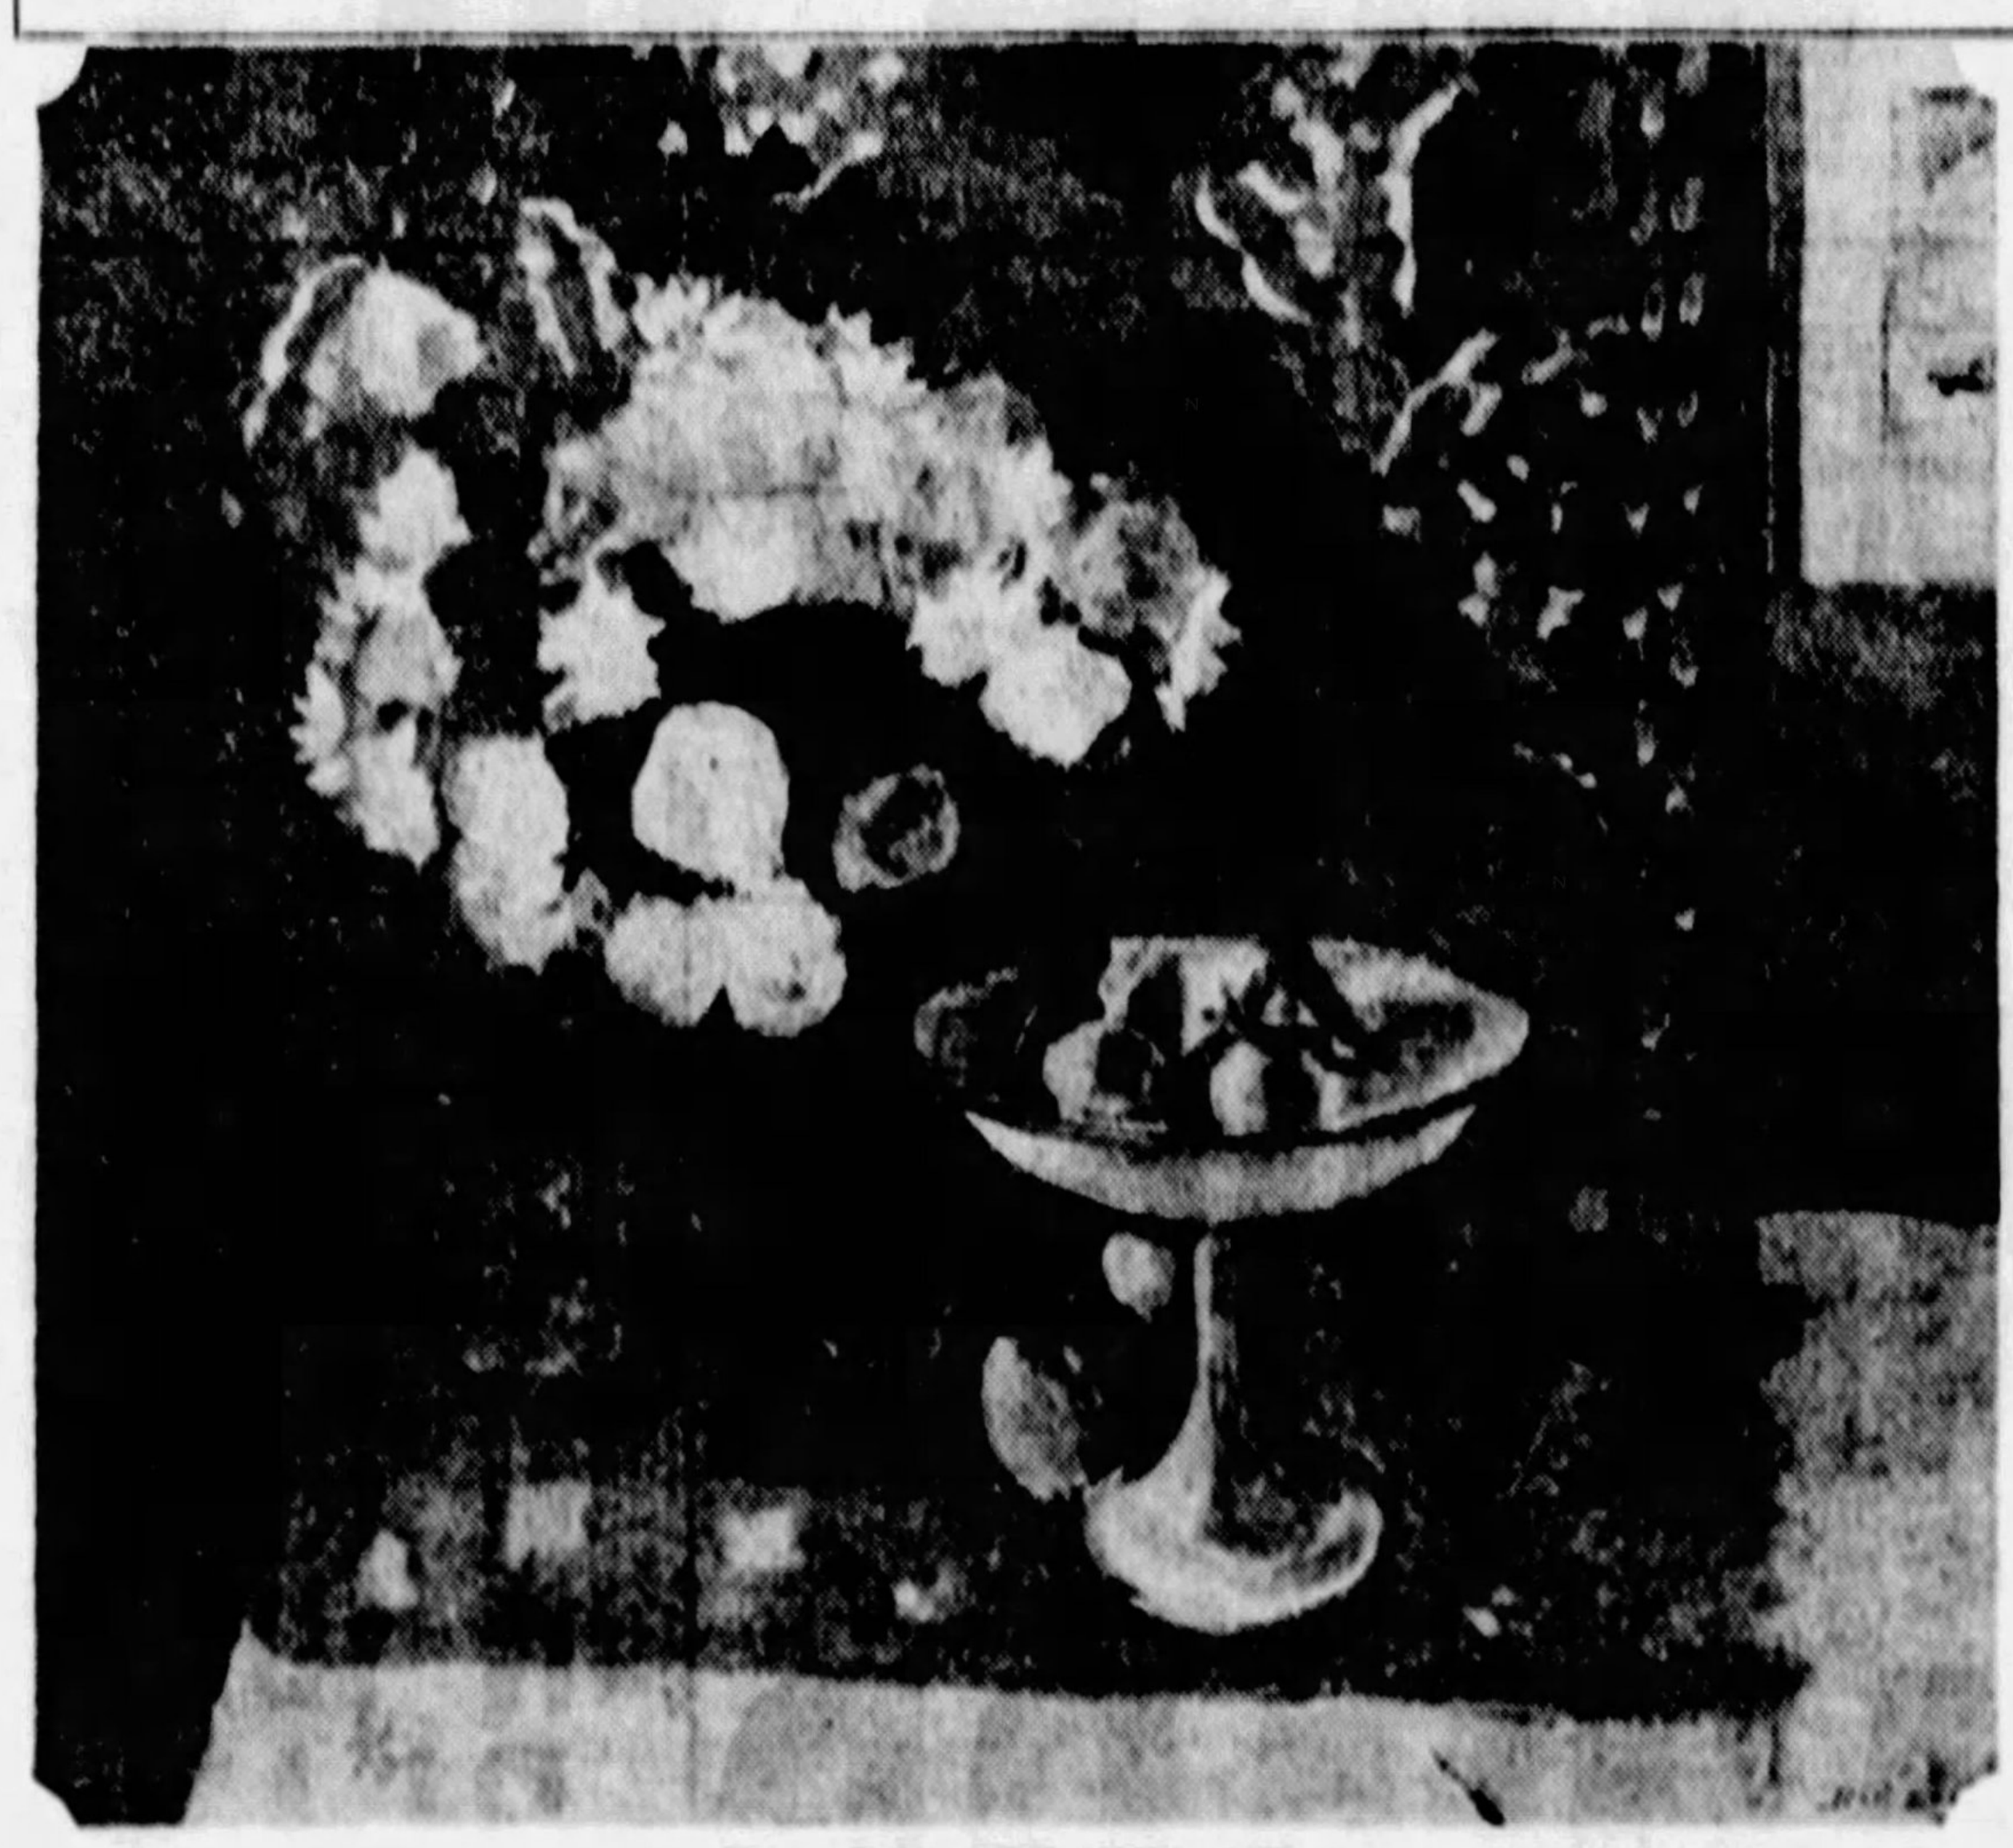
Discussing a charming landscape by Redfield, "April Buds," done in the old style, Prof. Mather remarked that there was no profound spiritual experience behind it, and that it was the habit of the day to look with scorn at that sort of pictures.

"But I hope," he added, "that we won't all become grim and geometrical and philosophical. I fear some of these young fellows are not fitted to this modernist program. One's heart should be big enough to admit both kinds of art. The modernist program will do great things for superior spirits, but there is peril in it for artists who are not superior beings, but just good draftsmen. You are asking them to indulge in these abstractions, or to pretend to. It encourages insincerity. Is that a good program?"

In conclusion, Prof. Mather told his hearers to cultivate a sincere, open-minded desire to experience what the artist has experienced.

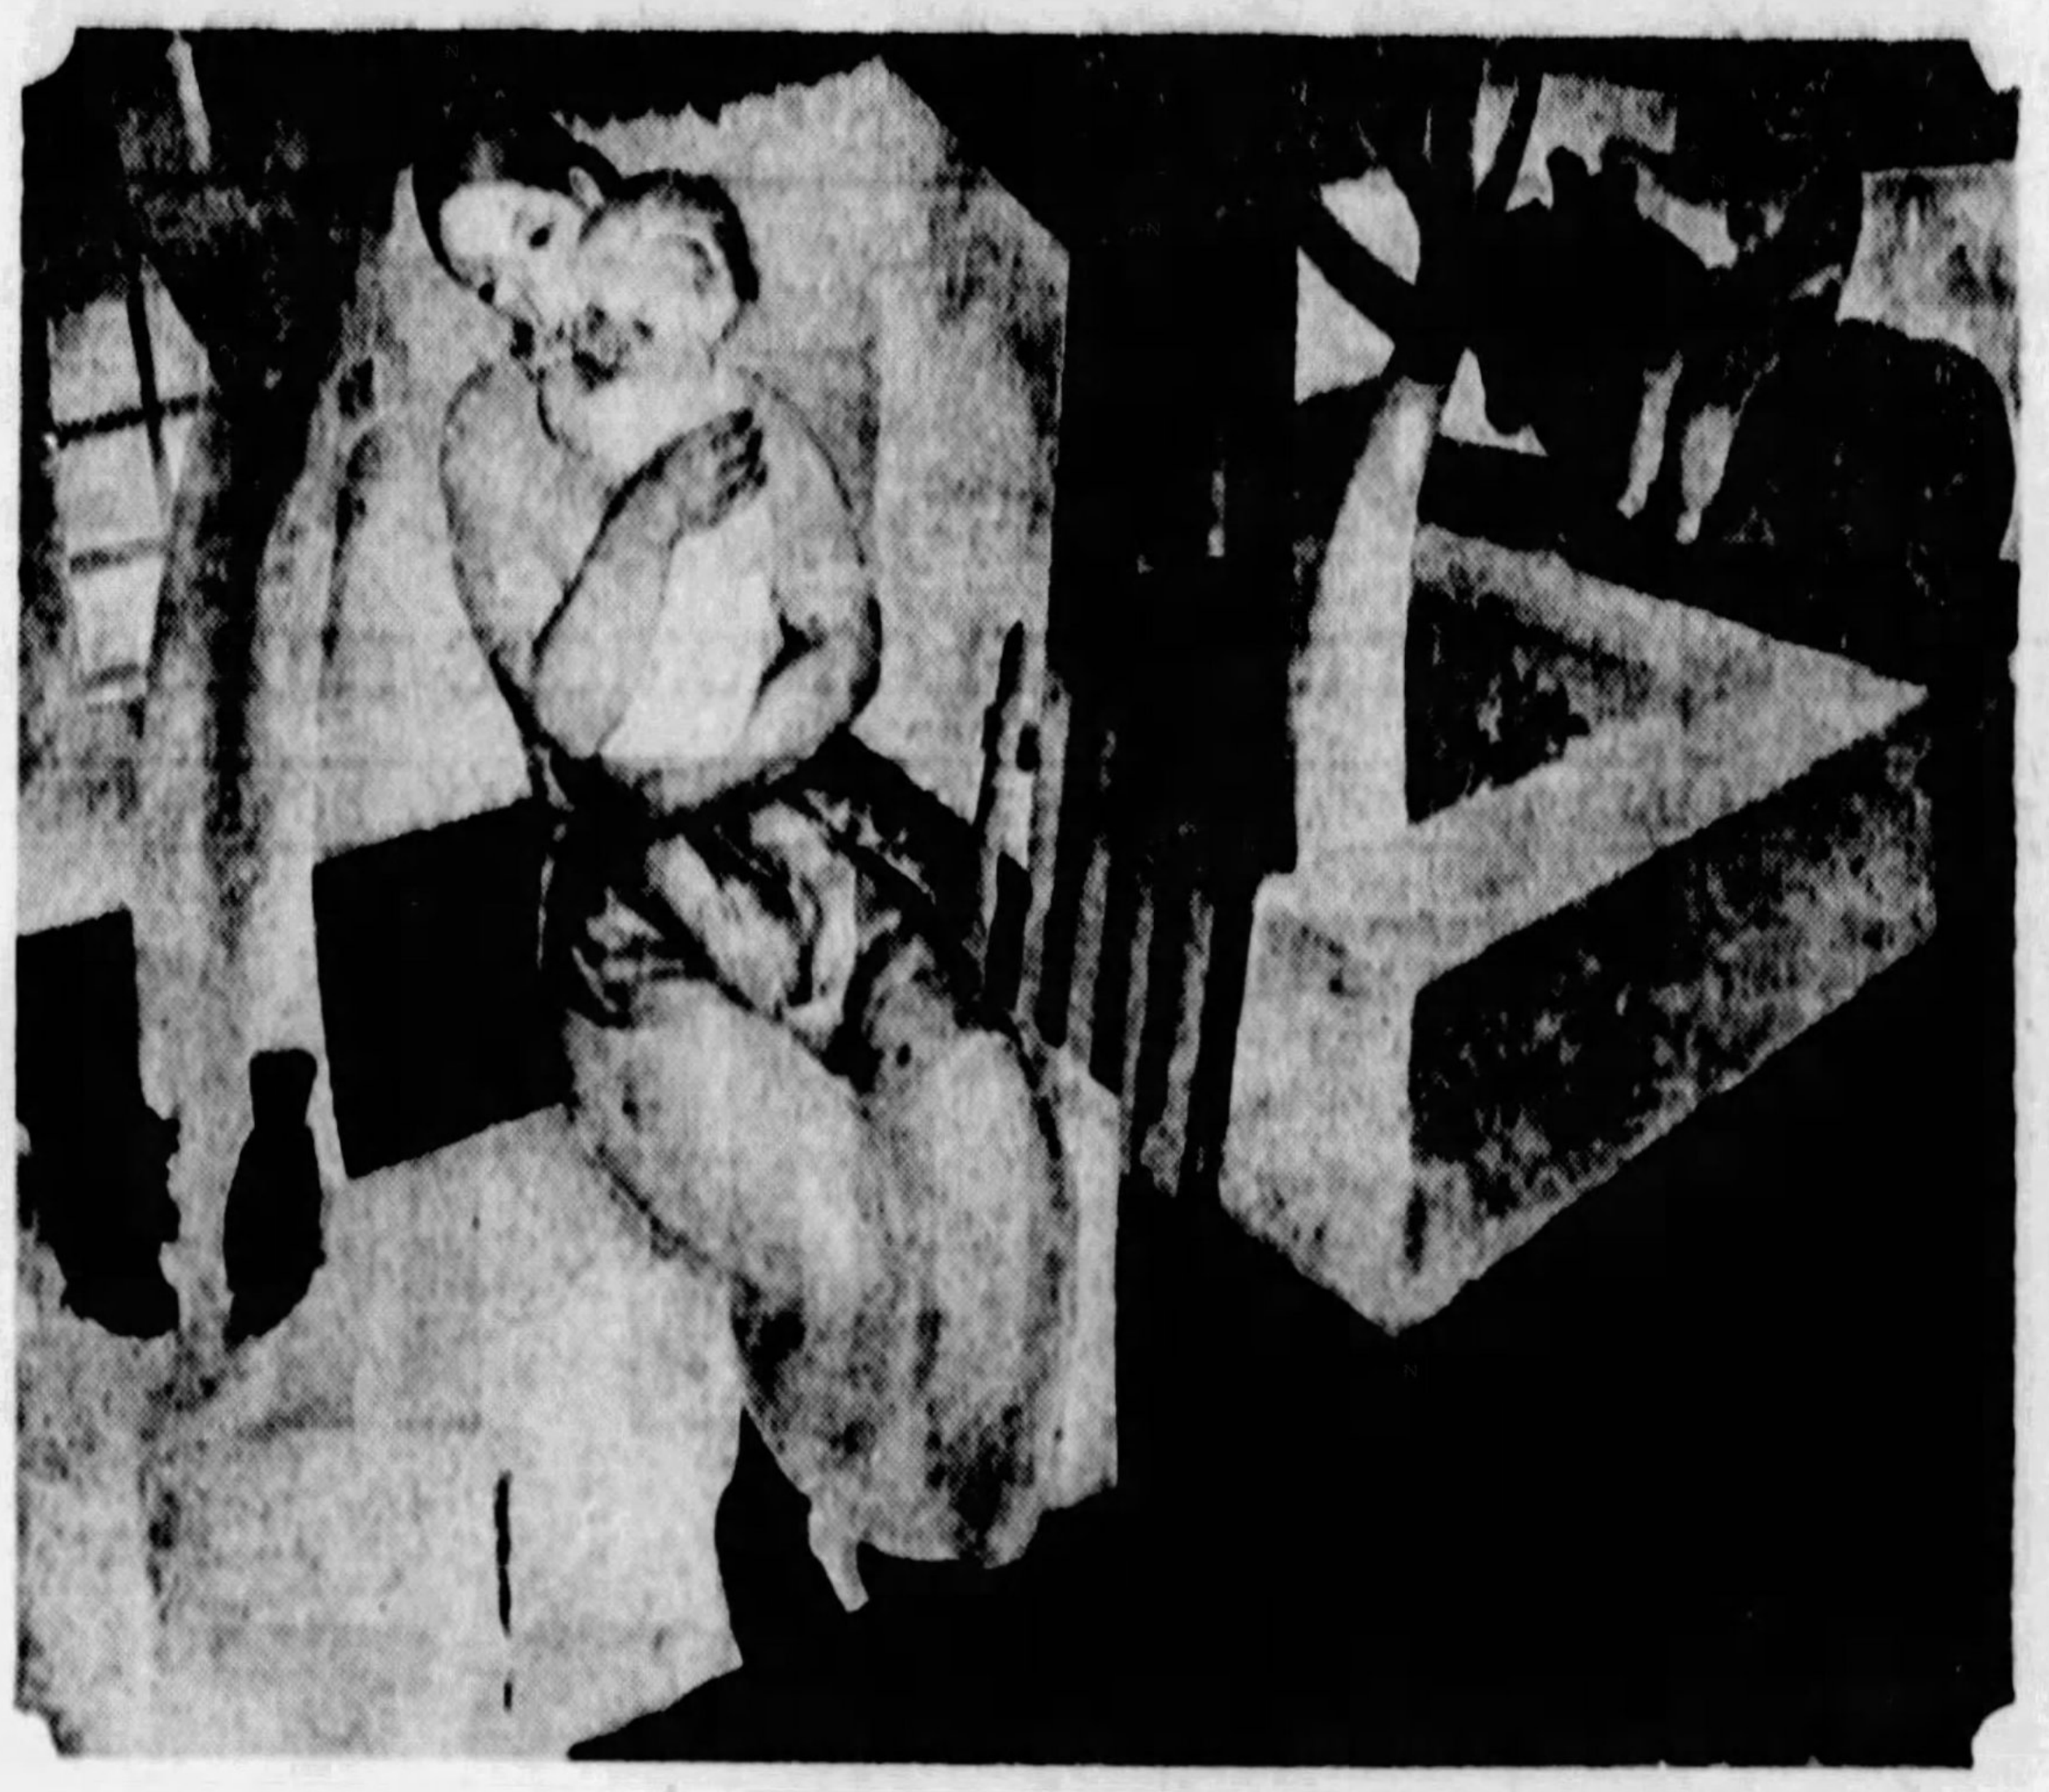
"If you dislike a modernist picture," he said, "do not condemn it, but say you dislike generalized treatment or abstractions."

INTERNATIONAL -:- ART AWARDS -:- PUZZLE PUBLIC



$1,500 PRIZE WINNER

Pittsburghers are asking why this oddly drawn Still Life by Henri Matisse was given the premier award at the Carnegie Institute's international exhibition. It has been described as a gorgeous dream impulsively painted by the artist while his head was swimming in ecstasy.



THIS WON $1,000

Motherhood by Auto Carte is an example of modernist art at the Carnegie exhibition. The painter is not concerned with superficialities but seeks to communicate an emotional experience. Exaggerations are deliberately introduced to produce the desired effect.

so that none of it was published until it was laid before the court,

This was the most dignified as well as effective course to follow. It was not one which all newspapers have adopted, although it was plainly indicated in this case as in the public interest. Not often does the work of the press in aiding the processes of justice receive such recognition as it has in this instance. The result should be not only cause for congratulation in the newspaper world, but also the furnishing of a model for imitation by others.

DOGS, CATTLE QUARANTINED

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Quarantine against dogs and cattle has been declared in Clay and Franklin districts as the result of mad dogs attacking cattle on the Hughes farm, near Cresape, Sunday. One dog killed was found to be suffering from rabies, and one cow is dead from the disease. Cattle on all adjacent farms are under quarantine.

McGovern Elected Here

1,418 in the county missing, the commissioner vote was:

Armstrong	134,097
Babcock	123,118
Houlahen	31,193
Brennan	10,700
McGovern	67,680
Shields	56,233

All of the other Republican candidates won in a walk, their majorities ranging upwards from 125,000 over their Democratic opponents. The leading Democrats, with the exception of Houlahen, were Mrs. Elizabeth Galbraith, aspirant for clerk of courts, and Thomas A. Joyce, former deputy United States marshal and war veteran, candidate for recorder of deeds. District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner and John Francies, candidate for county treasurer, ran a close race for the honor of heading the Republican ticket, judging from partial returns.

The vote generally was considerably lighter than that cast at the primary, a fact for which yesterday's rain and general bad weather is blamed. McGovern's vote was 28,000 under that he received when a candidate for controller at the primary, while his running mate lost nearly 15,000. The Republican entrants showed up better in this respect, Armstrong polling only 4,000 less than his primary figure, while Babcock lost about 9,000.

McGovern yesterday averaged only 51 votes to the district, his primary average being 69, plus. In the primary, he carried seven Pittsburgh wards, while incomplete unofficial returns indicate that both he and Shields lost every city ward yesterday, although official returns may place him ahead of one of his Republican opponents in the Fourteenth and Twenty-eighth. He lost the city of McKeesport, which had come in heavily in favor of the "independent" candidates at the primary and fell below the primary figure in practically every borough and township, according to unofficial returns.

The heavy majorities given by the voters to Armstrong and Babcock proved a disappointment to the independent leaders who had hoped that both their candidates would win and, with that end in mind, had based their attack upon Armstrong who showed his strength by leading the entire ticket. At the same time the Republican leaders were not backward in expressing their regret that Houlahen—or Shields at least—could not have been brought in ahead of McGovern.

The election was one of the quietest ever held in Pittsburgh, no complaints of importance being made either to the courts or to the office of the county commissioners. Rain that fell throughout the day was regarded as holding down the independent vote, although the heavy Republican majorities proved that Armstrong and Babcock were faced with less opposition than—judging from their intensive campaign—they had expected.

KING'S WIFE NOT COMING

there that while King's absence beyond the jurisdiction of Pennsylvania would not be an extraditable offense in Allegheny county prosecutions, the jurisdiction of the Federal Court extends to the 48 states, Alaska, Hawaii and the Virgin Islands.

King spent Tuesday afternoon in conference with Ralph H. Smith, assistant United States attorney and also legal counsel to the league. The former director said that the conference was largely for a general "discussion of everything" and declared that they did not discuss any details of evidence in the numerous cases preferred against alleged gamblers and "speakeasies" by King during his tempestuous career as director of the league's affairs last summer.

Police Superintendent Peter P. Walsh, whose friends insist he will not be brought to trial on the conspiracy charges, hinted today that five affidavits, in addition to the one sworn to by Miss Ruth Parnot, league stenographer early in King's administration, will be put in evidence in the event the police superintendent is forced to stand trial. No indication of its plans regarding the Walsh prosecution could be obtained from the league pending a decision of its new program.

Candidates Jailed

Two candidates for office in East Deer township, the township chief of police and a constable were arrested and lodged in the county jail late yesterday on charges of interfering with election officers. Those arrested are Charles Renner, chief of police; Frank Holscher, candidate for township commissioner; John Valeska, candidate for constable, and William Singleton, constable.

BISHOPS URGE CAMPAIGN OF VISITATION

As a prelude to Pittsburgh's part in the nation-wide evangelistic campaign in the Methodist Episcopal Church, four bishops of the church met with pastors and church officers here this morning to urge normalcy in a quiet personal visitation drive to begin at once and have its climax during the Easter season. The sessions are being held in the Smithfield Street Methodist Episcopal Church and will culminate with a banquet tomorrow night given by the Methodist Episcopal Church Union. Pastors and laymen are attending the sessions from all parts of the Pittsburgh area which embraces all of West Virginia, the western end of Pennsylvania and part of New York state.

Bishop Francis J. McConnell, of Pittsburgh, is collaborating with the three visiting prelates in conducting the meetings. The others are Bishop Theodore S. Henderson, of Cincinnati; Bishop William F. McDowell, of Washington; Bishop Ernest G. Richardson, of Atlanta. All spoke at this morning's session and urged the pastors and laymen to refrain from "spasms of evangelism," stress being laid on the saner methods of personal visitation under the leadership of the pastors.

The evangelism sessions will be resumed again tomorrow morning and afternoon following which the Church Union banquet will be held with the visiting prelates as the honor guests.

SMASHING VICTORY FOR WETS

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Ohio, home of the Anti-Saloon League and the scene of an unbroken list of league triumphs in previous years, yesterday for the first time refused to follow the leadership of the dry organization.

The Marshall Justice of the Peace bill, sponsored by the league when it was forced through the last session of the State Legislature and the object of its strong support when brought to a referendum, was buried under a vote that exceeded the most optimistic forecasts of its opponents.

The bill, which would have restored in part the powers of justice courts, taken from them by a recent decision of the United States Supreme Court, which held against the existence of courts that derived support from the assessment of fines, was lost under an adverse majority of more than 344,000 votes on the basis of reports from 6,801 of the 8,718 precincts in the state. The vote was 315,028 for the bill and 659,775 against.

The wet and dry issue entered the election on the measure as a result of the part played by the justice courts in enforcing the prohibition laws. The fight on the bill was led by State Senator George H. Bender of Cleveland, who managed the circulation of the petitions calling for the popular vote.

The last wet and dry fight in Ohio, five years ago, resulted in a victory for the drys of more than 189,000, the prohibitionists carrying 81 of the 88 counties in the state. The balloting then was on a light wine and beer amendment to the state constitution. Complete returns from 40 counties yesterday and incomplete returns from the others indicated that only 15 counties had voted to support the league-endorsed Marshall bill. In some of these the majority was very small.

The voters also disapproved an initiated bill that would have give chiropractors a separate licensing board, turning in an adverse majority of 175,000 in two-thirds of the precincts of the state.

In Cleveland an effort to overthrow the city manager form of government, led by former Gov. Harr L. Davis, seemingly had failed by margin estimated by the city board of elections at approximately 6,0 votes.

Pittsburgher Opens Probe at Chicago

CHICAGO, Nov. 9—(AP.)—Inquiry into the circumstances surrounding the fatal shooting of Thomas H. Callahan, Chicago businessman, at Manistique, Mich., October 13, has been reopened by Richard Callahan, of Pittsburgh, a brother.

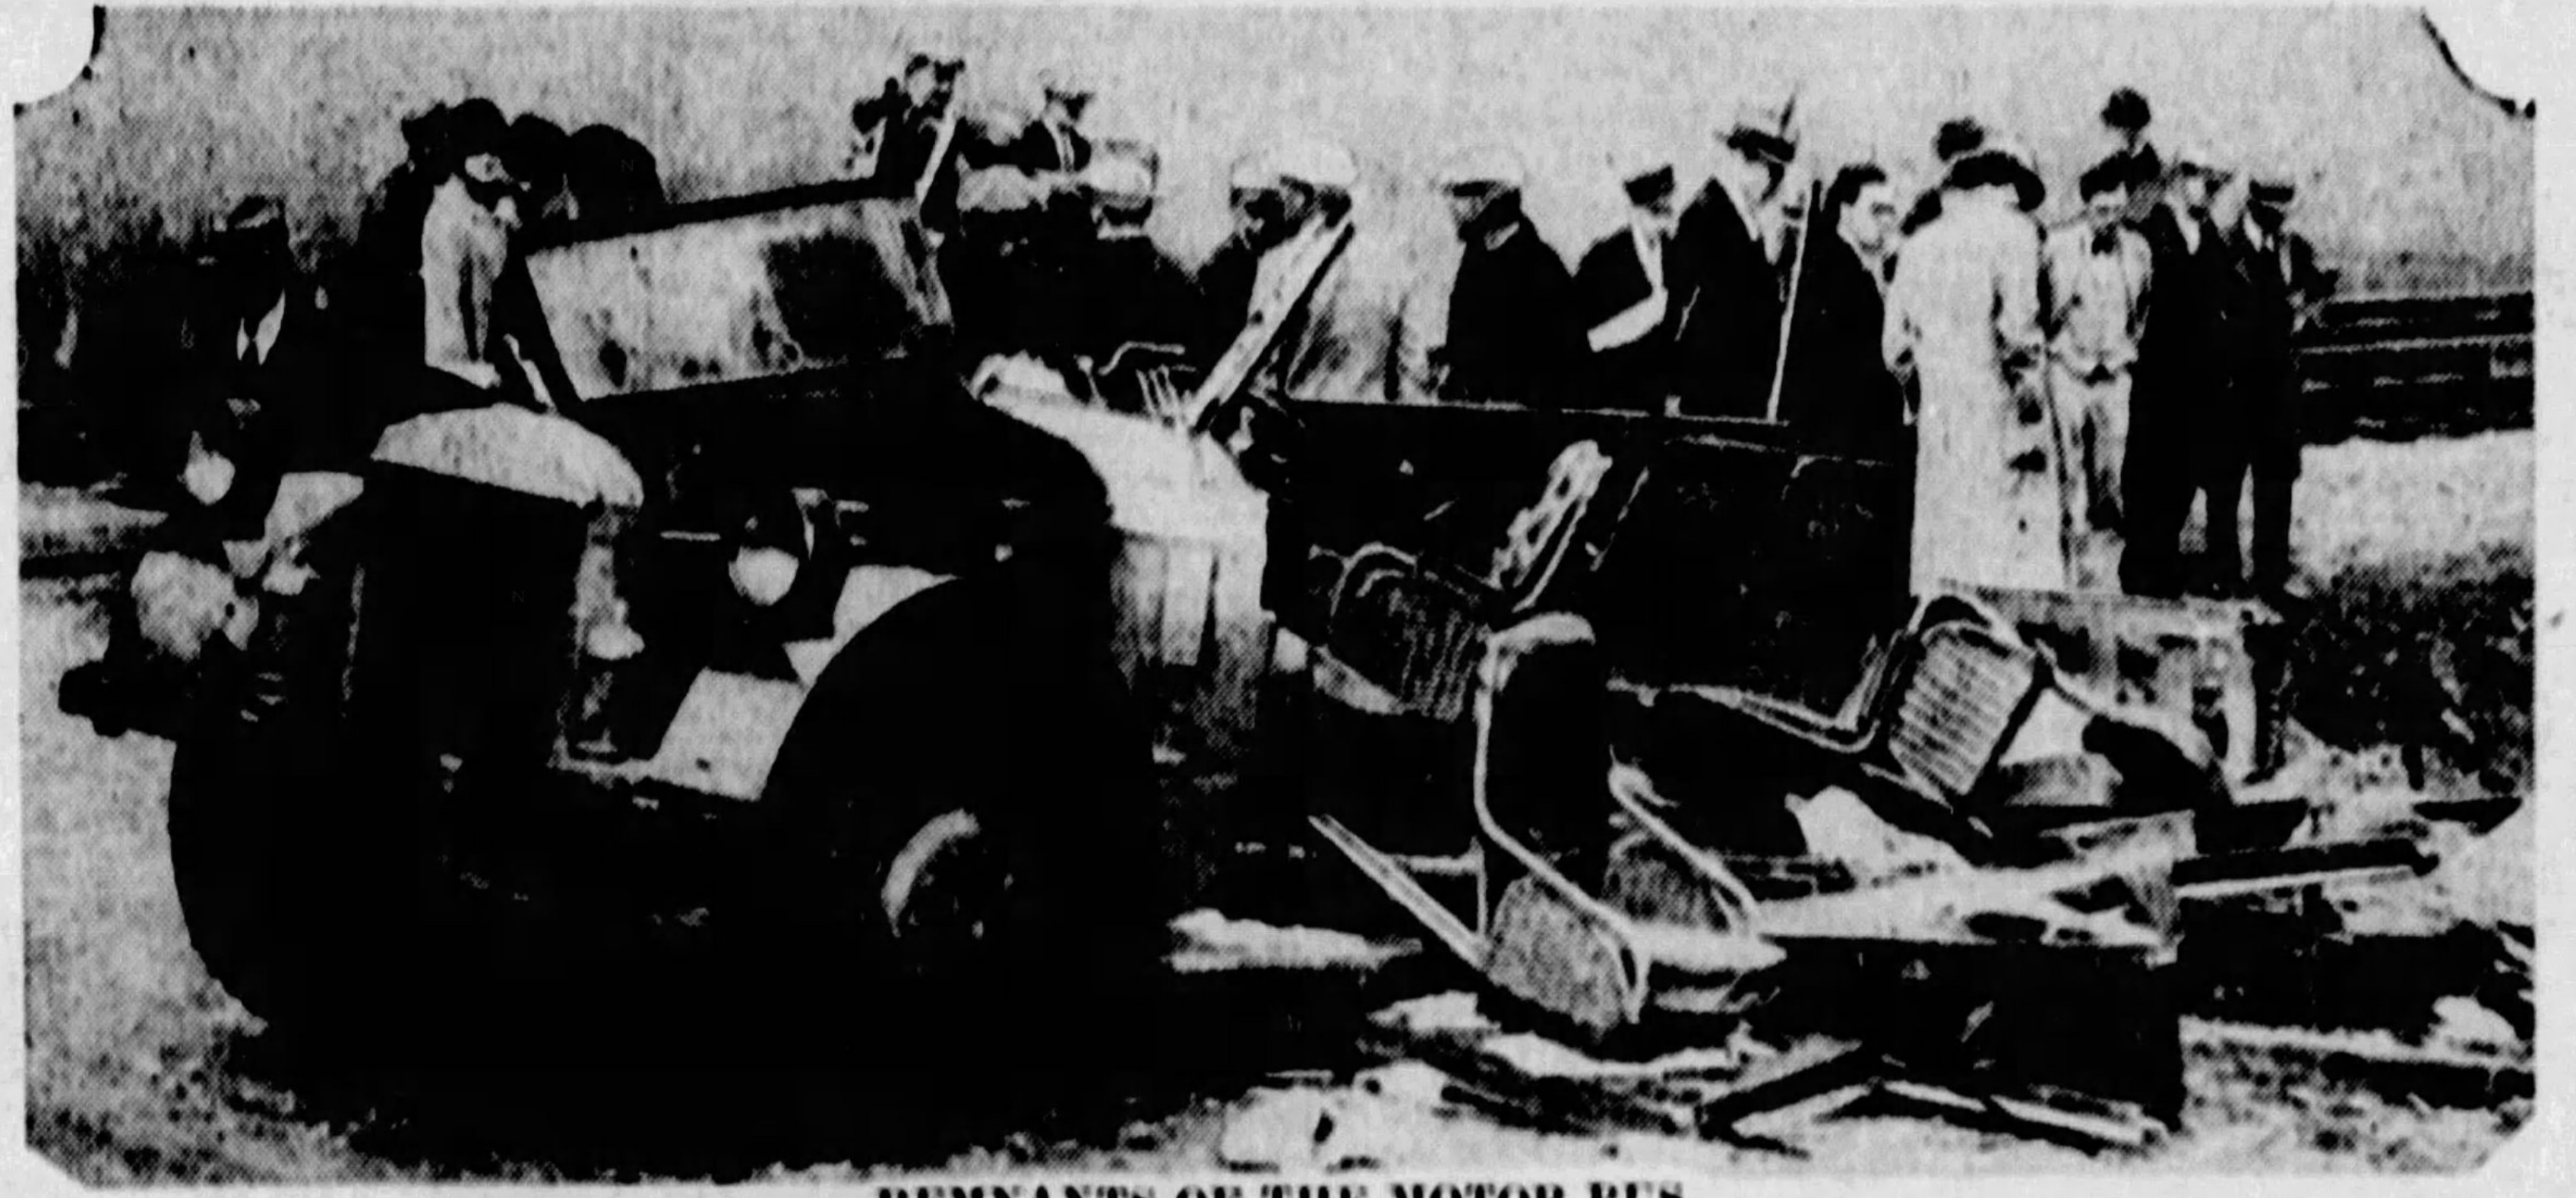
Dr. Ludwig Hektoen, pathologist, and Dr. E. R. Le Count, yesterday performed an autopsy, after the body had been taken from its grave here.

While they refused to commit themselves as to the manner in which Callahan may have been shot, officials indicated their findings aroused doubt that Callahan could have been killed through the accidental discharge of his own gun, which was the first accepted theory.

There was no evidence of powder burns, the physicians found.

Callahan was financially interested in the hunting lodge where he was shot and he had gone there on a hunting trip the day before his death.

TRAIN HITS BUS, KILLING THREE



REMNANTS OF THE MOTOR BUS

One co-ed and one male student of the University of Missouri, and an unidentified man, were killed and eight other Missouri students were injured when the motor bus in which they were traveling to the football game with Northwestern in Chicago, was struck by a Pennsylvania passenger train at Calumet City, about five miles south of the city limits of Chicago. The two identified victims were Marjorie Moss, 19, of Pawnee, Okla., and Ralph Rhodes, 21, of St. Louis. The engine is said to have struck the rear of the bus, hurling the machine and its occupants high in the air.

Policeman Attacked By Thugs

Engaging in a gun battle with two unidentified Negroes whom he had stopped in West Park early this morning, Patrolman John Walsh of the North Side Station narrowly escaped death or injury. A half dozen shots were fired by the two men as they ran from the officer. Walsh returned the fire and emptied his gun at the men, but did not hit them.

According to the officer he noticed the men in the park and stopped them. While he was talking to one of the pair the companion suddenly struck him on the jaw and knocked him to the ground. The two ran and pulled guns from their pockets and fired at the officer, who was regaining his feet.

Papers at the windows kept out the wintry blasts as voters trekked through the accumulation of rubbish into the polling place Tuesday. The roof, too, had to be attended to early in the game as the layer of slushy snow on it began to penetrate drop by drop into the interior turning ballots and records soggy.

They declare the condition of the polls keep away many voters, especially women who will not take chances on spoiling clothing.

$500,000 LOAN IS ASKED FOR FLOOD ZONE

By International News Service.

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—With the gigantic task of rehabilitation in the Vermont flood-stricken region seriously hampered by the lack of funds, Gov. John E. Weeks of Vermont today launched a state-wide appeal to banks and independent financiers to underwrite a $500,000 loan to the state.

Confronted with the impossibility of calling a special session of the Legislature at this time to meet the financial emergency, the Governor expressed confidence that Vermont citizens would respond to his appeal.

More than 7,000 persons are dependent on outside agencies for relief from suffering, their wants including housing, clothing and food and, while the Red Cross is meeting the emergency wherever possible, there are still hundreds to be reached and only through immediate state aid can the problem be met.

The large part of the half million asked by Gov. Weeks will go into highway repairs in order that traffic, with its accompanying relief, may be opened.

Montpelier alone, with losses estimated in excess of five millions, was considering a special bond issue of $500,000 today with the prospects that it would carry.

Sun-Tele Expert Tells Women How to Cook

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY.

Sage advice from one housewife to another:

"You can't expect to be a successful cook unless you watch your measures and your oven."

That is what Mrs. George Thurn drilled into her interested audience at the Sun-Tele Cooking School, which is really a housewives' convention at Memorial Hall yesterday afternoon.

Then she went into a long explanation about the use of heaping teaspoons when they should be level and about cups that are not regular measuring cups and hold a third more than the recipes call for.

So—if that favorite cake recipe of yours has been a failure and Mrs. Smith has such delightful luck—take Mrs. Thurn's expert advice and nip the trouble in the bud with regulation spoons and cups.

"That," said Mrs. Thurn, "is the Injun in many a good housewife's blanket. She is too generous, thinking if one spoonful is good a spoonful and a half ought to be just that much better—when it is disastrous."

Despite the sleet, snow and rain, several hundred women were at the hall at 12:30 so that they might have front row seats. The school did not begin until 2 o'clock but they sat patiently. Over a thousand housewives and prospective housewives listened to the splendid talk and watched Mrs. Thurn bake goodies that would make your mouth water. As a matter of fact, everyone squirmed with hunger as the odor of great grandmothers ginger creams assailed the atmosphere.

Mrs. Thurn was introduced by Mrs. Charles Morris Johnson, formerly in charge of the home economics department of the Congress of Women's Clubs. She, too, emphasized the value of care in measures and heat of ovens.

Mrs. Thurn, who comes to us from South Bend, Indiana, believes:

"The greatest trouble in married life today is because of financial matters—and due largely to the fact that so many housewives do not realize that unless they have some sort of system they cannot keep matters straight."

Food, shelter and clothing were listed as the necessities and Mrs. Thurn says:

"The way in which we live depends largely upon our ability to choose values. If we are to spend thoughtfully and efficiently we must have a definite plan. The family is a corporation. Men have conventions and once or twice a year to discuss systems that help to make their business a success. The housewife must have a definite system if she is to make a success of the greatest job in the world."

Here is a clever economist's plan of the division of income that she advised her hearers to follow. The figures are based upon $2,500 yearly for a family of father, mother and two children.

Ten per cent should be saved. Operating expenses 15 per cent of income. This is for the things needed to carry on the operating of the home, such as electric contrivances and even to soap and laundry.

Shelter, 22½ per cent. For rental or payments on a home. By all means buy a home if possible, for that is money saved and put into something permanent. Food, 20 per cent; clothes, 22½ per cent, and advancement, 10 per cent.

Advancement means amusements, church and club dues, gifts and medical service. Mrs. Thurn urged her audience, whenever possible, to give 10 per cent of their incomes to their church and charities.

Hostesses for the day were Mrs. C. F. Beachler, Mrs. J. A. Cole and Mrs. J. N. Cruean of the Crafton Heights Women's Club. They assisted Mrs. Thurn.

At various times during and after cooking demonstration, questions were asked, and afterward the housewives flocked to the stage to meet Mrs. Thurn and look her paraphernalia over personally.

The nursery was full of happy boys and girls whose relieved mamas were happy that they were being taken care of. The Soho Day Nursery has established a branch for the school, under the direction of Mrs. George S. Jenks, chairman. Miss Margaret O'Shea, kindergartner of the nursery, is assisted by Margaret Voegler and Josephine Poplewski.

The school will continue today from 2 o'clock to 4, tomorrow from 2 to 4 and tomorrow night from 7:30 to 9:30.

900 Acres Added to City

The population of Pittsburgh was due to be increased by 2,000 and a property area of 900 acres, with a valuation of $917,000, was added to Greater Pittsburgh by action of the electors of Union township, who yesterday voted for annexation to the city. The vote was 427 to 119 for merging with the larger municipality.

The township is bounded on the north and east by the city, on the south by Dormont and Mt. Lebanon township, and on the west by Greentree.

Vare Vote Quiz Gets Setback

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—A second setback was handed the James A. Reed Senate Committee today in the fight to gain possession of the Delaware county ballots used in the election when William S. Vare was elected to the Senate.

The Federal Circuit Court of Appeals today dismissed the Reed committee appeal from the recent ruling of Federal Judge Thompson that the local court had no jurisdiction in the affair and that the matter was up to the United States Senate.

NEW YORK VOTE BACKS SMITH ON AMENDMENTS

Issue Governor Fought Beaten By 1,000,000

By International News Service.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 9.—Gov. Al Smith today has another feather in his political cap. The constitutional amendment which would have doubled the term of Governor from two to four years, bitterly opposed by Gov. Smith, was defeated at yesterday's election by close to 1,000,000 votes, according to reports received by leaders of both major political parties here early today.

Out of nine constitutional amendments, the voters of New York state approved eight that Gov. Smith approved and decisively defeated one that the Governor opposed.

The Governor fought the Republican "term extender" because it provided that after next year all governors should be elected in presidential years. In his campaign through the state he charged that the Republican proposal would cause confusion between state and national issues and might be the means of an inferior candidate for governor sliding into office on the coattails of a presidential candidate.

Originally Gov. Smith proposed a four-year term for chief executive, but under his plan elections would be held in the so-called off years.

Chief among the amendments approved were the constitutional executive budget, sponsored by Gov. Smith, extending New York City's borrowing capacity by $300,000,000, the money to be used for subways, increasing the salary of governor from $10,000 to $25,000 a year and that of members of the legislature from $1,500 to $2,500, and permitting counties to bear the share of the cost of grade crossing elimination, which now falls on municipalities.

The Republicans, on the face of incomplete returns, apparently have gained one or two seats in the state assembly. The 1927 assembly was composed of 84 Republicans and 66 Democrats.

Fire Victim Finds Friend Kept Up Insurance

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Nov. 9. —There was good news today for Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Black and their six children, whose modest home and its contents were destroyed by fire yesterday.

Saddened because he had allowed his fire insurance to lapse, Black was overcome by joy when he was told that a friend, John Irwin, city health officer, had kept up the policy secretly. Black was painfully burned in rescuing his two youngest children from the flames.

SAN FRANCISCO ELECTS ROLPH

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—(AP.) —Mayor James Rolph, Jr., today emerged victorious by a wide margin in the city and county election, defeating James E. Power, his strongest opponent, by a majority of some 30,000 votes on the face of complete unofficial returns. This gives Rolph a fifth term of four years.

Rolph won a complete victory by virtue of the defeat of Sheriff Tom Finn, who had combined forces with Power in the fight for the offices of mayor and sheriff. Rolph's fight swept W. J. Fitzgerald, the Mayor's candidate for sheriff, into office by about 29,000 majority, the returns showed.

GLENN KAMMER, SPECIALIST IN RADIUM, DIES

Glenn D. Kammer, 39, vice president, director and chief chemist of the Radium Dial Company, died Monday night in his home at 5327 Beeler street. Mr. Kammer formerly was assistant director of the radium research laboratory of the Standard Chemical Company of Pittsburgh but left that organization in 1917 when the Radium Dial Company was organized.

Mr. Kammer spent much of his time in research work and he is said to have done most of the work in developing the sensitive phosphorescent zinc sulphide which is the base for radium luminous paint. He was born in Ionia, Mich., but came here when a young man. He graduated from Allegheny High School and received his degree of bachelor of science in chemical engineering at the University of Pittsburgh. The university awarded him a degree of doctor of philosophy in 1925.

He was a member of the American Chemical Society, the University Club, the Faculty Club, Pittsburgh Field Club, Delta Sigma Phi chapter of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity, and the Phi Lambda Upsilon fraternity. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Marion Smart Condon Kammer.

GAS VICTIM IS REVIVED

Revived by firemen who worked on him for more than an hour after he had been overcome by gas in the bathroom of his home at 1619 Antrim street this morning, John Ambrose, 21, was removed to the St. John's Hospital, where he was reported to be recovering from the effects of the gas. The man was found lying near a small stove, the gas turned on but unlighted.

Relatives in the house were awakened by Ambrose moaning and they found him unconscious on the bathroom floor. A call was sent to the fire alarm operator and members of Company No. 55 responded and worked on the unconscious man with a pulmotor. After reviving him he was sent to the St. John's General Hospital.

Mind Quirks Shown In Three Wills

Unusual quirks of the human mind in contemplation of the great adventure—Death—and the workings of fate before the consummation of wishes expressed in wills were revealed today when three such instruments were filed for probate at the county courthouse.

Joshua E. Bailey, Milligan avenue, Swissvale, directed in his will that his body be cremated and the ashes buried under a tree which his son, Harry, shall plant on a site selected by the son.

The estate of $6,000 was bequeathed to the wife, Lottie Bailey.

Twelve words, written in German on a sheet from his memo book, constituted the will of John Seidel, 1403 Howard street. He wrote:

"Everything that I possess shall my wife, Margarita Seidel, possess."

The estate is valued at $15,000.

On August 18, 1920, Frank Jarez and his wife, Sophie, of 823 Madison avenue, made out their wills.

October 19, last, Jarez, a saloonkeeper, shot and killed his wife and then turned the gun on himself. She died first.

Today their wills were filed for probate. The husband left all—$500—to the wife. The wife left all—$8,000—to the husband.

GIRL CARESSES MOTHER TRIED FOR MURDER

By Universal Service.

LIBERTY, Ind., Nov. 9.—With the arm of her 15-year-old daughter about her, attractive little Mrs. Margaret Smith sits in the Union County Court House calmly attending the selection of a jury which is to try her on a first degree murder charge growing out of the death of her husband, more than a year ago.

Exhumed 13 months after his death, Smith's vital organs showed three times as much arsenic as would be needed to kill an average man.

Anonymous letters received by Coroner E. R. Beard led to the digging up of the body. Analysis by chemists proved that the poison had been administered.

Sure Way to Stop Night Coughing

A Prescription That Ends Night Coughs in 15 Minutes

Persistent night coughing is usually due to causes which cough syrups and patent medicines do not touch. A remarkable prescription known as Thoxine, working on an entirely different principle, goes direct to the cause, and is guaranteed to stop the stubbornest cough within 15 minutes. One swallow is all that's needed. If it fails, get your money back. No chloroform or other harmful drugs. Safe for children. Equally good for sore throat, for which purpose it is far superior to gargles. Ask for Thoxine. 35c, 60c, and $1.00. At all druggists.

C. OF C. HEARS ADDRESS ON EDUCATION

Under the auspices of the Education Committee, of which Dr. S. B. Linhart of the University of Pittsburgh is chairman, the members of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce yesterday heard an address by Dr. Arthur Ernest Morgan, president of Antioch College.

Dr. Morgan, invited to Pittsburgh to help the chamber in a special observance of National Education Week spoke on "The College For New America." He declared the spirit of the present age is to challenge all existing ideas in government, religion, industry and education and demand the reason for all our institutions. He believes that when the present revolution is compelte enormous changes will have taken place, resulting in more efficiency in business and industry, more leisure, greater political and social freedom and an education better adapted to requirements of practical every-day living. He described the educational system of Antioch College, where students alternate every three weeks between cultural studies and work in shops and factories.

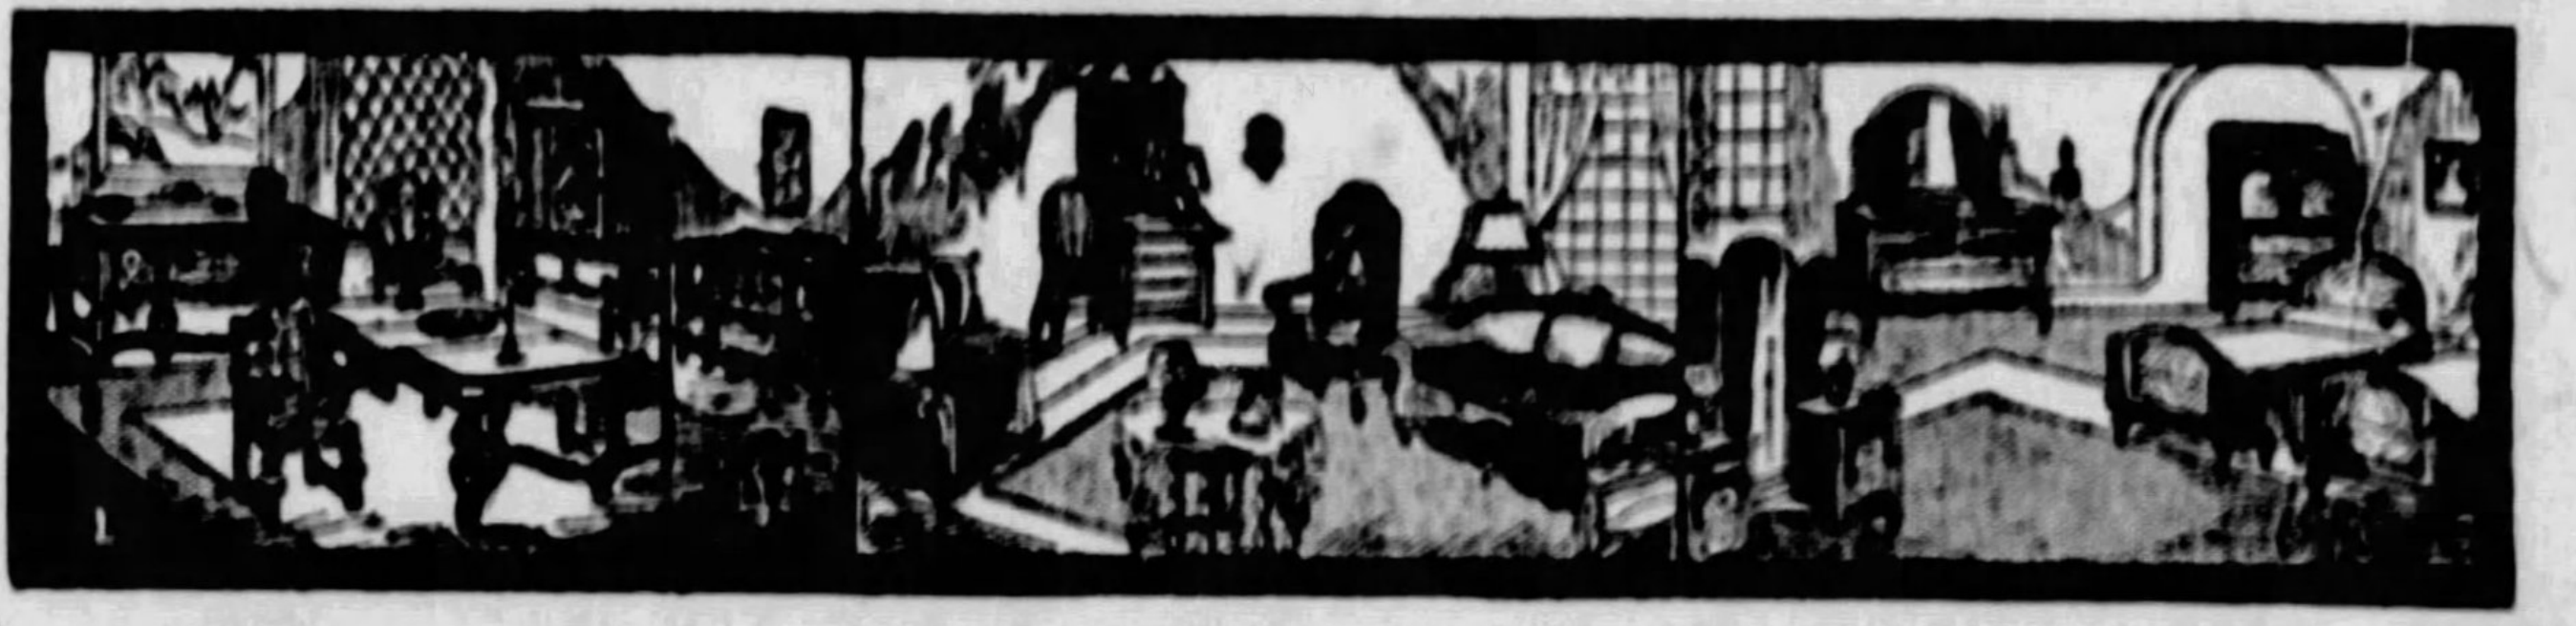
In a spirit of helpfulness, the Kaufmann & Baer Co. has furnished three rooms completely at an expenditure of one thousand dollars. It is an accomplishment which excites the utmost admiration of all who see it, particularly those interested in furnishing for Thanksgiving . . . On the ninth floor.



Three Rooms Completely Outfitted, $1,000

The Living Room

You enter the living room and the whole effect is one of cheery coziness and an invitation to be at ease. Nothing is garish, nothing that injures your sense of the esthetic. Everything complements everything else, as though a master hand had chosen each piece lovingly, with thought and skill. Three stirring bits of beauty add the essential color—a lovely scarf draped with studied carelessness over the gateleg table, a blue china lamp with parchment shade, and a unique lamp from Czecho-Slovakia that ornaments the secretary.

The Dining Room

You leave the living room with regret to visit the companion dining room that looks like a picture from House and Garden. The ten-piece suite is an artistic, modern conception of the Spanish. Incidentally, in itself it is one of the finest values in the Kaufmann & Baer furniture stocks. On the table is a console set of ingenious design; on the server a berry set from England; on the sideboard a fruit bowl and demijohn of antique origin; all in fullsome harmony.

The Bedroom Is Simple

The final room of the thousand-dollar group, the bedroom, is fittingly simple, yet gracious in atmosphere. Essentially a room of repose, with not a disturbing note in its treatment. A suite that is almost austere in its simplicity, full or twin beds. The boudoir lamps of pottery with cretonne shades that lend the appropriate color to complement the richly figured rayon bedspreads.

The miracle of it all is that we have seen room ensembles effected at comparatively vast sums which do not have half the warmth and tasteful charm. You are in no sense bound to accept our version in its entirety. You may choose any or all pieces in the three rooms, at the plainly marked prices. You may choose other pieces from our amply provided home departments to supplement selections from this thousand dollar group. Many home builders will prefer the group "as is."

MACKEY SWEEPS PHILADELPHIA; OTHER PA. RESULTS

VARE FORCES ARE VICTORIOUS IN EAST

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—The Republican organization, under the leadership of Senator-elect William S. Vare, is still in the saddle in Philadelphia.

Efforts by independents to unhorse it at yesterday's municipal election met with failure. The entire organization ticket, headed by Harry A. Mackey for Mayor, was swept into office by overwhelming pluralities.

Mackey's majority over J. Hampton Moore, Citizens' party candidate, with returns tabulated from 1,380 of the 1,517 districts in the city, was 154,582.

The rout of the independents was complete. Moore apparently carried only one of the 48 wards.

Senator-elect Vare said the heavy Republican vote was a notice to the country that Philadelphia was still the stronghold of Republicanism and Mackey for mayor, was swept into that it would "give heart and courage to Republicans everywhere upon the eve of the presidential election."

"It is gratifying to know," he added, "that the citizens of Philadelphia refused to be sidetracked in the campaign by false issues or idle talk.

GRATEFUL TO SMOOT

"I think it proper to say at this time that Philadelphia Republicans are grateful to United States Senator Reed Smoot for his visit to this city during the campaign and for his splendid address on taxation."

Leaders of the Citizens' party asserted that many irregularities had been discovered and that proceedings would be started for the opening of a number of ballot boxes.

Moore and his supporters made a drive to overthrow the leadership of the Republican organization on the ground that it was extravagant and tyrannical, while Mackey based his campaign on promises of economy in administration of city affairs and party regularity.

James M. Beck, Republican, was elected to Congress from the First District of Philadelphia, defeating Dr. John P. Muirenan, his Democratic opponent, by a huge majority. Mr. Beck is a former United States solicitor general.

William W. Roper, head coach of the Princeton football team, won a clean-cut victory in his race for reelection to city council.

WARREN COUNTY

WARREN, Pa., Nov. 9.—Defeated at three earlier elections, Warren's $550,000 bond issue was finally approved yesterday by a vote of 2,710 to 410. In the chief county race M. A. Olney, Democrat, won the minority seat for county commissioner over Henry Didelsperger by a small margin. Dr. C. J. Frantz, Democrat, defeated C. A. Anderson, Republican, for council in the Eighth Ward.

CANONSBURG

CANONSBURG, Pa., Nov. 9.—Canonsburg will remain a borough. Voters yesterday, by a 2 to 1 vote, rejected the proposal to become a third class city. A bond issue of $75,000 for street improvements was approved, but one for $12,000 to be expended for a park was defeated.

WASHINGTON COUNTY

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 9.—Close mayoralty contests in Washington and Monongahela City yesterday almost prevented a clean sweep by Republicans in all the major contests of the day.

Robert H. McBurney, Republican, won over Mayor W. W. Hoyt, Democrat, by only 159 votes in unofficial returns in Washington, while in Monongahela, Dr. S. C. Stahlman, Republican, was hard pressed by John B. Oehrl, Democrat, his unofficial margin being 296 votes.

Republican nominees for county offices won out by large majorities, there being no real opposition to them. W. A. Barnes, of Avella, at present a member of the board, was re-elected by the Democrats. Republicans elected to county office are: Commissioners, J. Elmer Johnston, Canonsburg, and James W. Walker, West Pikerun township; district attorney, Warren S. Burchinal, Washington; register, Robert J. Coulson, Donora; treasurer, John N. O'Neil, Jr., Washington; clerk of courts, E. G. McGregor, Washington; coroner, William B. Baker, Washington; prothonotary, Ernest T. McNary, Canonsburg; director of poor, James B. Wray, Union township, and county surveyor, George S. Chaney.

VENANGO COUNTY

FRANKLIN, Nov. 9.—Though there were more split tickets in Tuesday's election than ever before in Venango county history, nearly all the Republican candidates carried through to victory. The splitting was because of the energetic candidacies of Joseph A. McElhaney, Independent, and W. P. Ferringer, Democrat, for county commissioner. McElhaney was elected, along with Fred Gates, of Oil City, and John E. Ritchey, regular Republicans. There were no upsets. Gen. George C. Rickards won for registrar and recorder; Miss Nan Lynch for county treasurer, and Miss Elizabeth Swyers for prothonotary. In Franklin E. H. Cribbs had a 400 plurality over Miss Emolyn Williams, incumbent, for city treasurer.

BEAVER COUNTY

BEAVER, Nov. 9.—The entire Republican ticket was swept into office in Beaver county yesterday, Headed by A. W. Coombs and W. O. Coulter, commissioners; Joseph J. Zimmerman, treasurer; Ben H. Hoss, register and recorder; J. Blaine McGoun, re-elected district attorney over Sam B. Wilson; Miss Wilhelmina Behnaman, clerk of courts, first woman ever elected to office in Beaver county; Charles C. Galton, controller; Dr. Harry C. McCarter, coroner, and Michael Baker, county surveyor. Walter M. Goettman, Brighton township, Democrat, is leading William A. Freed, Democrat, by 254 votes and Enoch Engle on the Prohibition ticket by 592 votes for commissioner. For district attorney, McGoun, Republican, is leading Wilson, Democrat, by more than 2,335 votes.

BUTLER COUNTY

BUTLER, Nov. 9.—Victor K. Oesterling, Democrat, was elected treasurer of Butler yesterday by a majority of 58 over Ralph K. Kramer, Republican. This was the only real contest in the city, the Republicans winning two places on council by the election of Lewis N. Forsythe and Matt Yost. The entire Republican ticket is elected in the county, with the possible exception of district attorney. Charles H. Miller, Republican, is leading F. Clair Ross, Democrat, by about 406 votes, with the probability that the count will show him maintaining this lead.

LAWRENCE COUNTY

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Nov. 9.—Complete unofficial returns show William H. Gillespie, Democrat, has been elected as mayor over Louise G. Genkinger, Republican nominee and city councilman during the past two years. The vote was: Gillespie, 5,-116; Genkinger, 4,924. This is the only upset in the Republican ticket. Miss Adda C. Smiley, Republican nominee for county treasurer, won in an easy manner from her male opponents on the Democratic and Citizens' tickets.

Other results: Judge, James A. Chambers; prothonotary, Ralph M. Campbell; county auditors, R. C. McCaslin, Jr., and A. Scott Kildoo; county commissioners, Thomas J. McCullough and P. O. Elder; coroner, J. P. Caldwell; city council, W. T. Burns and Clayton H. Reeves; city controller, Alvah H. Porter; school directors for six years, Mrs. Rose M. Northdurft, Roy W. Hazen and Walter W. Duff; school director for four years, A. C. Hyde.

Calvin C. Boyd was elected county commissioner and William J. Eroe, Jr., county auditor by the Democrats.

WESTMORELAND COUNTY

GREENSBURG, Nov. 9.—The Republican ticket made a clean sweep in yesterday's election in Westmoreland county.

Ray B. Johnson, of Latrobe, Republican candidate for sheriff, probably will lead the ticket with an overwhelming majority. Garfield A. McDowell, for controller, and W. C. Henderson, for register of wills, will have great pluralities. Philip C. King, of Parnassus, will be an easy winner for county treasurer. Mrs. Emma C. Mowry, of Derry, will win over Mrs. Anna Ewing Colt, of Latrobe, for recorder of deeds.

Probabilities are that the board of county commissioners will all be reelected. Elliott L. Hibbs and James F. Torrance, the Republicans, are sure winners, while John P. Kilgore has a comfortable lead of approximately 1,000 over David C. Cramer in 48 precincts of the 214 districts in the county. Dr. James Harkins, Mt. Pleasant, was re-elected coroner.

Harry N. Yont was elected first Mayor of Greensburg. His lead over Keener is 526.

For Council John Barclay and Winfield Scott Lane were elected to the two four-year terms. Robert J. Feightner and Henry S. Coshey will be the councilmen for the two-year terms.

Homer Bair will be the first City Controller of Greensburg. He won over Herbert Wirsing.

CLEARFIELD COUNTY

CLEARFIELD, Pa., Nov. 9.—With 60 out of 112 precincts in the county, the returns show the probable election of all Republicans, as follows:

Controller, A. G. Woodward, Republican, 5,190; James Conne..y (D.), 3,848; prothonotary, George W. Ralston (R.), for third term, 6,225; Fred Reed (D.), 3,761; register and recorder, Milford Bratton, 6,374; McCausland (D.), 3,174; county commissioners, George Minns (R.), 5,731; Cliff Gatehouse (R.), 4,961; Con Allen (D.), 4,505; W. E. Tobias (D.), 4,401.

CENTER COUNTY

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Nov. 9.—Almost complete figures on yesterday's election indicate at W. Harrison Walker, Democrat, defeated M. Ward Fleming, Republican, for judge of Center county by less than 100 votes and both sides claim that it may require the official count to determine the winner. Mr. Fleming was declared for the office by State Senator Harry B. Scott, of Philipsburg, and defeated James C. Farst, Gov. Fisher's appointee, at the primaries for the Republican nomination. The Democrats also elected the sheriff and possibly the county treasurer.

INDIANA COUNTY

INDIANA, Pa., Nov. 9.—Twenty-eight precincts out of 77 in Indiana county show that the Republican ticket will be elected by an overwhelming majority. The only fight was between C. L. Campbell and J. L. Henderson, both Democrats, for the office of county commissioner. Henderson is leading Campbell two to one. A large majority of the Republicans split their tickets. In five wards in Indiana Borough and two precincts in White township, there were 2,872 votes polled. In this number only 368 voted the straight Republican ticket.

SOMERSET COUNTY

SOMERSET, Pa., Nov. 9.—Miss June Werner, Republican and Democratic nominee for prothonotary, was given an unprecedented tribute by the voters of Somerset county yesterday. She was elected by a vote of approximately 10 to 1 over Paul E. Cotton, former assemblyman, who was running on the Prohibition and Labor tickets. Early returns indicated Miss Werner received 8,600 votes to 860 for Cotton. Miss Werner has served eight years as deputy prothonotary. An effort to defeat John Bender, twice minority member of the board of county commissioners, by John P. Statler running on the anti-third-term ticket was unsuccessful. Returns today gave Bender a 2 to 1 lead over Statler. Peter Saylor and Peter Kreger, Republicans, were elected commissioners by large majorities.

MERCER COUNTY

MERCER, Pa., Nov. 9.—With only scattered returns from 20 of Mercer county's 95 precincts in early today, indications were that Leo McKay of Sharon, Republican, would be elected district attorney over Joseph Nelson, Mercer, Independent, in the most spirited contest in the county. The sheriff race between William Eagleton, Republican, Sharon, and D. K. Callahan, Democrat, Greenville, was very close. The complete vote probably will be needed to decide the winner. All Republican nominees in the city from Mayor Frank Gilbert down were elected with no opposition.

In the county commissioner fight Harry Hunter, W. A. Bone and Harry Gibson were waging a close contest. In the other county offices all Republican nominees were elected. The $200,000 bond issue for a county tubercular hospital was given majorities in all parts of the county, while the annexation issue in Sharon was a winner.

BLAIR COUNTY

ALTOONA, Nov. 9.—The entire Republican ticket in Altoona and Blair county was swept into office yesterday, District Attorney Marion D. Patterson easily winning the judgeship from Robert E. Henderson, Altoona, Democrat. The closest contest was for district attorney, Richard E. Gilbert, Tyrone, winning by less than 500 votes from former Assemblyman D. Lloyd Claycomb, Democrat. John J. MacMurray is the new Altoona mayor. He defeated Mayor Ellsworth F. Giles, Democrat, by more than 3,000 votes, carrying every precinct in the city. Commissioners William C. Craine and Bence Keatley, Treasurer John H. Martin and Controller W. T. Canan were re-elected by big margins. Max Dunmire, Juniata, won in a field of five for county treasurer, his candidacy being the only

MODERN LAUNDRY EQUIPMENT
Should Match Modern Laundry Appliances

HERE'S a picture of the average laundry. Maybe it's yours. A mangle—electric iron—a washing machine that's the last world in efficiency and sanitation. And over there in a dark corner against the wall the "stationary" laundry trays.

"Stationary" is right. "Stationary" at a back breaking height; "Stationary" in a spot that is inconvenient to say the least and "Stationary" in design, too—why bless your heart that steeply sloping front was the height of efficiency in 1888—and it hasn't been changed since.

Now Listen—

The Porceliron Laundry Tray—like two big white china bowls—is planned and made to meet modern methods and modern ideas of sanitation and cleanliness.

Symmetrical in shape; adjustable in height; made to be set in the most convenient location; all surfaces—outside as well as inside—smooth as a sheet of glass; no corners, cracks, seams or joints inside the tub; made of material that has demonstrated its durability in more than a decade of household service. And—

Priced within the reach of even modest incomes.

That's the Porceliron Laundry Tray. Want complete details? Ask your plumber—or write us direct.

VARE FORCES VICTORIOUS

one attacked prior to election. He polled a heavy vote. Dan Brumbaugh was the only Democrat to go to a county office. He was elected to the county commissioners' board. Altoona voted heavily in favor of annexation of Allegheny Furnace, Mansion Park and Locust Hills, suburban stations.

FAYETTE COUNTY

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Nov. 9.—All Republican candidates with the exception of Judge Thomas H. Hudson, president judge of Fayette county, who is seeking re-election, were leading by about 4,000 votes over the Democratic candidates with 44 of the 115 precincts heard from this morning.

Judge Hudson's election seems certain over H. S. Dumbauld, Democrat, although the margin between these candidates is less than that of the others. In 44 precints Hudson received 8,585 votes and Dumbauld 6,650. The election of Hudson with a majority of about 1,000 votes is generally conceded and the figures may run even higher.

The election of none of the other county Republican candidate is in doubt. Judge J. W. Dawson, of the Orphans Court, is leading H. A. Cotton, Democrat, by more than 7,000, while S. A. Baltz is almost that far ahead of Dr. E. C. Hough. N. W. Rasenberg is more than 3,000 votes ahead of David E. Bane for district attorney, with Tom Aubrey, of Brownsville, leading E. S. Tyler, of Point Marion, by 3,599 votes. Alex Duncan has been elected county controller over R. F. Sample by about 2,500 votes with Hibbs and Langley being re-elected as county commissioners, and with E. H. McClelland leading M. A. McCormick for the minority place on the board of commissioners. Ruse was elected register of wills over Gates; Sheriff J. Q Adams was elected county treasurer; Arensberg, recorder of deeds; Kennell clerk of courts, and Higinbotham, poor director.

Luther L. Crawford, aged 34, a local business man and member of the American Legion, was elected mayor over R. D. Warman, Democrat, and present incumbent, by at least 1,000 votes. Dan O. Little, Democrat, and also member of the American Legion, probably is elected city controller over H. D. Leonard by several hundred. Bailey was named city treasurer over McMullen and Williams and Wentzel were named school directors, with McKean running close to Williams.

GREENE COUNTY

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Nov. 9.—Unofficial returns from 41 districts in Greene county early today gave Frank Hill, Republican, a majority of 2,172 votes over J. C. Cole, Democrat, in the race for county treasurer. Hill polled a total of 6,267 votes in the face of an almost solid Democratic opposition throughout the rural sections of the county. Cole polled 4,095 votes. The Democratic supremacy in the county commissionership was retained, however. J. N. Scott, Democrat, led with 5,445; Paul Debolt, Republican, second, with 4,584; M. P. Headley, Democrat, third, with 4,542, while J. L. Hartley, Republican, trailed with 3,266. O. R. Hughes, Democrat, polled 4,872 votes for district attorney, while Frank Throckmorton, Republican, had 4,220. For clerk of courts Russell Roberts, Democrat, had 4,895, while Charles Orndoff, Republican, had 2,725.

Frank Silveus, Democrat, was an easy winner for the office of register and recorder, polling 5,828, against the 2,725 given his opponent, Clarence Yoders, Republican.

CRAWFORD COUNTY

MEADVILLE, Pa., Nov. 9.—Twenty-one out of 64 precincts in Crawford county in perhaps the closest political contest ever waged here, give these figures: For judge, Kent, Republican, 2,360; Prather, Democrat, 2,020; treasurer, Fleming, 1,962; Hart, 966; Nichols, 995; register and recorder, Jackson, Democrat, 2,075; Hood, Democrat, 2,116; district attorney, McClintock, Republican, 1,575; Culbertson, 1,840; prothonotary, Greeley, Independent, 1,875; Maxwell, 1,522; clerk of courts, Sterling, Republican, 2,115; Smith, 1,382; commissioner, Conover, Republican, 2,365; Dane, Republican, 1,075; Roudebush 1,645; Cutshall, 1,427; Thompson, 585.

ERIE COUNTY

ERIE, Pa., Nov. 9.—James Lavery, candidate of the Good Roads party, failed to unseat Joseph Rogan, county commissioner for 18 years, in face of incomplete returns checked today in one of the strangest elections in the history of Erie county. Allen MacLean, present county treasurer, and Charles R. Davis were the Republican winners for the office. Harry W. Moomy and Dr. G. P. Spaulding were elected directors of poor; W. C. Missimer, James E. Speed and John McDonald as school directors; Reg O. Howell, register of wills; Odessie H. Pate, recorder of deeds; James B. Yard, prothonotary; Annette Young, clerk of courts; Otto B. Herbst, district attorney; Rollo McCray, county treasurer; Dan S. Hanley, county coroner; C. C. Hill, county surveyor. Joseph C. Williams, Republican and Democratic nominee, was re-elected mayor; Roy T. MacDonald, city controller; Michael J. Cronin, city treasurer; William D. Kenney and William G. Haas, city council; aldermen, First Ward, Charles Barber; Second Ward, Frank Gackowski; Third Ward, Frank I. Bassett; Fourth Ward, Edward Shugart; Fifth Ward, Thomas Conyngham.

Red itching blisters on baby's face healed by Resinol

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 19:—"My baby had eczema for three months and nothing seemed to do him any good until I tried your products. His cheeks were red and covered with blisters, and the itching was so annoying that he could not sleep.

After reading your ad in the paper I purchased a jar of Resinol Ointment and a cake of Resinol Soap. Only a few applications stopped the itching entirely and within a week the redness was gone and his skin practically clear. Your ointment is really wonderful and I will praise it to everyone." Watch the ICE-O-LATOR Work
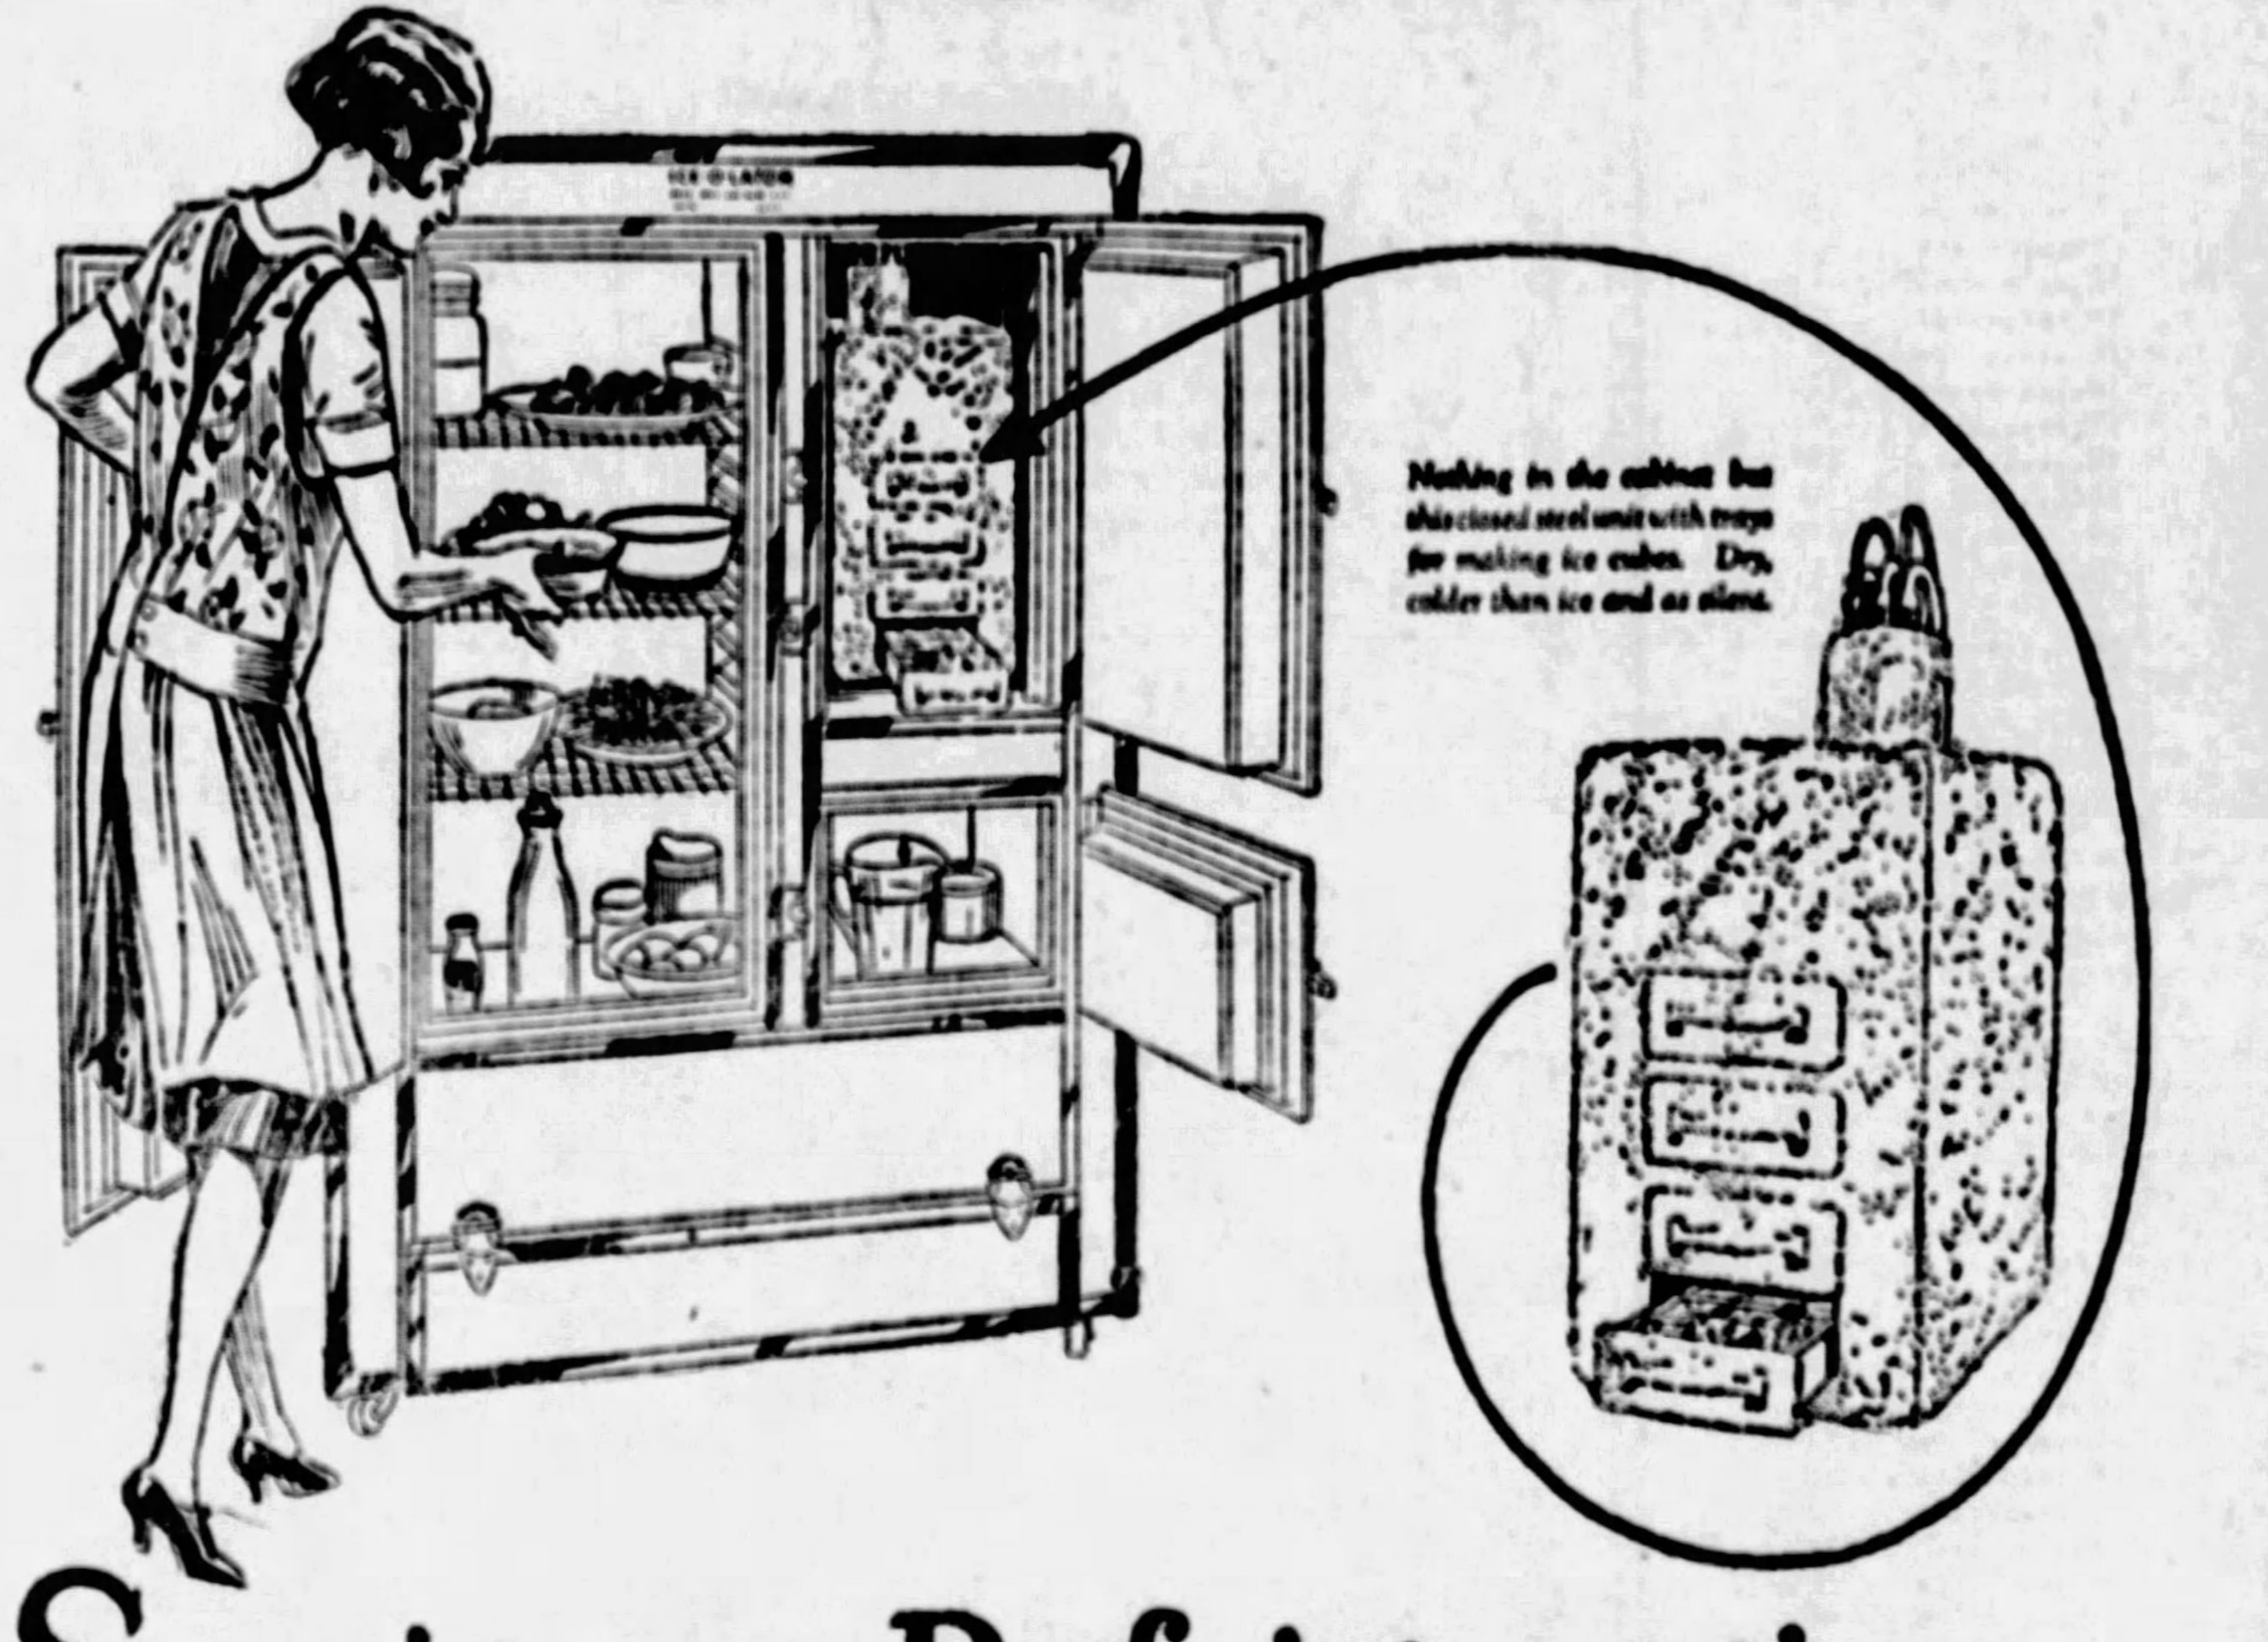
It Runs On Gas
See It Demonstrated at the Sun-Telegraph Cooking School



Nothing in the cabinet but this closed steel unit with trays for making ice cubes. Dry, colder than ice and as silent.

Sanitary Refrigeration with absolute silence

The ICE-O-LATOR Runs on GAS!

A moderate gas flame, burning only part of the time, operates the ICE-O-LATOR.

And keeping your ICE-O-LATOR running is just as simple as that . . . you light it like your water heater and then forget it.

See it at the cooking school or any day at our appliance display room.

Convenient Terms

A small payment down and one each month with your gas bill puts an ICE-O-LATOR in your home.

ONLY dry refrigeration is sanitary. Only a dry, cold refrigerator preserves foods longest and keeps them healthful. Only sanitary refrigeration is wanted by the modern woman and Ice-O-Lator has halved its cost.

Using gas as a fuel, Ice-O-Lator produces and circulates its chilling fluid through the cooling coils at half the cost of other methods. Ice-O-Lator, eliminating the usual moving parts, is silent as ice itself, costs little to operate and almost nothing for upkeep. Once installed, you can dismiss it from your mind, but you'll be everlastingly thankful for having it.

See for yourself

See the Ice-O-Lator silently do its work. We're proud to show it and glad to answer questions.

NAB SICK MAN IN THEFT OF U. S. FUNDS

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Charged with embezzling $2,500 of government funds H. Clay Powell, head of the Washington collection office of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, was placed under arrest in his bed in a local hospital. He has been ill for some time.

Powell is alleged to have diverted to his own use cash and checks received in payment of delinquent taxes. Assistant United States Attorney Rover said a much larger amount than $2,500 is involved.

The amount of the alleged shortage is covered by Powell's bond, according to Galen L. Tait, collector for the Maryland, District of Columbia District. Tait removed Powell from office and placed Chief Field Deputy A. Parks Basin in charge.

Powell was placed under $5,000 bond for a hearing December 8.

3,500 of Sun-Tele's Club to See Film

More than 3,500 members of the Sun-Tele Birdhouse Club, next Saturday morning at a quarter of 9, are going to see Mary Pickford in "My Best Girl." And they are going to see an unusual picture, for all the advance notices have it that this is a real Pickford picture, with an extra quantity of laughs put in it.

But admission to the theater will be by membership card only, and those who arrive first will get their choice of the best seats.

The Pickford cast, in addition to the well-known Mary, will include other stars. Charles Rogers, Sunshine Hart, Lucien Littlefield, Carmelita Geraghty, Hobart Bosworth, Evelyn Hall, Avonne Taylor and Mack Dwain comprise the entire line-up of picture stars.

The manager of the Penn Theater, Louis Lanning, was especially pleased the way the boys and girls of the club enjoyed the last show. He complimented them on their orderliness, and declared he is glad to have them back again.

But don't forget the time, and the membership card.

MOTHER OF TWO OHIO LUTHERAN PASTORS DIES

DOVER, O., Nov. 9—Mrs. D. P. Ebert, wife of the Lutheran pastor at Trenton, and mother of the Rev. Paul Ebert, pastor of Grace Lutheran Church here, and the Rev. Walter Ebert, Lima Lutheran pastor, died yesterday in her home in Trenton of apoplexy with which she was stricken last Friday.

PORTER SHUNS PHILIPPINES

Congressman Stephen G. Porter, who came home yesterday to vote, does not have his eyes on the governor-generalship of the Philippines. He said so today and cited the fact that President Coolidge has indicated that Mr. Porter can render a greater service by sticking to the job he has.

Congressman Porter said this work had to do with the narcotic situation, a subject he has been giving much attention. Mr. Porter feels grateful for the favorable way in which his name has been considered, but believes his work at home more important.

KIWANIS CLUB HOST TO WOUNDED VETERANS

Two hundred wounded war veterans will be guests at the Armistice Day program at the Kiwanis Club's weekly luncheon meeting in the Fort Pitt Hotel tomorrow. Congressman Clyde Kelly will speak, and following the meeting the vets will be guests at Loew's Penn Theater.

ARMY OF UNEMPLOYED STARTS MARCH ON LONDON

Welsh Miners Begin Trek to Capital

NEWPORT, Monmouthshire, England, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—The little army of the unemployed started its march to London today to present a "petition in boots" to Parliament on the situation in the Welsh coal fields. A. J. Cook, secretary of the British Federation of Miners, who recruited the army, was not here, however, to give the marching order. He was retained in London.

There was a nip in the air and the men—about 400 strong—started off with sprightly steps, singing marching songs and cheered by thousands of men, women and children.

Quite a number of the marchers were old men with canes, who, the organizers said, will not attempt to march all the way. Those sponsoring the march said that thousands had applied to join it, but that only the physically fit were enlisted for the entire distance, as it was desired to have the men arrive in London in as good a physical condition as possible.

Many of those in the ranks were men in their twenties. They smoked pipes and cigarets as they tramped along. They carried haversacks and homemade banners and slogans setting forth their aims.

Leaving Newport, the marching men swung past the ruins of the Twelfth Century castle of Robert of Gloucester, which was destroyed by Oliver Cromwell. As they passed into the country they sang "The Internationale." This and other revolutionary songs set the pace for the trek which they hoped would land them in London November 29.

LAY SUICIDE TRY TO RUM, MONEY

Moonshine and money were the motives advanced by two would-be suicides in North Side Police Court today. Charles A. Askey, 24, of 2040 East Lacock street, said booze had inspired him to stab himself in a Madison avenue saloon last Sunday. Magistrate E. M. Hough sentenced him to a $10 fine or 30 days in jail.

Paul Russ, 25, of 345 East Ohio street, admitted his low wages had driven him to place a gas hose in his mouth at his home. He was discharged.

POKE RUN MAN BEATEN AND ROBBED OF $2,700

GREENSBURG, Pa., Nov. 9.—State police are searching for two Negroes who, they say, beat Thomas Moorehead, 40, of Poke Run, and robbed him of $2,700 as he stepped from his auto to enter his home. Moorehead said he had just returned from Pittsburgh with the money.

TWO ITALIAN AVIATORS DIE IN PLANE CRASH

ROME, Nov. 9.—(INS.)—Two aviators were killed today when their military plane crashed to the ground at the Centocelle Airdrome.

The victims were Capt. Moldini, the pilot of the plane, and Maj. Engineer Jules Elliot, who was receiving instructions from Moldini.

MEXICO STREET HOME LOOTED FOR JEWELRY

Gas in the Stomach Is Truly Dangerous

Gas, Pain, Bloating and a feeling of fullness after eating are almost certain evidence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach.

Too much acid irritates the delicate stomach lining, frequently causing chronic Gastritis and dangerous Ulcers. Food ferments and sours, forming a gas that distends the stomach and often seriously affects the Heart.

It is genuine folly to neglect such a condition or to treat with artificial digestive aids that cannot neutralize the stomach acid. A better way is to get from your druggist a few tiny tablets of Bisurated Magnesia and take three or four of them after each meal. This famous but simple and inexpensive stomach sweetener and anti-acid can be depended upon to prove its value in less than five minutes. In most instances relief comes instantly. Pleasant and perfectly harmless to use—Bisurated Magnesia tablets do give wonderful relief in nine out of ten cases. Ask your Doctor or Druggist.

COOKING SCHOOL ECHOES

CRISP, WHOLESOME Fried Foods —without smoke or odor

NATURALLY when it comes to frying, the most important ingredient is the fat, so I am going to tell you why I prefer Crisco.

In the first place, Crisco fries the food to perfection before it is hot enough to smoke. So there will be no smoke or unpleasant odor in your kitchen or the rest of the house—no smoke to heat your face while you are frying and smell up your hair and clothes.

Another thing, when food is fried in plenty of Crisco, it is beautifully fried with a crisp, golden brown outside and a tender, digestible inside.

Crisco is odorless, too, and does not carry the taste of one food to another, so you can use the same Crisco over and over again for frying different things.

Crisco Cheese Balls

2 cups grated American cheese
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce
4 egg whites well beaten

Mix in the order given. Form into balls lightly with the fingers. Make them about the size of a small egg. Then roll in bread crumbs using fresh bread. Drop in deep, hot Crisco (375 to 385 degrees F.) or when a piece of bread browns in 40 seconds. Fry until a golden brown. Drain on soft paper and serve hot.

This recipe will make ten balls.

Crisco Potato Cakes

These cakes are delicious with chops or cold meat and it is a good way to use left-over mashed potatoes, or even to cook more than enough and save cooking potatoes the next day.

To every three cups of cold mashed potatoes add one well beaten egg. Shape into flat cakes about one inch thick. Put enough Crisco into a frying pan to cover the bottom well. When hot, put cakes in and brown on one side. Add more Crisco if necessary. Turn with pancake turner and brown on the other side.

Three cups of potatoes will make nine or ten cakes.

Crisco Apple Fritters

2 cups pastry flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
3 eggs
1 tablespoon melted Crisco
½ cup milk
6 ripe apples

Peel and core apples. Cut in quarters. Beat eggs, add Crisco, then milk, then all dry ingredients sifted together. Dip each piece of apple in the batter and fry until soft in deep kettle of Crisco heated to 375 to 385 degrees F., or when a small piece of bread browns in 40 seconds.

Crisco Apple Griddle Cakes

2 cups bread broken in pieces
2 cups hot milk
2 eggs separated
1 tablespoon Crisco
1 cup flour
2 tablespoons baking powder
1 tablespoon sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped ripe apples

Soak the bread and milk together over night or until soft. Then rub to a paste. Add the Crisco, sugar and salt; then the egg yolks beaten until light. Add flour and baking powder sifted together. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Stir apples into the batter with a fork. Drop by spoonfuls on Criscoed griddle. Cook until partly done and then turn and finish cooking. Turn only once.

Two Brothers May Be Crowd, Noah Beery Finds, So He Plans To Work in Another Studio

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 9.

THE old and oft paraphrased line from Bill Shakespeare's classics about a rose by any other name smelling as sweet, is not regarded by Noah Beery as true, literally speaking. Mr. Beery has decided that two Beerys in one film company just isn't according to Hoyle. In fact, he feels so strongly on the subject that he has arranged for his release from his contract with Paramount-Famous Players-Lasky.

The explanation given is that while he and his brother, Wallace, play entirely different roles, he does not get as big an opportunity with Famous as he would if there were only one Beery. He feels when he is loaned to other companies without another Beery, he gets a bigger and better opportunity.

One thing, Noah Beery, who is one of the best character actors on the screen, has the courage of his conviction. His contract has eight more months to run and he put it into the discard without batting an eyelash. Only a player who is sure of his own talent would make so drastic a move.

Wouldn't you know that Tom Moore was about to be vamped by an expert when I tell you he was signed to play the male lead in "The Siren?" Wotta title, boys and girls, wotta title! "The Siren" is a Harry Cohn special, to be filmed with the Columbia trademark. Dorothy Revier plays the siren.

That symbolical little dove of peace isn't going to be worth a nickel when it flits around Jetta Goudal. Jetta and Cecil De Mille, to be less flowery, are not in a mood to kiss and make up and let bygones be bygones. In fact, Mr. De Mille squashed all such reports yesterday when he let it be known that Jacqueline Logan, who supplanted the tempestuous Jetta in "The Leopard Woman," will be featured in "Midnight Madness," likewise a Goudal story. Clive Brook, who usually plays a respectable conservative Englishman, will add the masculine interest by playing the male lead. And just a word, "Midnight Madness" is the first Hector Turnbull production—it marks his debut as an associate producer.

A little bit of stray conversation makes me wonder if Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer have some big Oriental drama in mind. I am told, not officially but through the aid of my Sherlock Holmes, who shadows these producers for me, that Sessue Hayakawa may return to Hollywood under the auspices of M. G. M. The one fly in the ointment is salary. 'Tis said Sessue, who hasn't been in movies for five years, wants a large amount for his services. However, he may compromise—if so, I am certain we will see him at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios.

There are all sorts of business transactions going on in the studios in this town, but one of the funniest concerns Estelle Taylor and Jack Dempsey's Rolls Royce. Estelle is playing the lead in "The Whip Woman" at First National and in several scenes a Rolls of light color with a right hand drive is needed. The property man had scoured the town for just the right car. Then he saw the Dempsey motor. "Want to rent it?" he inquired of Estelle. "How much?" she asked. "Fifty dollars a day," was the reply. Estelle accepted his offer and now she says she hopes Jack won't feel she ought to pay him a commission for renting out his automobile.

George K. Arthur, who continues to be a favorite comedian in all the villages and hamlets, to say nothing of our big cities, is getting ready to play a rookie again. This time he and his side-kick, Karl Dane, will be co-starred in "Rookies of the Sea"—a comedy featuring their kind of nonsense in a verra, verra comic Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer tale of the sad sea waves.

One of my readers who signs himself Olson, and with a front name I cannot decipher, states that he saw "Shepherd of the Hills" five years ago in Washington. "Why," he asks, "do you state in your column that it has just been completed?" True, Mr. or Miss Olson, you did see "The Shepherd of the Hills" five years ago, but this version is a new one and has just been filmed at the First National studios. Mr. Olsen—the letter sounds like a man, also adds, "and the director who is so anxious to have the right to film 'God and the Groceryman' better wait a while. There is considerable resentment against it."

England has at last consented to accept "The King of Kings." Not, however, until after a long drawn-out battle. Christ is never shown in visible form on the stage or screen in England, and it was only after a bitter fight that they accepted the De Mille life of Christ.

BRYAN'S DAUGHTER CANDIDATE AGAIN

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 9.—Undaunted by her narrow defeat at the last primary election, Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan, will again offer herself as a candidate for Congress from the Fourth Florida District at the next congressional primary, opposing Congressman Joseph Sears. Her announcement was carried in a letter to a local newspaper yesterday.

FRED STONE comes to the Nixon next week, when he will appear in his musical bit, "Criss Cross."

Jack Mulhall Is Iron Worker--- On Screen

Everyone is taking to the air. Some are trying to establish trans-Atlantic flight records and others are trying for altitude marks. Jack Mulhall, screen featured player, is among the latter, for he has started laboring atop a 14-story building as an iron worker in the First National picture, "Ladies Night in a Turkish Bath." Dorothy Mackaill is the heroine.

Jack has been seen as a truck driver, broker, dancing instructor and various other characterizations, but this is his first experience in iron working. The first day's shooting found him trying for altitude, working his way up, floor by floor, until he had reached the fourteenth. The second day he was walking the narrow planks and flitting from beam to beam like a veteran. The third day he hopped a steel girder and rode to the top and down again.

DROP CHARGES AGAINST PACKING COMPANIES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The Federal Trade Commission yesterday dismissed an order directed against an alleged interlocking directorate of the Western Meat Company, of San Francisco, and the Nevada Packing Company, of Reno, Nevada. The dismissal following the resignation of a director who held that office in both companies.

PUPILS TO HEAR OPERETTA'S CHORUS

The soldier chorus of the popular American operetta, "My Maryland," now in its third week in the Alvin, will appear before the assembled student body of the Latimer Junior High School tomorrow. A special musical program has been arranged by Cass Freeborn, musical director of "My Maryland," which includes a choral arrangement of "The Star Spangled Banner," the opening number. The program will close with the singing of "Your Land and My Land," one of the song hits of this operetta. There will be a matinee of "My Maryland" today in the Alvin.

Beginning Monday night, November 14, Charles Dillingham will present Fred Stone in the Nixon in his musical comedy success, "Criss Cross," with Dorothy Stone. Seats go on sale in the box office tomorrow.

Lowell Brentano and Fulton Oursler wrote "The Spider," which will be seen in the Pitt beginning next Monday evening, and playing matinees Thursday and Saturday. The large cast of "The Spider," for which the seats will go on sale tomorrow morning, is headed by William Courtenay.

The program booked at the Davis next week features Nan Halperin and Mrs. Wallace Reid and her company as headliners on the Keith-Albee bill. Mrs. Reid comes in a playlet, "Evidence," and she also appears on the screen in "The Satin Woman."

Philharmonic and Miss Farrar Coming

The New York Philharmonic Orchestra, Willem Mengelberg, conductor, will give concerts in Syria Mosque Friday night and Saturday afternoon, November 11 and 12. The subject for Friday night is Bloch's Symphony in C-sharp minor, and for Saturday afternoon the Beethoven Symphony No. 2, in D major. The program will be discussed in an informal talk tomorrow evening in the Pittsburgh Musical Institute by Charles N. Boyd, with piano illustrations by Mr. Boyd and William H. Oetting. This event is free to the public.

Geraldine Farrar will give a concert in Carnegie Music Hall next Monday night, November 14, devoted to songs by Haendel, Beethoven, Gluck, Franz, Schumann, Schubert, Brahms, Mozart, Massenet, Godard, Rubinstein, Greig and Gretchaninoff.

DRINK WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids; to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

Week of Battles for Movie Players

A solid week of battles featured Director Albert Rogell's work on "The Shepherd of the Hills," First National Pictures' version of the widely read novel by Harold Bell Wright.

The battles were not of the military sort, but bare-fisted encounters between various members of the cast, and one bit of mob action that figures in the story. In the script the various fights occur in scenes widely removed from each other.

Rogell filmed them in a group, however, so that any temporary injuries or facial disfigurements that might result would not interfere with subsequent scenes. The players to be used in sequences of the picture yet to be filmed are not the ones who indulged in bare-fisted or stick-and-stone battles.

The precaution proved to be a wise one, for several bruises that makeup could not cover resulted, particularly in the fight between hero and villain, played by John Boles and Mathew Betz, respectively.

Alec B. Francis, in the title role, Molly O'Day, the heroine, and Romaine Fielding, Otis Harlan, Joseph Bennett, Maurice Murphy, Edythe Chapman, Carl Stockdale, David Dunbar and other members of the cast, untouched by marks of conflict, will work in the remaining sequences of the big picture, with many extras.

Two Villains for New Jannings' Photoplay

There will be two villains in Emil Jannings' new Paramount picture now in production.

Michal Visaroff is the second "heavy" to be selected. William Powell having already been assigned the part of Leo Karlovitch. Evelyn Brent is the heroine, and Josef von Sternberg will direct.

Jannings is a Russian general, genial and proud, who loses all in the revolution. Powell is a bolshevik spy and Visaroff plays the bodyguard who turns the general over to the revolutionists.

Visaroff has just completed a series of important roles in "Two Arabian Nights," "Resurrection," "Camille," "Mockery," "Ramona" and "Love."

Jack Holt Starrred In Picture With Gypsy Theme

"The Tigress," a romantic love story of the Spanish Nevadas, costars Jack Holt and Dorothy Revier. Its theme revolves around a gypsy girl, the leader of a lawless tribe whose thirst for revenge turns to love. The action takes place in a picturesque Romany camp and in a medieval castle perched high in the Spanish mountains. "The Tigress" is Jack Holt's first starring vehicle for Columbia.

LAKES-TO-GULF WAY BOOMED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9. — Gov. Small, of Illinois, has cleared another obstacle to the final completion of the lakes-to-the-gulf waterway in April, 1930. Before leaving for his home yesterday afternoon he induced the War Department to accept several locks and dams built in the Illinois River by the state more than a quarter of a century ago. The department, as a consequence, will remove them to provide the nine-foot channel intended below Utica.

EXTEND TRADE TREATY BETWEEN U. S., SPAIN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Trade relations between Spain and the United States under the existing treaty of amity and commerce will be prolonged indefinitely, it was learned today. The State Department announced that the treaty which was to have expired November 27 of this year, has been indefinitely extended.

Actor Plays Hero Opposite Wife in Picture

In "French Dressing" Clive Brook, the accomplished British actor, has his most unusual screen role. Brook usually plays heroes, but in this picture he doesn't get the girl. On the other hand, he isn't "the heavy." He is really the "silent hero" of the picture, although H. B. Warner wins the heroine in the film, Lois Wilson, who happens to be his wife.

"It is a great novelty to play the role of the lover, and not be present in the final closeup," states Brook. "Cinematically speaking, it simply hasn't been done, which is one of the things which makes 'French Dressing' a 'different' picture."

WET MAYOR LOSES IN DETROIT'S CLOSEST FIGHT

Lodge Wins Over Smith In Detroit Election

DETROIT, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—John C. Lodge, exponent of a political creed that the office should seek the man, today apparently had defeated Mayor John W. Smith, champion of a policy of liberality in regard to enforcement of prohibition laws, on the face of returns from all but a few of the city's precincts, in yesterday's non-partisan mayoralty election.

Returns from 569 of the 666 districts gave Lodge a lead of more than 9,000 votes.

Lodge swept into the lead in a late rush of returns from outlying districts, after trailing Smith in earlier returns.

This contest was the closest in the history of the city, according to political leaders, and it was apparent from analysis of returns that it would be decided by a margin of less than 10,000 votes.

Both candidates, canvassed early today, declared that a recount was not being considered "at this time."

While Mayor Smith took an early lead and looked like a certain winner, with one-third of the votes tabulated, returns from the outlying districts cut down this advantage. The remote wards were conceded Lodge strongholds.

Smith sprung numerous surprises, invading wards previously hostile to him, but which apparently had been won over during the weeks intervening between the primary and election.

During the period Smith came out flatly in opposition to the liquor laws, and his attitude is believed to have had a bearing on the balloting. Many precincts which had gone overwhelmingly in the primary to Lodge, who led Smith by 30,000 votes, reversed the order yesterday.

Will Favors Life Term for Some Governors

SANTA FE, N. M., Nov. 9.—Just messing around seeing some of our wonderful country here in Santa Fe, the oldest town in America. The tourists say, "Oh, aren't the people quaint and unique! Wonder what they do and think about?"

WILL ROGERS

Well, today they are voting on the same thing New York is, whether to keep a governor two years or four. So wherever there is politics people have the same worries. I think a good, honest governor should get four years and the others life. As we become more enlightened we will extinguish our office-seekers every two years.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

RED CROSS WILL MAKE NO FLOOD APPEAL

The Red Cross is winding up emergency relief work for 5,700 New England flood sufferers—4,675 in Vermont, and 1,025 in Massachusetts—and it is setting up a rehabilitation organization, in charge of experienced disaster workers, to repair stricken homes and get the families back into them. But, notwithstanding this drain on its resources, it will make no national appeal for funds, either to the people directly or to the chapters.

This was the message brought to Pittsburgh today by Douglass Griesemer, national director of roll call, who came from headquarters at Washington to see how the campaign for Red Cross members here is progressing.

"We opened up rehabilitation headquarters today," said Griesemer, "at Burlington, Montpelier and Rutland, and put in charge men with experience in the Florida and Mississippi River catastrophes. The expense will be met out of our national treasury. This is made possible by the payment of membership dues at the annual roll call."

President Stages Birthday Party for School Pal

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—President Coolidge staged a birthday party in the White House last night. It was in honor of his most intimate friend, Frank W. Stearns, the Boston merchant, who yesterday attained the age of seventy-one.

Stearns, like the President, is an Amherst alumnus, and their intimate friendship dates from the day when the President, then president of the Massachusetts Legislature, put through legislation favorable to his alma mater without the knowledge of the college trustees.

About a dozen close friends sat down to dinner arranged by the President in honor of his friend.

Jurors to Scan Burns Squad for "Fixers"

By GEORGE E. DURNO,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Assembling all of the 16 Burns detectives who figured in the Teapot Dome jury tampering expose, Assistant United States Attorney Neil Burkinshaw today sent out a call for 11 of the 12 men and women who filled the jury box in the Fall-Sinclair conspiracy trial.

It was Burkinshaw's intention to pass the Burns men in review past the jurors in the hope they would recognize among the operatives the mysterious strangers who approached them during the trial.

Burkinshaw already has information from John Costinett and Gardiner Grenfell, two of the jurors, that strangers approached them while the trial was in progress and made statements favorable to the defense.

CLARK DENIES ALL

While the young prosecutor was waiting for the jurors to assemble, he put Sheldon Clark, vice president of the Sinclair Refining Company, before the grand jury. Clark is alleged by the government to have been a "contact man" between the Burns agents and Harry F. Sinclair, millionaire defendant in the oil trial. Burkinshaw hopes, through Clark, to forge the final link directly connecting Sinclair up with the jury tampering charges.

"Boys, I don't know a damn thing," said Clark as he entered the grand jury room. "I'm not making any public statement, but that's the fact."

ACID BURNS MAY DESTROY CHEMIST STUDENT'S EYES

NAVY BUYS 346 PLANE ENGINES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Contracts aggregating $3,147,323 have been awarded by the Navy Department to the Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Co. of Hartford, Conn., for the construction of 346 nine-cylinder air-cooled airplane engines.

The engines will be used to replace those now in use and in planes under construction as a part of the five-year aviation program.

WOMAN LOSES IN MAYOR RACE

MANCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 9.—(INS.)—Miss Gwendolyn Jones, first woman to run for mayor in New England, was defeated yesterday in Concord, N. H., by Mayor Fred N. Marden, who was re-elected by a vote of 2 to 1.

PATRICIA PITT' SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Debutantes Not Only Ones Honored at Many Social Functions During Month of November

ACTIVE IN O. E. S. FETE

MRS. SARAH KILLEN

Mrs. Sarah Killen will represent Allegheny Chapter in charge of cards at the fete and frolic to be given tomorrow in Syria Mosque by the Eastern Star Temple Association.

WITH a somewhat superficial glance at the social calendar these days, one might be led to believe that no one is being entertained excepting the debutantes. To be sure, November is practically dedicated to the girls who are beginning their first season, but a number of other parties have been awanged.

One of the prettiest of these is the tea being held this afternoon by Mrs. William M. McKelvy in her Fifth avenue house for her niece, Christine Lattimore McKelvy. Christine, who is a daughter of the William E. McKelvys, of Westminster place, is a Smith College girl. Mrs. McKelvy has dispensed with the formal tea table, but she has a number of aides including the honor guest's mother and Miss Jean McKelvy, Mrs. John Lazear, Elizabeth Lupton Scott, Mary Shiras, Priscilla Hall, Frances Burdick, Helen Leovy, Jewel Jarvis, Mary Louise Johnson, Barbara Ewing, Louise Schleiter, Roberta Rhodes, who, as you know, is to be married next Tuesday to Reginald G. Quaile, of Salisbury, Conn., and Mrs. John Jackson Bissell, the young matron who will be recalled as Margaret Norman Sachs, of Hartford, Conn., before her marriage last June, and is the daughter-in-law of Mrs. George W. J. Bissell, of Penn avenue. A profusion of chrysanthemums and autumn foliage was used in decorating the McKelvy home.

A visitor here this week is Mrs. James Ellwood Jones, daughter of Mrs. Marshall L. Jenkins, of the Schenley apartments, who is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Carl H. Borntraeger, of South Homewood avenue. Mrs. Jones has lived in Washington ever since her marriage about 12 years ago, but she has kept in touch with her Pittsburgh friends during her visits with her mother and sister. She is sharing honors with Juliet Lea Hillman, debutante daughter of the junior John Hartwell Hillmans, of Fifth avenue, at a buffet luncheon being given this afternoon by Mrs. Borntraeger in her home.

The junior Frank R. Stoners, who, you remember, were married in September, are to be entertained November 18 when Mr. Stoner's mother, Mrs. Frank R. Stoner, Sr., of the Beaver road, Sewickley, will give a large reception and dinner in the Edgeworth Club. Mr. Stoner and his bride, the former Jane Veeder Nicholson, daughter of the John Hancock Nicholsons, of Shady avenue, have just recently returned from their wedding trip.

To return to the subject of debutantes for a moment, Mrs. Wil[illegible] McBride, of Grant street, Sewickley, has just announced a l[illegible]y list of aides for her tea tomorrow afternoon, given to in[illegible]e her daughter, Marie Boggs McBride. The hostess, her[illegible]l be assisted by Mrs. Frank W. Jarvis, Mrs. Robert Wray, [illegible]izabeth N. Jennings, Mrs. J. Keese Hallock, Mrs. Harry [illegible]ck, Mrs. Margaret M. Morgan, Mrs. Chauncey O'Neil, Mrs. [illegible]is R. Potter, Mrs. W. Leland Ingham, Mrs. William T. [illegible]born, Mrs. William Booth, Mrs. Russell R. Huggins, Mrs. Edgar Balsinger and Mrs. C. A. Verner, while Marie is to have as her aides Suzanne Trimble, Elizabeth George, Emsie McKennan Smith, Margaret McCready, Harriet Ramsburg and Mary McMahon, all debutantes of this season; Mary McC. Woods, Virginia Go[illegible]sbury, who made her debut last winter, and Betty Wray.

[illegible]rie McBride and Mary McMahon, who is the debutante daughter of the Harry R. McMahons, of "Lombardy," Coraopolis Heights, are to be guests of honor at a luncheon which Mrs. Kilborn and Mrs. Ingham will give November 19 in the latter's home in Shields.

Another "debbie" tea was held yesterday afternoon in the Twentieth Century Club when Mrs. William C. King and Mrs. Thomas Grant McCutcheon entertained for Florence Wainwright, who came out last week at a tea given by her mother, Mrs. Harris E. Wainwright, of Beechwood boulevard. Florence looked very attractive in a frock of pale blue velvet, and both the hostesses wore black velvet. Mrs. John W. Lloyd, Mrs. Albert P. Burchfield, Mrs. Wainwright, Mrs. James C. Burt, Mrs. John W. Chalfant, Mrs. Rebekah McCutcheon Dallmeyer, Mrs. Carl [illegible]ager, Mrs. William B. Rodgers, Mrs. Richard M. Jen[illegible] and a number of debutantes were aides.

Miss Agnes Moreland is general chairman in charge of the novelty dance and card party, scheduled for November 17, to be given by St. John's Hospital alumnae in the school of nursing, Fleming avenue, North Side. Miss Catherine Klaas is in charge of cards; Miss Della Miller, prizes; Miss Helen Dany, publicity; Miss Elizabeth Schnoor, dancing; Mrs. Fred Nusskern, refreshments; Miss Henrietta Mang, patrons and patronesses; Michael Silverhart, check room; Mrs. Rose Fitch, novelties; Miss Amelia Koch, reception, and Sister M. Baptised, the costumed girls.

Miss Catherine Waechter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Waechter of Howe street, and William A. Frauenheim were married this morning at 10 o'clock in St. Paul's Cathedral with the Rev. Vincent Burke as the celebrant. The bride wore ivory satin and tulle, made in Princess style, with a Catherine de Medici collar or rose point lace. Her veil of tulle was arranged with a head-dress of pearls, and she carried orchids showered with lilies of the valley.

Miss Mary Wilson, as maid of honor, wore tokay blue chiffon, with a black velvet picture hat, and she carried Pernet roses and daisy chrysanthemums. Shell pink chiffon frocks with black hats were worn by the bridesmaids, Miss Ruth Smith and Miss Elizabeth Gettler. They carried pompon chrysanthemums and pink roses.

Richard J. Frauenheim was his brother's best man and the ushers were Eugene G. Flannery of Philadelphia, Lee Moran, William Bickle, J. Gaston Waechter, H. Newell King, all of Pittsburgh, and Herbert Vilsack of Cumberland, Md.

A wedding breakfast in the Pittsburgh Athletic Association annex followed the wedding. After a wedding trip to Pinehurst, N. C., Mr. and Mrs. Frauenheim will make their home in this city.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Georgia Culbert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Culbert, of the North Side, and Robert Elton, son of Mrs. Blanche Elton, of Dormont, which was solemnized Saturday night at 8 o'clock in the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Briggs, in California avenue, West View. Miss Betty Boots was maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Eleanor Day, Miss Margaret Wiley and Miss Nellie Hays. John Elton was his brother's best man and the ushers included Rewel Elton and Harry Carroll. Billy Briggs and Billy Marquis were ribbon bearers and Mrs. G. J. Blackstone sang. After December 1, Mr. and Mrs. Elton will be at home in Kelton avenue, Dormont.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Sarah Margaret Northrup, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. Northrup, of Washington, Pa., and Cornelius Van Zwart, of Amsterdam, Holland, and New York, which was solemnized Friday in the Little Church Around the Corner, New York. The bride, who has lived in New York for some years, is a well known concert soprano.

* * *

Mrs. Albert Burki, of "Burklyn Terrace," is chairman for the Phi Mu fraternity benefit bridge which will be held Saturday, December 3, in the Garden Tearoom. The active chapter of the University of Pittsburgh will take part in the affair. Mrs. Lilian C. Morgan is chairman of the program and is in charge of tickets.

A card party will be held by the Norpa Club Auxiliary next Tuesday afternoon in the clubrooms in Collins avenue. Mrs. A. M. Cameron will be in charge, assisted by Mrs. Adah Oechsler, Mrs. W. J. P. Scott, Mrs. Edward Stuver, Mrs. Harry Deverspike and Mrs. U. B. Kline.

* * *

The eighth annual dance of the North Boroughs Post of the American Legion will be held November 18 in the Highland Country Club. Mrs. D. F. H. McDowell is in charge of patronesses.

* * *

A surprise shower was given by Miss Viola Stuart, of Carrick, last night in honor of Miss Clara Dreier, of Bellevue, whose marriage to Boyd E. Barker, of New Castle, will take place early in January.

* * *

Mrs. Rose Friday Gurley and her daughter, Miss Flora Gurley, of the Schenley Arms apartments, are at The Homestead, Virginia Hot Springs, and later will go to the Haven Hotel, Winter Haven, Fla., for the winter.

* * *

Mrs. Chester A. Bodle, of Regent Square, entertained at luncheon in her home this afternoon in honor of Mrs. Harry Mock, who was Miss Luella Jackson before her recent marriage.

* * *

An old-fashioned barn dance will be held Saturday night in the Stanton Heights Golf Club. There will be a cake walk and a country supper will be served.

PROGRAM CHANGED BY SEWICKLEY CLUB

A change has been made in the program for the Sewickley Valley Woman's Club. Richard Hale, the baritone who pleased the club with his recital last year, will not be able to come on January 9, the date scheduled. Instead he will appear the night of December 19 under the joint auspices of the Woman's Club and the Edgeworth Club. At the weekly meeting of the Woman's Club in the Edgeworth clubhouse next Monday, Andrey Avinoff, director of Carnegie Museum and Russian man of letters, will speak on "Russian Pictorial Art" and will also discuss the international art exhibit.

"Pomander Walk," the quaint play of laughs and tears, joys and sorrows of one small neighborhood, written by Louis N. Parker, is the offering this year of the Dramatic Club of the Pennsylvania College for Women, and will be given Friday and Saturday nights, November 18 and 19. Rehearsals already are in progress under the direction of Miss Vanda Kerst and Miss Pearl Griffith, of the spoken English department at the college.

The play will be open to the public and the proceeds will go toward a scholarship for special work in spoken English. The cast includes Ruth Lupold, Nancy McIlwain, Clara Osgood, Elizabeth Stadtlander, Isabel Rashlin, Mary Beck, Katharine Crawford, Theadosia Parke, Sara Johnson, Margaret Post, Dorothy Daub, Josephine Mang, Mary Louise Miller, Mary King, Winifred Hartman, Imogene Flanagan, Amelia Lockhard and Mary Kolb.

A number of grand officers are expected here tomorrow for the fete and frolic which the Eastern Star Temple Association will give in Syria Mosque. Among those expected to attend are Mrs. Bertha Hamilton, worthy grand matron; Mrs. Jane M. Roberts, associate grand matron; Mrs. Carrie M. Criswell, associate grand conductress; Mrs. Louise Lindeman, Grand Ruth; Mrs. Laura Berberich, Grand Electa; Mrs. Mabel Ossman, Mrs. Ada Moore, Mrs. Margaret Davidson, Mrs. May Getty Kagarise, Mrs. Janet B. Stallings, Mrs. Anna K. Pagel and Mrs. Amelia Edgar, district deputy grand matrons of the state. Dancing, a concert, a fashion show, a popularity contest and many novelty and display booths will be features of the affair, which will be held both afternoon and evening. Mrs. Fernanda Frazier is general chairman and Mrs. Mary Todd is president of the association.

The Pennsylvania Association for the Blind will provide the program for the Housekeepers' Club at its meeting tomorrow. Baritone solos will be sung by William McNally, accompanied by Miss Annabelle Carten. Several readings will be given by Mrs. Eugene Morgret. A sale of articles made by the blind will be held in connection with the meeting. Mrs. George Gillespie is chairman for the day and Mrs. W. L. McClaron hostess. A brief business session will be held before the program.

The Southern Club will meet at the Schenley Hotel tomorrow. Mrs. Carl E. Coslowsky, president of the Congress of Clubs, will be the guest speaker and Mrs. Marie Tello Phillips will read some of her poems. Miss Mary Redmond will give violin selections, accompanied by Miss Hulda Lefridge.

Mrs. W. E. Hart is to have charge of the program and the hostesses will be Mrs. A. R. Dudd and Mrs. Cecil J. Anderson.

Liberty Chapter No. 118, Order of the Eastern Star, will hold a rummage sale Friday at Broad street and Larimer avenue. Miss Inger Whitfield has charge of the publicity, Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson and Mrs. Ada Duff are in charge of sales, the transportation is being cared for by Mrs. Mollie Owens and Miss Sara Anthony and the cashiers are Miss Jane Rodemoyer and Miss Evelyn Hilliard.

An "Old Main" memorial benefit will be given in the Community House, Union avenue, North Side, tomorrow night under auspices of the Westminster College Women's Club. The feature of the program will be a lecture by Miss Mary Jeffers, daughter of Dr. E. J. Jeffers, a former president of Westminster. Her subject will be "The Mediterranean."

* * *

Mrs. Clarence B. Watkins was a guest of the Oakmont Woman's Club yesterday and entertained her hostesses by reading two plays, Essex Dane's "When the Whirlwind Blows" and Pearl Franklin's "Young America." The club will sponsor a motion picture benefit next Tuesday for its philanthropic work. The annual sale of articles made by the blind will be held December 2 and 3.

* * *

Mrs. Lane Thompson, director of the Drama League Players, will direct a production of "L. G.'s Wife," by Miss Margaret Turnbull, of New Hope, Pa., next Wednesday evening, in the East Liberty Carnegie Library. The play, which is described in the current issue of the "Drama League Review" as "a strong drama of clashing aspirations," was awarded the first prize last spring in the contest for the state of Pennsylvania; it is now in the hands of a committee appointed to pass upon the national award. A committee consisting of Mrs. T. C. Clifford, Mrs. J. I. Hommel, Mrs. Charles P. Trimble, Miss Marie Floyd and Mrs. Joseph Kunkel will assist in the publicity for the play.

Educational Day will be observed by the Woman's Club of Mt. Lebanon at the Washington School Monday with mothers and friends of the school children as guests. Mrs. John McKelvie is chairman for the day. At 3 o'clock there will be a program by the school children in charge of Miss Jeanette Blair. "The Story of Educational Week" will be told and two plays, "The History of Education" and "Story Terrace," will be presented. A double quartet of children will furnish the musical program. At the close of the program there will be a reception for the teachers of the Lincoln and Washington schools.

In the home of Mrs. E. B. Haase, Woodside road, the Woman's Club of Bryn Mawr Farms met this afternoon to hear Miss Fredericka Hays discuss the work of the Travelers' Aid Society. Mrs. E. I. Staples talked on current events, and Mrs. Richard B. Perry, president of the Allegheny County Federation, was a guest and spoke briefly. Assisting the hostess were Mrs. C. W. Shearer, Mrs. J. P. Gallagher, Mrs. J. A. Gilson and Mrs. James Mulholland. The club will visit the international art exhibit Tuesday.

The Women's Bible Class of the Seventh United Presbyterian Church will present "The Family Album" in the church parlors tomorrow night. Incidental music will be provided by Miss Ethel Reitenbaugh, Miss Lucinda Kerr, Mrs. David Whysall and Miss Mary Katherine Whysall. Mrs. David W. Hane will direct the production.

A visit to the international art exhibit will take the place of the monthly meeting of the Bradford Woods Civic Club November 17. The members will meet for cafeteria luncheon.

The Rev. Dr. R. F. Galbreath will be the speaker tomorrow at the Noonday Business Women's Club. Miss Margaret Spaulding will sing, accompanied by Aneurin Bodycombe.

Col. J. R. Langley will be the speaker on the Armistice Day program, which the Civic Club of Wilkinsburg will hear tomorrow in the Penn-Lincoln Hotel.

WILLIAM H. THOMPSON

WILLIAM D. M'JUNKIN

Chicago mayor is accompanied by former Pittsburgher on executive's flood control special returning from demonstration in Washington.

Ex-Pittsburgher Pays Tribute to 'Big Bill'

A former Pittsburgher, a student here "when Pitt was only WUP," but president of one of the largest advertising companies in America, returned last night, although he paused only long enough on his trip back to Chicago to sing the praises of his mayor, William Hale Thompson—"Big Bill."

The ex-Pittsburgher is William D. McJunkin, of the McJunkin Advertising Company, of Chicago, a friend of the Windy City's chief magistrate. He was one of the notables on the first of the nine special trains passing through Pittsburgh from Washington, where Mayor Thompson had staged his gigantic demonstration for Federal flood control.

Mayor Thompson, said Mr. McJunkin, is a much misunderstood man.

"The Mayor," he declared, "sees in this flood control movement the solution of a problem that concerns particularly the entire area between the Alleghenies and the Rockies. His interest in it has the unselfish character of altruism. He has no political axes to grind; there is no ulterior motive; he is dedicated to this great work because of its humane and economic considerations. He has earned the title of 'Father of Federal Flood Control.'

"Particularly is the Mayor misunderstood in his 'America First' campaign. There is nothing about it that is not in accord with the ideals of the American people. It is based fundamentally in Washington's farewell address: 'Friendly relations with all European nations, but entangling alliances with none.' And he himself of Revolutionary stock."

Engines were changed speedily at Marion Junction as each of the Baltimore and Ohio's six special trains pulled in with their delegations from every part of the Mississippi valley. Three specials were sent over the Pennsylvania. Before midnight all nine were reported safely cleared from Pittsburgh.

WINDOW WASHER FALLS, MAY DIE

The housekeeper's custom of sitting on a window sill while washing the glass may prove fatal to Mrs. Emma Jakes, 50, of 506 Romine avenue, McKeesport.

This morning, while leaning out a second floor window to wash the outer surface, she lost her hold and fell to the ground, alighting on her head. Her skull was fractured. At the McKeesport Hospital, her condition was pronounced critical.

REMUS DOESN'T LIKE HIM

AND YOU CAN'T BLAME HIM FOR THAT

This Franklin L. Dodge, Jr., above, a retired dry agent, is simply poison to George Remus, one-time Ohio bootleg king, now awaiting trial in Cincinnati for murder of his second wife, Imogene. Dodge, Remus charges, not only sent him to Atlanta Penitentiary for violating national liquor laws, but stole his wife's affections while he was gone. The ex-rum magnate goes on trial for the murder, November 14.

THE DEATH ROLL

John F. Ennis.

John F. Ennis, 63, in his active years one of the most widely known figures in state and county Democratic politics, died Monday, following a year's illness which confined him to his home, 1129 Webster avenue. He was a friend of the late Christopher L. Magee and looked upon by both the Republican and Democratic leaders of his time as possessing political insight of exceptional quality. He frequently forecast election results with almost uncanny accuracy as to how the vote would be distributed.

He served as city gauger during the terms of Mayors Hays, Guthrie and Magee and held a number of other appointive offices. He was a prominent figure in the state and county conventions of his party and participated in the Democratic-Citizens' fight of 1905. He was a member of the Epiphany Catholic Church. He leaves his widow and two sons.

Mrs. J. F. Foley.

Mrs. Helen B. Brown Foley, 41, wife of J. F. Foley, died at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon in her home, 216 Second street, Aspinwall. She was a member of the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Aspinwall and was active in its affairs. She was also treasurer of the Aspinwall Red Cross from the time of its institution. Mrs. Foley leaves, besides her husband, her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Brown of Aspinwall; two sons, Grant Darby and James Bosworth Foley, at home, and a brother, W. B. Brown of Sligo, Pa.

Mrs. Peter Bronder.

Mrs. Elizabeth Schirra Bronder, 60, died yesterday in her home, Ormsby avenue and Otilla street, Mt. Oliver. She was born in Pittsburgh and was a member of St. Joseph's Catholic Church. She leaves her husband, Peter Bronder; three sons, Charles, Herman J. and Edwin Bronder; five daughters, Mrs. C. Meahlbauer, Mrs. Elizabeth Morckel and Lena, Lillian and Gertrude Bronder, and five grandchildren.

Phillip Zischkau.

Phillip Zischkau, 71, former councilman and school director of Turtle Creek, died in his home, 302 Hunter street, Turtle Creek, yesterday. He was a member of Free and Accepted Masons, Lodge 361. Mr. Zischkau leaves his widow, Ellen Ament Zischkau; seven sons, Charles, Oscar, George, Joseph, Frank, Phillip, Elmer; three daughters, Mrs. Gertrude Zuder, Mrs. Marie Williams and Miss Anna Zischkau.

IT NEVER PAYS

A GRIPPING STORY OF MARGIE—WHO TRIED TO TRICK LOVE

By Gilbert Rogers

The Return of Jerry Makes Margie See Life From A Different Angle

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Margie Marsh comes to New York with a thousand dollars and a wonderful education. She decides after three years to marry. She fails to find her ideal, and Dan Shevlin, a shrewd man of the world, offers to introduce her into smart society through a Mrs. Brooke, provided Margie will give him some security. This security consists of a note which he dictates and Margie recklessly signs, to the effect that she loves him and will never regret the six months she has spent with him. Through Mrs. Brooke she buys wonderful clothes. Mrs. Brooke opens her cottage in Newport and Margie meets her brother, Mark Trelaw, a cripple. She scores a success with the rich. Jerry Evesham, a poor young man, greatly attracts her. She goes aboard Tubby Wells' yacht in her bathing suit. He makes violent love to her and she dives off the boat and is rescued by Jerry. She realizes she is in love at last. She tries to break with Shevlin, but he persuades her to meet the very rich Adrian Martin. Mark Trelaw warns her. Jerry calls to see Martin and Margie, there in Jerry's behalf, sees her and suspects the worst. As he is getting on a train to leave Newport Margie rushes after him. Later she leaves the trai nwith Jerry still doubtful. She is very unhappy. Margie discovers how Shevlin makes his money and decides to come to a showdown with him. She pleads in vain for her letter. Shevlin seizes her and kisses her. Mrs. Brooke sees them. She accuses Margie of making love to him. Margie wonders how she can keep Shevlin from showing the letter to Jerry.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

SNOBBERY, affectation, a fiercely jealous desire to get on in the world—that was Jerry's aunt. But Jerry's cousin, Mabel, was delightful.

She seemed so grave and gentle. She was sweet without knowing it—perhaps because she didn't know it. Was she really interested in young Glenn? How could she be, how could a girl like that . . . but Mrs. Farrington seemed to regard them as if they were already engaged.

"And what are you going to do this afternoon?" she inquired, as if no matter what one did, the other must do that, too.

A pause, while the salad plates were removed, a pause—Margie's chance. She gave a little nervous cough.

"Er—Mrs. Farrington, I wonder if you—that is, I wonder if you know where a nephew of yours—Mr. Evesham—"

She broke off, conscious of someone looking at her with an anxious and profound scrutiny. It was Mabel, it was Mable whose dark, sad eyes had fixed themselves upon her face with a look so revealing that Margie knew as if she had been told. Mabel—yes, Mabel was in love with Jerry.

Her own glance wavered and fell, and Mabel looked away. But Margie knew that her own secret had been guessed. Suddenly she realized the disagreeable truth behind this cordial luncheon: this dark-eyed girl in love with her penniless cousin, her mother pushing her into the arms of young Glenn. He might be penniless, too, perhaps, but if his name weren't worth much on a check, it had immense value in a society column.

But Mrs. Farrinkton at least did not read what lay behind Margie's voice. Instead she was merely surprised.

"Why, do you know my nephew? I—he's almost a barbarian, I'm afraid. I often wonder what will become of him. His mother was just like him—impractical. Ran off and married a dreadful singing teacher for—for infatuation. My poor sister—dead, now, poor thing! . . . What was it you asked? Something about Jerry?"

"Why, I wondered whether he were . . . coming back this season, or—or whereabouts in New York—"

Mrs. Farrington's cold eye fixed hers. Under its smiling pretense, it seemed to try to tear away the mask of Margie's reserve.

"Impossible to say," she murmured at last. "Jerry is very erratic. I'm sure I don't know."

Across the refectory table, Mabel's glance lingered, quietly, almost broodingly, as if she knew but did not care to tell.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

MARGIE returned home slowly, no wiser than when she had left. Jerry was gone—and not even his aunt seemed to know where he was, or if he meant to come back. Evidently she despised him for the lack of those social ambitions which made up her own life.

What was she to do, what on earth was she to do? Stay here where Mrs. Brooke loathed the sight of her? And yet if she left—! Still, why couldn't she leave, and write a simple little word to Jerry, telling him where she was, and—and nothing else. She could send the letter to Mrs. Farrington to be held or forwarded.

Yes, she would do that, it was the only thing to do, if Carlotta Brooke persisted in hating her.

Margie sat listlessly in her room. The house had its neat, perfect air, but it was empty as if it were attended by invisible hands. Why couldn't Carlotta be reasonable, why couldn't she see it wasn't Margie's fault. But perhaps you couldn't be reasonable when you were mad about somebody. And yet it seemed so unfair that Carlotta who had once liked her so much now detested her just as greatly.

The thing to do was to have it out, clearly, once and for all. "I'll wait until she comes in. Then I'll ask her—I'll tell her. And if she can't forgive me, I'll write to Jerry, and go away tonight on the boat."

She would go to New York, to her four friends in the apartment. What had happened to them? It would be fun to be with them all again, fun, and yet she remembered uncomfortably her promise of returning laden with wealth. She had wanted to marry a millionaire then. She had been another Margie.

From below stairs she heard sounds, voices. Carlotta must have come in.

"I'll do it now. Get it over with right away!" said Margie.

She gritted her teeth, then opened the door, and went down the Colonial staircase.

Her heart jumped. It was making a loud thumping sound. There was a sort of mist, a golden mist, before her eyes.

It was not Carlotta standing there with the butler, it was Jerry Evesham.

They were alone, just looking at each other. No need now to explain. At this instant explanations were unnecessary, wearisome. For their eyes told each other that they loved. And she was in his arms, and he was stroking her hair, kissing her, kissing her very gently, murmuring things. . . The tones caressed her, and her fears and troubles fell magically away.

It was cool and quiet in the living room. She sat in the corner of the old English settee, not looking at him, but lost in a dream. She was happy. He was filling his pipe, watching her. There was a sense of something infinitely contented as if time had paused breathless.

"Why did you jump off the train like that?" he asked at last. "Oh, I know why! I was enough to make anyone jump off a dozen trains! Anyway, soon as I got to New York, I did what I had to do, and I couldn't wait to get back. I was scared, thinking maybe you'd left. Thought I'd never get here!"

"I was horrid," said Margie. "I—didn't want to tell you then why I saw Adrian Martin. I felt ashamed, and I was angry. I went to see Adrian Martin to try to make him give you a better job."

"What!"

She nodded, smiling. He kissed her again. "Trying to help me—that was pretty sweet of you. I don't need help—but it was sweet of you. Only next time don't let me catch you helping me like that!"

He was growling, and she laughed. "What would you do?"

"I'd—I'd—!" He gave up with a grin. "I don't know what I'd do—but I'd do something."

A sudden tenderness for him filled her. Life was good—it didn't matter what happened, if only he loved her like this. Having that one thing was worth everything else, worth going through anything to keep.

"You didn't ask me if I had any news."

Her eyes were upon him. "Tell me."

"Things are all right, I guess. I've signed on for six months. Six months of hell, it'll be—me down in South America, and you up here. And I'll be scared, thinking of the men you'll be meeting. Sometimes I'll be thinking you're tired of me, and I'll probably get desperate. The nights are lonely, but it's cool and you can think then. I'll be thinking of you—all the time."

She caught her breath with a little gasp. "But Jerry, when—when will you have to go?"

"I should go right away. As soon as I can bring myself to leave you."

"Oh. . . ." She felt suddenly miserable, and the joy went out of her heart.

"What's the matter? Is it that you—that you don't think it's much of a future for a man? But it's the only thing I know. If I can lick that job I can come back, tie up with the main office in New York. It's something I've got to go through. You see, don't you?"

"Oh, yes," she said. "Oh, yes, of course." He would be lonely down there without her? What about her, what about her? Six months?—it would be an eternity.

But there is something the matter. What is it? Tell me. . . ."

"Oh, I . . . . I was just thinking I shall miss you." Then she flung her arms around his neck, crying a little, thinking how wonderful it was to care for someone so much that nothing else in the world ever mattered, to care for someone so that you didn't have to conceal things or pretend, but could be honest, show that you cared. . . .

"If only I had some money!" he murmured after a little while. "What a shiftless sort of life I've led! I haven't a thing. Or if only you weren't used to—to everything!"

"But I haven't any money, either. I told you."

'I know, but you've always had things." He gestured around the lovely room, as if to indicate that its luxury and delicacy had always been part of Margie's environment.

She bit her lip. Could she tell him now? Could she tell him that she had lived in a shabby apartment, earning her own living, economizing desperately, and that she had come up to Newport, an impostor, a coldly scheming girl who was prepared to sell herself to the highest bidder in marriage? But she shrank from that. Not now, she couldn't tell him now. Some other time, when—when she was so sure of him that nothing in the world could alter his faith. To tell him now, to tell him that in a month or more she had changed—perhaps he wouldn't be able to believe. Perhaps he would doubt her . . . again.

But half-way at least she could go. "I've not had . . . things," she said. "I've been quite poor."

"But hardships—if you were able to stand hardships. . . ."

She looked at him with shining eyes, she saw what he was nervously attempting to suggest.

"Oh, Jerry, do you think I'd hesitate to go anywhere with you? If we were together, there wouldn't be any hardships."

Then his own voice was unsteady. "Margie, I—you will marry me—go down to South America with me? You think you can stand it? It'll only be for six months. . . ."

Marry him—marry him right now—go away with him!"

"Why you're crying!" he said.

"Because I'm—because I'm happy."

"Then as soon as we can—it'll take me a day or two to fix things up here—we'll go to New York."

The door clicked open, and Carlotta Brooke came into the hallway, stared at Margie with a dull dislike in her eyes, passed on up the stairway, without a word.

Jerry had glanced out of the window. "Why there's Adrian Martin's car now. He must have brought your friend home. Well, he can bring anyone home he likes, so long as he keps his hands off you!"

CHAPTER XXIX.

ADRIAN MARTIN and Carlotta—together! Margie pondered about that when Jerry had gone. Adrian Martin must know that Carlotta was somehow mixed up with the man who had blackmailed him.

But did he? The furtive way Shevlin came and went, his definite desire to keep out of the limelight, might have prevented that. Mrs. Brooke's social position did not extend to Shevlin at least. He prowled on the outskirts of the world of fashion, seeking unsavory things like a jackal.

Coming down to dinner that evening Margie felt that she must break this tension between Carlotta and herself.

"I'm too terribly happy to want anyone in the world to hate me," she sighed. "Everything ought to be perfect."

Mark Trelaw sat watching the two women, as if he knew what it was that had caused their deep estrangement.

In the bitter silence of the meal, Margie said at last:

"I—I was planning to go in a day or two. But if—if you don't want me here now, why I—"

For the first time since the quarrel, Carlotta spoke. "Oh, suit yourself," she said with a hard little laugh.

To Be Continued Tomorrow.

Wires Pictures

WILLIAM BRADFORD

An illustrated address on tele-photography, the invention by which pictures are transmitted by wire, was given by Mr. Bradford, Pittsburgh division manager of the Bell Telephone Company, before the Pittsburgh Advertising Club, Tuesday noon in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium, tele-photography is a comparatively recent development in publishing and advertising fields.

MORSE NAMED BY FISHER

HARRISBURG, Nov. 9. — Gov. Fisher today announced the appointment of Edwin K. Morse, of Pittsburgh, as the engineer member of the Water and Power Resources Board. He will receive a salary of $3,000 a year and fills a position that has been vacant for nearly a year. Mr. Morse is interested in the river front development at Pittsburgh.

The new engineer member of the Water and Power Resources Board resigned as a member of the Sanitary Water Board to take the position. His place on the latter body will be taken by J. O. Handy, also of Pittsburgh.

2 U. S. FLIERS SLAIN IN NICARAGUA

GIVE LIVES IN HEROIC BATTLE

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—A report that Second Lieut. E. A. Thomas and Sergt. Frank Dowdell, American marine aviators, who have been missing for more than a month, ever since they crashed in their plane while on patrol duty, were killed by followers of the former liberal general, Sandino, after a fight at a cave entrance, was received here today from Nicaraguans living in the Ocotal region.

The report is believed here to be authoritative.

The report reveals that the American fliers were killed only after putting up a desperate resistance against thirty or forty guerillas who trapped them in a cave after one of the American fliers had been wounded by a machete in the hands of two men whom they met in the jungle undergrowth after abandoning their plane.

THREE MORE HUNTERS SHOT IN WESTMORELAND

GREENSBURG, Pa., Nov. 9.—Three more hunters were hurt in accidental shootings in Westmoreland county. J. E. Hawkey, 45, and son, Wilbur, 18, were returning to their home in Radebaugh when a charge of shot caught them in the face and neck. Robert Hood, 14, of Brinkerton, suffered a gunshot wound in the right ankle when a companion's gun was discharged accidentally.

WOMEN FIGHT FOR PLACE ON ELECTION BOARD

MRS. ANNA GARRITY MRS. MARY GOEDERT MISS MARY WINDJAGER

Denied a place on the election board of the Seventeenth district of the Sixteenth Ward, Mrs. Anna Garrity of 2829 Patterson avenue, South Side, took her plaint to the county commissioners yesterday. They advised her to go back and sit with the board. Later she appealed to court and a neighbor, Mrs. Mary Goedert, made affidavit to Mrs. Garrity's right to the post of minority inspector. While the battle was on, voting in the precinct went along with Miss Windjager occupying the disputed seat.

"Baby Bootleggers" Declared Menace

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY.

"Baby bootleggers," or those who traffic in babies, placing them in homes for adoption when they are a few hours old and under no supervision, were flayed at the Child Welfare Conference at the Fot Pitt Hotel this forenoon.

Miss Mary S. Labaree, director of the Bureau of Children, State Department of Welfare, in an intelligent talk brought this serious matter before her listeners:

"Licensed baby homes are one of the greatest problems of the state. We have to depend upon the local probation officers, physicians and ministers sometimes for our data, and when we issue a license and later pay a visit we are horrified with their bad judgment."

There are 96 licensed baby homes in the state, of which about one-half are independent and not under real supervision, and 13,339 children in boarding homes.

The grave tendency to overexpose a child that is in a placement home was emphasized by J. Prentice Murphy, executive secretary of the Children's Home, Philadelphia, in his talk, "Problems of Foster Placement as Viewed by the Private Agency." He says:

"Sometimes in the methods used we might as well set the child on the curb and announce that it is not a child that lives with it's parents. For instance, there is an organization that sends a letter quarterly to the ministers, teachers and others interested in the child requesting information as to its conduct and work."

Miss Grace L. Stoakes, chief probation officer of the Allegheny County Juvenile Court believes that it is not only necessary for the physical welfare of the child to be looked into, but that its spiritual training is just as important.

There are 1,300 Juvenile Court children in foster homes at present and 430 foster homes, Miss Stoakes declares.

ALYNE VS. EILEEN

CAN'T TELL HER APART

London's society knows Alyne Pacaud, daughter of Canada's assistant high commissioner there, as a beauty, a sportswoman and a leader of the 400 or whatever the baily Britons call it over there. Down on the Strand, the theater folk known Eileen Alden as a beauty, a good sport and a fine actress. Perhaps the similarity comes from the fact that Eileen and Alyne are one and the same, the Alden being adopted for its stage euphony.

SEEING WHAT NEVER GOES WITH US

ENGLISH MAGISTRATE ON MORALS COURT BENCH

Magistrate W. E. Hincks, (center), visited Morals Court Magistrate A. D. Brandon, and found out about some of the things that aren't legally quite cricket in these United States. The Briton is a citizen of Leicester, which has a few mills of its own, so he felt quite at home here. With him on the bench are Magistrate Brandon and Magistrate Brandon's secretary, Mrs. Nellie Lorriman. The case? — Oh, just one of those things.

POISON DRINKER NEAR DEATH

An empty iodine bottle beside him, William J. Thompson, 39, was found unconscious in his room at 301 Penn avenue by the landlord, Michael Clark. At the Allegheny General Hospital Thompson's condition was announced as serious.

DEFEAT WOMAN IN OAKDALE

Women of Oakdale made a futile effort yesterday to elect Mrs. Nora Greenfield to the borough school board by use of stickers. She was defeated for the nomination at the primaries by one vote. Yesterday's balloting gave her 145 votes. George W. Hoffman, Jr., with 241 votes, and Joseph K. Robb, with 186, incumbents, were re-elected.

S. J. Campbell was elected tax collector over Richard F. Lescallette by a vote of 221 to 160.

EAST END WOMAN SUES FOR DIVORCE

Averring that her husband was too lazy to get up to go to work in the morning and that he beat her shortly after the birth of her second baby in 1924, Mrs. Charlotte B. Meyers of Jamison street, East End, filed a libel in divorce this morning against her husband, Ralph E. Meyers.

BABCOCK MAKES NEW PLEDGES

Expressing sorrow for James Houlahen's downfall at the polls yesterday, County Commissioner E. V. Babcock in a statement issued this morning, pledges himself to the interests of the citizens of Allegheny county and extends thanks to those who helped him in office. The statement follows:

"I am very grateful for the support received at the polls yesterday. I am pleased that all the candidates on the Republican ticket were elected and that there was such a large Republican vote cast in view of the inclement weather. I am sorry for Mr. Houlahen. I believe he has made a good public official. I have no resentment for those who did not support him and shall apply myself harder than ever to earn the respect of all the citizens of the county."

M'KEESPORT PASSES BOND ISSUE FOR SCHOOLS

$1,500,000 School Bond Issue Is Approved

Twelve communities in Allegheny county voted yesterday on bond issues for schools, street, park and sewer improvements. Results obtainable today follow:

McKeesport—$1,500,000 for new grade school in Sumac street, new industrial building in rear of present high school, repairs and improvements to existing buildings and new grade school in Federal plan: Yes, 3,635; no, 2,405. $182,000 for parks: Yes, 3,353; no, 3,606. $126,000 for water main extensions: Yes, 2,675; no, 3,267.

Bellevue—Voters approved a $100,000 issue for street improvements, the vote being 484 for and 286 against.

Pitcairn—By a three to one vote a $100,000 bond issue was approved for six new classrooms and an auditorium for the high school.

Glassport—A majority of 13 votes was recorded, according to unofficial returns, for a $200,000 bond issue for a new high school.

Coraopolis—A bond issue of $110,000 for an addition to the McKinley grade school was approved by a vote of more than 4 to 1. Seven out of eight precincts gave 540 for to 123 against.

Mt. Oliver—By a vote of 1,158 to 304 citizens authorized Council to spend $40,000 for playgrounds, the site to be selected later.

Ingram—A bond issue of $100,000 for permanent street and sewer improvements was approved by a majority of 64 votes, on the face of unofficial returns.

Mifflin township—Three bond items totaling $250,000 for a new school in the Lincoln place district and additions to the Homeville and Homestead Park schools were approved by a vote of 2,300 to 1,113 against.

ARMISTICE DAY GUESTS DUE TO ARRIVE

Brig. Gen. E. C. Shannon, one of the out-of-town guests who will march as an honorary marshal during the Armistice Day parade here Friday, will arrive in Pittsburgh tomorrow afternoon and will be met at the Pennsylvania Railroad Station by a delegation of the One Hundred and Eleventh Infantry. Mrs. Woodrow Wilson who is to arrive in town Friday morning will be met by an American Legion committee.

Maj. Gen. William G. Price, Jr., another out-of-town guest, will arrive Thursday night and will be welcomed by members of the One Hundredth and Seventh Field Artillery. Frank T. Strayer, commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will arrive in Pittsburgh Thursday night in time to attend the banquet of the veterans in the Fort Pitt Hotel.

Joseph M. Stack, chief marshal of the parade, yesterday announced the names of 52 persons who will serve as aides on his staff. It also was announced that Capt. J. L. Fisher of the One Hundred and Seventh Field Artillery has been appointed adjutant of the Third division made up of veterans of the One Hundred and Seventh, the Aero Club of Pittsburgh, Eightieth Division Veterans, the One Hundred and Eleventh Infantry, the Duquesne Grays, the One Hundred and Third Field Signal Battalion, Marine Corps League, Pittsburgh Railways War Veterans, Italian Legion, Polish Legion and British and Canadian War Veterans.

CHILDREN SAVED FROM WAYNESBURG FARM FIRE

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Nov. 9.—The home of Lewis Raddigan on the Herman White farm south of Waynesburg was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin Monday. The loss was placed at $5,000. Two small children, alone in the house at the time, were rescued by a brother, John Raddigan.

Legless Aviator May Try Ocean Hop

WHEELING, W. Va., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Wheeling, the city that sent Ruth Elder forth in an attempt to conquer the Atlantic ocean by air, now has another aspirant for trans-oceanic honors—an aviator with no legs and but one arm.

The crippled birdman is Morris B. Daugherty, 35, of New Martinsville, near here. He has been flying for a year and is known as a fearless and competent pilot.

Now he is ready to attempt an ocean flight and to convince Wheeling friends of his earnestness, he is willing to contribute a fourth of the cost of a plane and the expenses of a trans-Atlantic trip. A movement has been started by Judge Alan Robinson to secure the necessary support and Judge Robinson has been quoted as saying he believes Daugherty will secure it, as did Miss Elder, among the city's capitalists.

Daugherty, who is county assessor of Wetzel county, suffered the amputation of his limbs in a railroad accident a number of years ago. He flies in a plane fitted with specially constructed controls.

HARD WATER PLUS MEL'O MAKES SOFT WATER

THIS is soft water. Grandpa caught it in a rain barrel. Grandma washed the clothes in it. My! How white the clothes were in the 80's! How easy they were to wash! And how smooth and white her hands were!

This is hard water. City water. It comes out of a faucet. It takes a lot of soap to make a good lather. Even then it leaves a ring around the bathtub, the dishpan, the washbowl. The clothes look grayish white. Mother would like to use soft water for washing clothes, dishes, faces, hands, the children. But there isn't any soft water—rain water—any more. This is 1927.

Mother knows the virtues of soft water. She tries to get it by using ammonia, borax and sal soda. These partially soften water. They are all good in their way. But it takes heaps and the water isn't really soft.

This is a package of Melo. It softens water. Now, mother can put a teaspoonful of Melo in the dishpan, two tablespoonfuls in the washtubs, two tablespoonfuls in the bathtub, and she has soft water—like rain water. Dirty, scummy rings don't form in the bathtub or washbowl. No greasy feel to the dish water. The clothes are snowy white. Her hands are smooth and white and soft.

Melo saves ⅓ to ½ the amount of soap. Saves time in washing dishes, clothes, floors, everything. Keep a package of Melo in the kitchen, laundry and bathroom. Get it at your grocer's.

The water in Pittsburgh is 5 times as hard as it should be. Two tablespoonfuls of Melo will soften a bathtub full of water. Two tablespoonfuls in the washtubs. One teaspoonful in the dishpan.

LOVE'S EMBERS

by Adele Garrison

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

Madge Prepares for Her Interview With Philip Veritzen

I COULD not help overhearing the red-bearded man's colloquy with the station agent. Indeed I took particular pains to miss no word of it for I had an intuitive conviction that it behooved me to learn as much as I could concerning the activities of my mysterious and unpleasant new neighbor.

"You coom back New York?" he asked.

"What's that?" the agent answered, astonished.

"Deese train, she go New York, she coom back?"

"Of course."

Jim's arm reached across the the other's and he spoke authoritatively.

"You can fool with him later, Ed," he said with the easy camraderie of the countryside. "Just get Miss Graham's ticket to Penn station, will you please, and a chair."

The agent efficiently stamped a ticket and handed it through the window just as Jim passed over the bill I handed him with a nod of appreciation for his thoughtfulness.

"You can get your chair on the train," the agent said. "There's no crowd this morning. Now," to the red-bearded man, "make it snappy. The train will be here in a minute."

"One teecket New York, one teecket back," the man explained laboriously.

"Oh, return trip," the agent interpreted. "Here you are." He named the price and passed over the tickets as the man fished out a roll of bills from his pocket, and I mentally commented that he apparently was well supplied with money.

"Deesa train," he began again when he had bestowed his tickets and change in his pockets. "Ven she coom back? How long she stay?"—but the agent had darted to the door of his compartment at the sound of the train whistle, and I followed Jim and my suitcase down the platform to the chair car, noticing that the red-bearded man was already boarding the coach nearest to the Pullman.

I settled my belongings, tipped the porter and asked him to show my ticket to the conductor and to call me within a half hour of New York. Then I turned my chair so that I was screened from the other occupants of the car, only two in number, and nestling down in the roomy depths of the chair prepared for the nap upon which I counted to make up for my well-nigh sleepless night.

It was but a minute or two before I was sound asleep, not to awaken until the porter's hand touched my shoulder and his voice told me that it was the time I had named. He carried my suitcase to the dressing room, and as I was the only woman passenger I was undisturbed during the half hour remaining of my journey.

I took out the gown and coat I so carefully had packed and hung them up on the hangers I had brought with me, thankful to see that they practically were unwrinkled. Then I drew out the pumps and filmy stockings which matched the gown and put them on in place of the more serviceable ones which I was wearing. I removed the train dust from my hands with soap and water, but used cold cream for my face, following it with the ice rub, which is my specific for freshness—my liberal tip had induced the porter to get me a piece from some mysterious supply of his own. A touch of vanishing cream, a dusting of rice, powder and I noted with satisfaction that I looked as if I had just emerged from a "facial." Then I reknotted my hair, and put into my bag my toilet articles and the clothing I had taken off, and locked the bag. Last of all, I slipped over my head the gown which I had been at such pains to smuggle with me, and as I fastened it and pulled my hat into place I was conscious that I never had looked better, and that I did not believe even Philip Veritzen's fastidious taste could find any fault with the freshness or quality of my costume.

With my coat over my arm, I went back to my chair, uneasily conscious of the open stares of the two masculine passengers, and sent the porter for my suitcase. When he had helped me into my coat, for we were just entering the long tunnel under the East River, my thoughts strayed from my sartorial affairs to conjectures concerning the red-bearded man in the coach behind. That he had been doing some conjecturing of his own, however, I found out when, as I was following a station porter down the platform from the train, the red-bearded man shuffled up and fell into step beside me.

"You plees tell me ven deesa train go back?" he asked.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

Thursday, November 10

I tell thee Love is a second sun, causing a string of virtues where he shines.—LOVET MARY.

UNDER the gracious rule of Venus, in trine aspect with Luna, this day will find affairs of heart and home, social, romantic and artistic, engaging the attention, possibly to the exclusion of more sordid interests. These, however, may be lively to a degree although beset by certain menaces.

There is a monition against trickery or underhand attack. Also, there may be obstacles and delays as well as an abrupt change.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves wrapped up in personal affairs of a romantic nature. Business has hazards and a sinister undermining which may react in obstructions and delays. Change is imminent. Sign all writings with precaution.

A child born on this day should be clever, versatile and artistic, with a gracious and lovable nature. It should have its stamina developed, as it may have an uphill journey in life.

Notable Nativity: Mabel Normand, movie actress.

Stop Decay at The Danger Line

Naturally you want to preserve sound teeth and healthy gums. Then you must guard The Danger Line. For it is in the tiny V-shaped crevices at The Danger Line, where teeth and gums meet, that the acids are formed which cause the most dangerous forms of tooth decay and gum irritations.

Squibb's Dental Cream, because it contains more than 50% of Squibb's Milk of Magnesia, neutralizes the acids in those crevices which no tooth-brush can reach. It brings the protection you need while keeping your teeth white and lustrous. Millions have found that it solves for good the problem of proper mouth hygiene. A large tube for 40c—everywhere.

Sweet-Sour Cabbage

Chop one-quarter of a head of cabbage; do not salt it. Set in a cold place or on ice until ready to serve. Then stir in a little sugar and salt. Serve raw, a sour cream dressing made as follows: Beat together five tablespoons of sour cream, two tablespoons vinegar, one-half teaspoonful of paprika, a pinch of salt and a teaspoon of minced chives. This should be very smooth and thick when well beaten.

The Useful Lemon

After extracting the juice of lemons through the usual squeezing, do not throw the empty half-skins away at once. They have many very useful purposes. When washing dinner or supper ware, throw two skins into the bowl and rub the plates and dishes with them. They will remove all traces of onion, fish and other smells, and if one of them is used in the rinsing water it will make the china glossy.

Gaining Independence

Skirts do not have to belong to a frock or suit to have a style importance. As separate garments they are entitled to definite consideration. Besides being worn with sweaters, they are also evolving a new ensemble, that of the skirt and its short scarf of the same novelty woolen fabric.

Keep Your Skin Young

Remove all blemishes and discolorations by regularly using pure mercolized wax. Get an ounce and use as directed. Fine, almost invisible particles of aged skin peel off, until all defects, such as pimples, liver spots, tan, freckles and large pores have disappeared. Skin is beautifully clear, soft and velvety, and face looks years younger. Mercolized Wax brings out the hidden beauty. To quickly remove wrinkles and other age lines, use this face lotion: 1 ounce powdered saxolite and 1 half pint witch hazel.

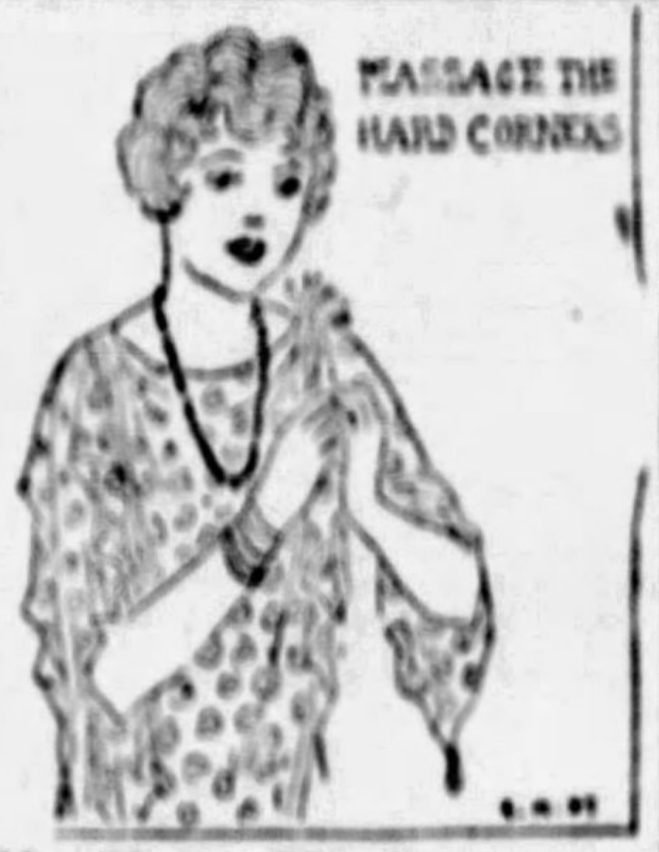
Milady Beautiful

By LOIS LEEDS



The Home Manicure

MILADY'S hands express character, first, by their inherited shape, and second, by the evidence of care they exhibit. Unkept hands and nails tell their own story about the habits of their owner. Although little can be done to modify the natural form of the hands, they must be kept well groomed by a little daily attention. Hard corners of horny skin at the side of the nail may be softened by massaging with cold cream or oil. This also will keep the cuticle at the base of the nail from becoming dry and ragged. A simple cream for the purpose may be made of one ounce cocoa butter, one-half ounce spermacetti, one-half ounce rosewater, one ounce olive oil. The two first named ingredients should be melted by placing them together in a cup set over very hot water. The oil is stirred in after the wax has been reduced to liquid. Remove the mixture from the heat and beat in the rosewater. Pour the cream into a jar to cool.

This cream may be massaged into the fingertips every night and left on till morning.

When the nails are discolored, especially under their free ends, they may be bleached with the following lotion: Two tablespoonfuls of peroxide, one tablespoonful rosewater, one drop tincture of benzoin. Wrap a wisp of clean cotton around the end of an orange wood stick and dip it into the mixture. Then rub the grimy surface with the cotton. When the nail is clean rinse off the bleach.

When the cuticle around the nails has been softened with the cream and pushed back and the nails have been trimmed and cleansed, the next step is to polish them. A dull polish may be obtained simply by rubbing the nails lightly to and fro on the dry palm of the hands, but the use of nail polish brings speedier and brighter results.

A pink nail polish may be made by mixing one ounce scented talcum powder with one ounce powdered orris root, one-half ounce of boric acid, 20 drops of tincture of carmine, 10 drops oil of lavender and five drops oil of bergamot. Place a little of the mixture in the palm of one hand and rub the nails of the other hand across it until they are glossy. Now wash the polish off, dry the nails well, gently pushing back the cuticle at their bases with the towel, and finally use the buffer to restore the shine.

M. D. H. C.—A 16-year-old girl who is 5 feet 6 inches tall should weigh about 126 pounds; you are a little under weight. Thirteen inches is not large for your calf. Do not have your back hair shingled too close. If your hair is naturally straight I do not think that the preparation you mention can make it curl. Apply vaseline to the lashes to make them grow. Ordinarily twice a day is often enough to wash the face. If the skin becomes grimy during the day, cleanse it with cold cream, pat on an astringent lotion and then renew your make-up. Let your mother decide about the boy friend.

Big Part in Health Played by Heart Muscles

DR COPELAND

IN MANY respects, the most important of our organs is that restless, ever-beating pump, known as the human heart.

How long would an airplane remain in the air if the propellers failed to work? It is only by the continued activity of these revolving arms that the aviator can master the air. He trusts his very life to their unfailing action.

Each of us is equally dependent on the unceasing activity of the heart. If it were to go on strike life would end at once.

Fortunately, nature planned the heart so that it has reserves of strength. In a sense, we are supplied with "extra parts." Of course, they are not used as extra automobile or plough parts are. Nature does not take out a set of valves and put in new ones.

But the heart has been given more strength than the ordinary demands require. If one part of the machine grows weak, another part is increased in power, making it possible for the heart to carry on its duties.

This arrangement is a fortunate one. Without it life would be uncertain. We are subject to so many accidents and diseases that the heart would surely fail us if nature had not planned so wisely.

Without telling you a lot just now about the valves of the heart, I shall limit this story to the function of the heart muscle.

When the valves of one part of the heart fail to close as they should the blood is permitted to flow backward—the wrong way. Then, in order to supply the body with its needed blood the heart muscle must work harder to send the blood stream in the proper direction.

In a case like this nature causes the part of the heart so called upon to become thicker and stronger. The muscle becomes bigger—"hypertrophied," the doctors call it. Also they say that "compensation" has taken place, meaning, of course, that one part of the heart is playing a part to make up for a breakdown elsewhere.

But the heart muscle cannot do this extra work unless it is well nourished. If there is one person in the world above another who needs to have good muscular power it is the victim of what we call "heart disease." There must be proper feeding to nourish the muscle fibers and make them strong.

When the body has been permitted to run down and all the muscles are weak and flabby, it is difficult to restore the muscles to their normal tone. This fact should make clear how important it is to be in proper trim all the time. Everything which gives strength of body strengthens the heart muscles. Live the right life and you have insured yourself against the evil effects of heart disease.

Answers to Health Queries

J. G. Q.—Is a person that has had consumption more susceptible to it than any other person?

2—Is a bad breath of a person that has had consumption caused by consumption that he had five years ago?

A.—Not necessarily.

2—No. This condition may be due to constipation, indigestion, nasal catarrh, diseased tonsils or decayed teeth. Find the cause and the treatment can be prescribed. For particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

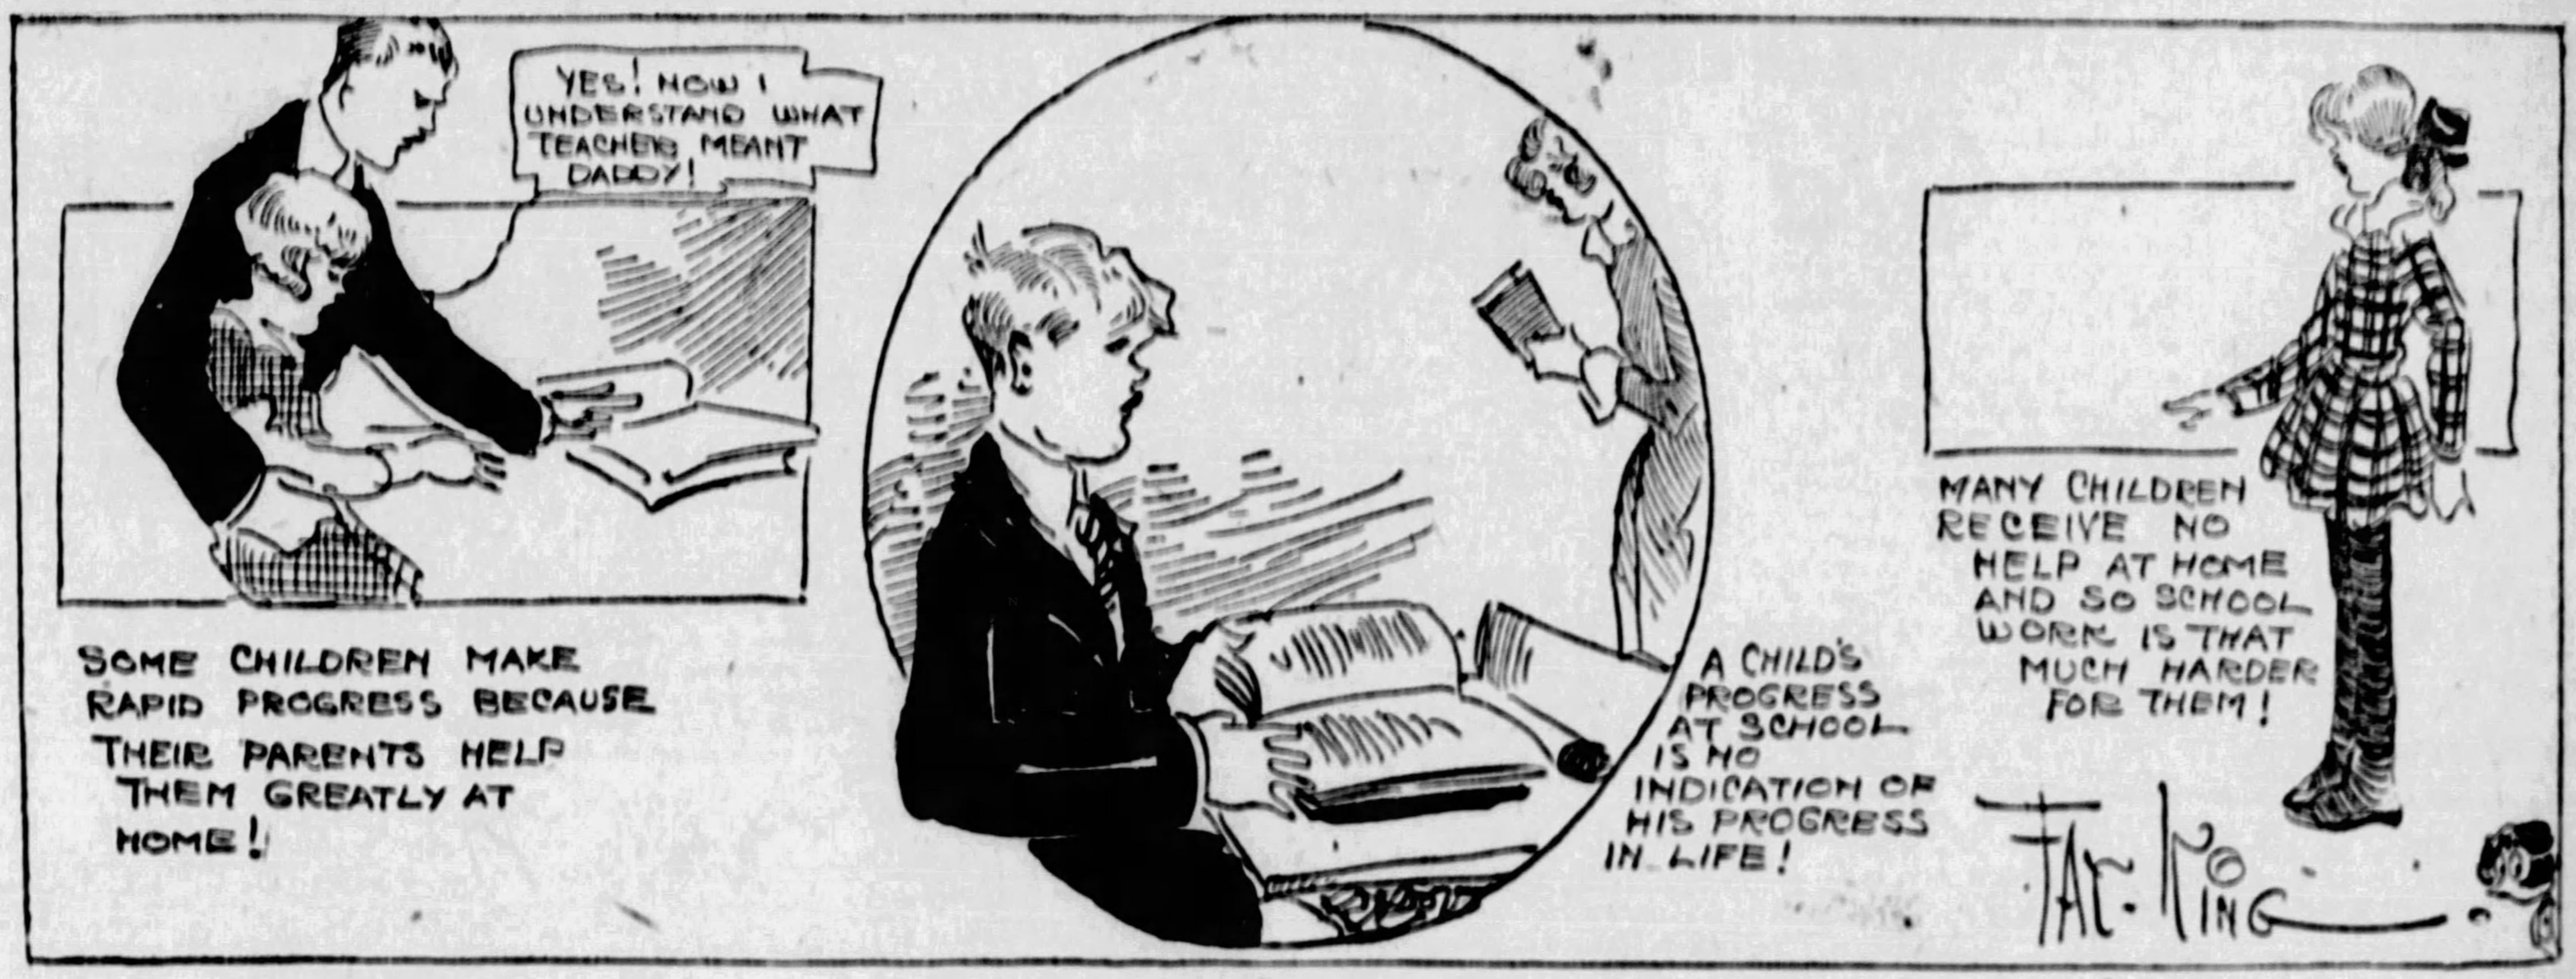
Fay King Sees School Exams as Most Futile



YES! NOW I UNDERSTAND WHAT TEACHER MEANT DADDY!
SOME CHILDREN MAKE RAPID PROGRESS BECAUSE THEIR PARENTS HELP THEM GREATLY AT HOME!
A CHILD'S PROGRESS AT SCHOOL IS NO INDICATION OF HIS PROGRESS IN LIFE!
MANY CHILDREN RECEIVE NO HELP AT HOME AND SO SCHOOL WORK IS THAT MUCH HARDER FOR THEM!
FAY KING

By FAY KING.

IF I had any voice in school matters no child would ever be failed. No cards rating their progress in school would be given. And there would be no examinations at the end of the term.

A child's progress in school indicates nothing of his progress in life.

Some of our greatest and most successful men were positively dull at school.

Some children receive the best marks and stand at the head of the class. This is not because they are naturally smarter than the children who do not. It is because at home they have educated parents who help them. They have older sisters and brothers who have gone through this same work.

It is ridiculous to me to rate a child by examination at the end of the year. The smartest people cannot offhand answer many deciding questions in their business. They refer to books for answers.

That a child has learned where he can find the answers and has a working knowledge of the subject is proof enough that he should pass on to the next class.

To many children, school work is doubly hard. They come from humble homes that are not filled with encyclopedias, atlases, dictionaries and entertaining histories. Their parents have little or no education. They cannot help them. They must help at home and so do not even have the time to pore over their school books like their classmates.

It is unfortunate that many of these uneducated parents are almost fanatical about their children's education. It is these parents who often brutally beat their children for bad marks and poor progress.

Yet these children, with the same help and advantages the other children have, could no doubt have the same high marks.

Many children can memorize whole pages. They can recite their lessons parrot-like. They can cram for their examinations.

But when they tackle life they often lack the more important faculties of common sense, observation and reasoning powers that make for success.

"Love Brings Courage"

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HERE is a letter from a girl who is thoroughly happy, light-hearted and care-free as one likes to think all young girls are or should be. She is not only happy, but she knows why she is happy. She has a wonderful mother, a good home, friends, a sweetheart. And she is content and proud to be a girl.

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I haven't the slightest idea that you will print this letter. But anyway, I must tell you what a lovely help your column has been to me.

"I have a wonderful mother. I always confide in her and she tells me right from wrong and always has me read your column.

"A few evenings ago in your article you gave advice to bashful girls and boys. You said, 'love brings courage.'

"How true those words are! I know from experience and I would love to tell you my story.

"Three years ago I went with a young man who belonged to a club of boys—and they were only boys in their ways—so clean and good. But it seems they all had a story about girls. Now they are so disgusted with girls they don't bother with them any more. And I don't blame them!

"Why are girls so foolish! Men do not really care for a girl who tries to be like a man. Girls were made to be girls, not to imitate anyone else. I know from experience that the girl who is her natural self is loved by everyone.

"To get back to my story, this young man introduced me to his club friends and they took a liking to me—especially one young man, who had been admiring me for a year and had been trying to bring about an introduction.

"He was so terribly bashful! But he asked Dad's permission to go about with me and we became great friends. I was so disappointed in him because of his bashfulness. Then I decided to try to help him get over being so bashful. Now everyone admires him. He is the type any girl would dream of—tall, dark and handsome.

"He gives me all the credit. He says he is a changed man because I had faith in him. It was hard to help him, but I am rewarded by his love and we plan for the future.

"As you, yourself, say, 'Love brings courage.' That is what it brought my future husband. He has gone into business, is working his way up and has completely forgotten his bashfulness.

"If only girls would be girls and do little things like that it would pay them so much better than running after smooth-tongued men. Then, too, if all girls would confide in their mothers so many girls would not travel off the path. If a girl demands respect she gets it.

"My suggestion to bashful young men is, forget your bashfulness when you see The Girl, and get introduced to her. Maybe she will help you overcome your shyness. 'Love brings courage.'

"My friend calls me his pal and sweetheart. If more girls were pals and sweethearts of really fine young men what good times they would have.

"Your column is wonderful and I hope you will have all the success in the world."

Dear Pal and Sweetheart, how refreshing it is to read of your happiness! How we rejoice with you and like to think of the busy, loving, joyful future awaiting you.

Pal and Sweetheart has a recipe for popularity, success, love and happiness, dear girls, which you cannot do better than try.

Confide in your mother. Talk over with her, affectionately the difference between right and wrong.

Get your father's O. K. of the man who interests you. One man's unprejudiced opinion of another is always worth heeding and respecting, especially when the one man is your father, who values your happiness above his own.

Be content to be a girl. Do not imitate men. Why should you? You may accomplish much in life in competition with men. It is natural and wise, doubtless, that you should have your work and career. But what career can compare in usefulness, peace and joy with that of being "pal" and "sweetheart" to the dearest man in the world, his helpmate and inspiration, comrade and wife, head of his home and, let us hope, mother of his children!

I can wish you no better fate, dear girls who read this column, than that, following the example of my correspondent, you may become Pal and Sweetheart to the Dearest Man in the World.

Glass Grapes Smart

Combining crystal and felt, the most recently imported hat ornaments are small clusters of glass grapes with felt leaves. Posed on little felt hats, these odd motifs are very effective.

WHAT'S the ANSWER?

1. What is the chief export commodity of the United States?

Turkey Turnovers

Chop very finely left-over cold turkey, enough to make two cupfuls. Add pepper, salt, a grated onion, a tablespoonful of chopped celery white leaves, a teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce, two heaping tablespoonfuls of cranberry jelly. Have ready a good short piecrust rolled rather thin and cut in squares six inches each way. Put a heaping tablespoonful of the turkey mixture on each with a tablespoonful of turkey gravy or a teaspoonful of butter. Fold over in turnover fashion and pinch the edges. Bake until the crust is done and a delicate brown. Serve on a hot dish with or without a brown sauce, and a small mould of cranberry jelly. Garnish with parsley.

Wear Smarter Clothes

An immediate reduction in abdominal hip girth .... An immediate "lift" that gives the figure poise, rhythm, freedom.

These are the reasons stylish women of all ages are so enthusiastic about the Armmori belt.

The Armmori does not compress. Bandage your wrist for a week and see how compression makes the flesh puffy.

The Armmori corrects abdominal muscle-sagging. This enables Nature to contract and restore the flabby flesh on the hips, abdomen and thighs.

By all means visit your favorite corsetiere at once for a fitting of this wonderful foundation garment.

CRUMBY TREATMENT
. . . isn't it?

One crunch—a great crumble and his manly chest is dappled with cracker crumbs. That's no way to treat a guest or even a timid husband.

To prevent just this each Sunshine Soda Cracker is scored down the middle so that it splits in two, and can be boldly bitten into without danger of a general collapse.

This is probably a small thing to be talking about in a soda cracker whose chief virtue is its fine flavor due to Sunshine baking by the Full Grain Process.

But we want you to know everything about this excellent cracker.

See! —how it splits in two without crumbling.

Moisture keep out! The bright red package is now stoutly defended against moisture by a waxed wrapper.

GAME NOT AFFECTED BY CHANGE IN RULES, YOST SAYS

Local Ice Players Hurt

THE first casualties in the Pirate hockey camp were reported last night when Charley Langlois, defense star, and Duke McCurry, spare wing, failed to report for the evening workout. Manager Cleghorn announced that Langlois had suffered a badly wrenched knee, and that McCurry is laid up with two boils on a finger on his left hand. Both players will hardly be able to resume practice until later in the week and possibly not until Sunday.

Langlois was hurt when he collided with Herb Drury. The club physician said that the injury was not serious, but that the big fellow would have to remain in his room a few days.

DORMONT AND SEWICKLEY TO CLASH TOMORROW

With seven Dormont High School gridders completing their high school grid careers, a record crowd is expected at Annapolis Field tomorrow when Dormont entertains Sewickley in the season's finale for both schools.

Geary and Leahy, ends; Stirling and Capt. Saeger, tackles, and three backfield men, Moore, Swanton and Sullivan, play their last game under the Maroon and Gray Friday. All have contributed largely to the successful season enjoyed to date by the Glass-coached Dormont eleven.

Last week's hard fought game with Carnegie resulted in a win for Dormont by a 13 to 0 score, the winners apparently being handicapped by overconfidence, following their overwhelming victories over Bellevue.

Encourages Old Plays

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Changes in the football playing rules this season have created no noticeable changes in play, Fielding H. (Hurry Up) Yost, famous University of Michigan coach, says.

Yost, who is visiting his brother-in-law, Dan McGuigan, head coach of the Vanderbilt Commodores expressed this opinion in commenting on the football situation regarding the changes in playing rules and those affecting the layout of the gridiron.

"The lateral pass has not turned football into a game of glorified basketball as many feared it would do," Coach Yost said, "while the rule giving protection on a backward pass was inserted only to encourage use of old plays."

He declared that "the lateral pass is as old as football."

"Why, we got it from the English when we got our football ideas from the British type of Rugby," he added. "They always had the man with the ball ahead of everybody else. We do it the other way. We try to get somebody ahead of the man with the ball. The English idea was when the man with the ball saw he was about to be tackled, he would say 'I will slip this pill to you,' and he would.

"When we began to develop American Rugby we started to use the lateral pass, but we had men ahead of the man with the ball. We added other things like blocking and tackling. Why? Because we like that sort of thing. Because we Americans are a hardy people, we like such stuff.

"It suits our temperament. Our temperament is different from the British. Take baseball, for example. We got our idea of baseball from cricket. But we improved it. It was too slow for us. Can you imagine an American being patient enough to sit through a game of cricket, knock off and have tea, eat dinner, go to bed, get a good night's rest and go to the cricket field. That's not our style.

"There's nothing the matter with football. Nothing particularly impressive about it this year, except this one thing. There are an unusual number of good teams. Lots of them.

"There is a lot of scoring. But not too much. There is not too much offense. If there was too much to suit the public why the rule makers would restrict it. Football is all right. Rule changes haven't hurt. Good kickers can still make good on points after touchdown."

As for the moving back of the goal posts, Coach Yost said:

"That has not affected the game. We are kicking goals after touchdown just the same."

SOCCER

by TOM BIRKS

The meeting of the International League provided plenty of room for thought among soccerites. This league is having a tough time getting by, especially with its Sunday games. However, there seems to be a slight letup in the opposition to the games, and there is more than a chance that the schedule will be completed without further trouble.

The surprise of the week-end was the defeat of the Corinthians at the hands of Pittsburgh. The Ekequits combination has been playing in and out soccer all season. But on the other hand the Castle Shannon aggregation has been stopping all the opposition with its great brand of soccer. However, Dolan, Mangus, Olsen, Boyle and Morgan are all veterans, and play as such, and that team usually can defeat any team of the younger stars.

The American League will get together tonight at headquarters and there is a chance that one of the oldest players in the district might get a stiff sentence as the result of rough playing. There is getting quite a feeling on some of the teams to get certain players in the district that might be a little too good for the opposition. Unless the leagues curtail this practice, drastic methods will have to be taken with the offenders along other lines.

Puck Donnelli showed some of the boys the way to score goals at Heidelberg last Sunday. The old Morgan player usually can upset the best of defenses and never fails to display plenty of dash around the opponent's goal.

Three goals is no mean feat against a good defense like the Internationals have in Thompson, Zupanic and White, and with McCosky and Chapple rounding into form, the national champs should make things decidedly interesting for the rest of the clubs.

Mike Bookie, old-time Curry star, is again flashing his skill in the vanguard of the International team. Mike still retains that wonderful shot that made him the most feared player in the country three seasons ago. Goalkeepers are still wary of the skill that remains in that soccer shoe, for Bookie's shot in this district has never been equaled.

Reports state that Barowsky, German sport star, was hurt in a recent game and is still feeling the effects of the injury. The same reports also state that the injury was anything but what the star forward should expect. Barowsky's cleverness has been a target for many defenders for a long time. Players should be sports and take the bumps as they come. Barowsky has probably taken more bumps than any forward in the district, and never complains.

NOTES of the BOXERS

PETE ZIVIC, Willie Davies and Homer Robertson all are booked for battles tonight. Pete, the local bantamweight, boxes Billy Shaw in one of the 10-rounders on the all-star card in the big new Detroit arena; Davies, the Charleroi flyweight, meets Corp. Izzy Schwartz in a 10-rounder in New York, and Robertson, Negro middleweight, formerly of this city, but now of Boston, boxes Jimmy King of New Orleans in a return bout of 10 rounds at New Bedford, Mass. King was awarded a decision over Robertson at New Bedford last week.

Tiger Flowers boxes Maxie Rosenbloom in the main bout of the Detroit show tonight and Jack McVey and Joe Simonich, welters, are matched in another 10-round bout, besides the Zivic-Shaw affair.

Promoter Jim McGirr of McKeesport reports keen interest in his show for tomorrow night in the Palisades Roller Rink. The fans like good punchers and have fallen in love with the work of Rudy Ceder, Tarentum light-middleweight, who meets Mike Dempsey of Rochester, N. Y. in the 10-round main bout. Johnny Dunn of New Kensington boxes Eddie Myers of Detroit in the semi-final and there will be two other bouts.

Harry Taylor of the North Side has been matched to box Young Rudy at Johnstown a week from next Monday. Rudy won a referee's decision over Teddy Welch in the Flood City last Monday night. Georgie Peck, Taylor's stablemate, will be on the same card.

Reed Brown has a new middleweight under his wing whom he will show the fans within a few weeks. He is Ed Kremer.

The State Athletic Commission having put a ban on easy matches for big George Godfrey, the latter's proposed bout with Andre De Rosa of Italy at Motor Square Garden next Monday night is off and in its place Harry Blitman of Philadelphia, who holds a one-round knockout victory over Al Corbett of Cleveland, will meet Young Rudy of Charleroi in the main event of a card of four eight-round battles.

Tug Phillips of Fayette City boxes Joe Schitz of Buffalo in a six-round bout at Erie Friday night.

SHOTS and PASSES

by JULIUS LEVIN

SUPPORTED by the leading industrial concerns in this vicinity, the Commercial-Industrial League stands an excellent chance of being the outstanding circuit in this vicinity this winter.

Although only a year old, the Commercial-Industrial League showed enough class last winter to warrant this rating. Some of the best independent players developed in Western Pennsylvania are enrolled in this popular circuit and indications point to a close race for the championship.

Pittsburgh and Lake Erie, Duquesne Light and Carnegie Steel all have quintets that compare favorably with the best industrial teams in this section.

COACH CHICK DAVIES has a large squad of promising candidates out for his Duquesne University varsity quintet this winter. Among the prominent candidates for the team are Losman, Steeves, Schmittle, Benedict, Murphy, Barrett, Pratt, Silverstein, O'Donnell, Kemp, Klaber, Lally, Rosenberg, Reich, Vernon, Collodi, Lubic, Mervis and Vizza.

The Dukes have been making excellent progress in the early workouts and should be in first-class condition for the opening game of the season.

Frank (Patty) Rubenstein, a brother of Moy Rubenstein, Geneva College star, will lead the Irene Kaufmann Settlement house senior quintet this winter. Rubenstein is a veteran of the popular winter indoor sport and should add much strength to the I. K. S. this season.

The B. L. Succops and the Goldenson Furnitures, two of South Side's entrants in the Pittsburgh and Ohio Valley, virtually have the same followings of supporters and their first league encounter is eagerly awaited. Both teams rank among the leaders enrolled in this loop, having signed some of the outstanding stars from across the river.

The Irene Kaufmann Settlement House and the McKees Rocks Business Men have withdrawn from the Pittsburgh and Ohio League, making that circuit an eight-club organization. The eight teams retaining franchises are the Mielcs, Somermans, Sianos, Goldensons, Succops, St. Richards, St. Catherines and Junkers of McKeesport.

TRIPLE THREAT CENTER

AMES, Ia., Nov. 9.—The only triple threat center in football, that's Duke Ayres of Iowa State's eleven. Ayres is pulled out of the line by Coach Noel Workman to do all the punting and some of the passing for Ames. He is also used, when the opposing team is set for a pass or punt, to run the ends. He's one of the lightest centers in the Missouri Valley conference.

The Poor Kid

ALL of a sudden, before the Princeton game, it is discovered that Bruce Caldwell, Yale's backfield star, is ineligible under the transfer rule because he played in a couple of games as a freshman at Brown University, and he is kicked off the Elis' squad, causing genuine regret among sports followers in general. Of course, it is true that rules are made to be observed as well as broken, and in a showdown must be enforced or laughed out of existence, but Caldwell is such a pathetic figure in his sudden fall from grace that public sentiment is distinctly with him. It was no secret that Caldwell was a member of the Brown squad at one time and the remarkable feature is that this connection has not been shown up as a violation of the code of his own university long before this.

Caldwell comes from a poor family. His father and mother both have been working in a cotton factory at Ashton, R. I., to keep him in college. He wanted to quit following his junior year, but they insisted he complete his college course. An injury kept him out of the game most of last season and this year he was on his way to all-America fame when his bubble suddenly burst.

We believe we echo the sentiment of the collegiate athletic world when we say:

"Aw, the poor kid!"—HARRY KECK.

YALE FLAYS CALDWELL'S "JUDAS"

Dukes Guard Against Over-Confidence

DRURY BROTHERS STAR ·:· ON GRIDIRON AND ICE ·:· IN EAST AND WEST

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

NOT since the Blacksox expose after the world series of 1919, or like scandals in other sports tarnishing the names of idols who had been placed upon pedestals as representing all that was good and clean and worthy of emulation, has such a vast part of the sport world been stunned by any similar development as in the suspension of Earle Sande, noted jockey.

Sande was set down for an alleged fouling of Chick Lang, another rider, in the running of the $53,000 Pimlico Futurity at the Pimlico track last week, and after giving him a hearing yesterday the Maryland State Racing Commission refused to restore the jockey license of the suspended star.

NOT only is the suspension of Sande a severe blow to the jockey himself and to his employer, Joseph E. Widener, whose stable will not place nearly so many victories as usual to its credit while Sande is unable to ride, but it hits as well the whole racing game and its followers.

For Sande, the acknowledged king of the pigskin, is the most colorful jockey of his time. He is to the racing game what Babe Ruth is to baseball, what Bobby Jones is to golf, what Man 'o War used to be to the turf, Bill Tilden to tennis and John L. Sullivan to the prize ring.

EVEN a defeat for Sande in a big race has always been a source of deep regret to his followers, but to realize that he has been suspended for foul riding is a staggering blow to them, even though their confidence in him will lead many of them stoutly to maintain his innocence.

QUERIES have been received as to how far-reaching the suspension of Sande will be under the ruling of the Maryland racing authorities.

The decree means that the great jockey is automatically barred from riding on any race track in the United States or Canada, for as a turf veteran explains it, there are reciprocal understandings on such rulings among the various turf bodies of North America.

Sande will not be permitted to ply his trade as a jockey until his license is restored to him, a step that many expect will be taken in the spring when new licenses are issued.

THOUGH Sande will not be permitted to ride on any of the tracks in this country or Canada as long as his license is withheld from him, he will not be actually ruled off the turf in the sense that he will not be permitted to attend the races at any track.

There is only one that will deny him admission, and that is Pimlico, the one on which the alleged foul was committed.

If he so desires Earl may pay his way into the Bowie track, which opens Saturday, and he will be readily admitted there and elsewhere, except at Pimlico, as it is only the latter track that will put in force that part of the sentence—punishment that is pronounced by veteran racing men the severest handed out to a jockey in this country for foul riding since the case of Carroll Shilling.

DANGEROUS as the giant Nebraska team threatens to be in the game agaln Pitt here Saturday, particularly if the playing field is in the soft or muddy condition that gives an advantage to the team with the greater weight and handicaps the one with the greater speed, Panther followers see one new ray of hope in the fact that Paul Fisher is likely to be in shape to resume his position against the Cornhuskers.

It will help a lot if Fisher can be in there to play quarterback and to lead the interference, and if Dick Booth and Jimmy Hagan can regain something like physical soundness again, in the meantime.

TOM PARKINSON tried hard against Wash-Jeff last Saturday, but Parkinson is not a quarterback, and there are special duties connected with the position which neither he nor any one else could learn in three days.

It's hardly more than possible that Charley Edwards will be in shape for this game, but much will be gained if Fisher alone of the backfield cripples is able to be back on the job.

FOOTBALL men are still discussing the Pitt-W. & J. game of last Saturday as a model showing the cleanliness of modern college sports.

Here was one of the most doggedly-fought battles ever seen on any gridiron, a contest between ancient rivals that was waged with uncommon vigor throughout, yet only 12 men were used on each team to play it through, and at the finish neither side reported any real injury.

It was new evidence that though hard and rough, the play was clean, as it has been in every game between these colleges for many years and as it is to almost every modern collegiate contest.

EASTERN fight critics, always extravagant with their descriptive phrases when a newcomer to Gotham does something sensational in the ring are raving to such an extent over Leo Lomski for his impressive victory over Yale Okun a few days ago that some of them are referring to Lomski as a second Stanley Ketchel in body punching power.

That's putting it pretty strongly. There is no question, from all reports that in thrashing Okun Lomski looked like a coming championship contender, and showed more ability and force at slamming his opponent's body than any fighter in the East since the best days of Paul Berlenbach.

BUT calling him or any other modern battler a second Ketchel is considerable of an exaggeration. Ketchels are not born in every fistic generation, and the fight world still has quite a while to wait before it can hope to glimpse anything like a real duplicate of the one-time "assassin."

SPEAKING of SPORTS by HARRY KECK SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS EDITOR

A FOLLOWER of Pitt football comes to bat with a suggestion that he asks us to set forth in this colmun for what it may be worth and in the hope that the proper authorities will see it and weigh its possibilities.

The thought is that it might not be a bad idea for the football teams of Pitt and W. & J. to meet in a post-season game in an effort to play off their scoreless tie of last Saturday, which followed on the heels of a similar result last season.

"I am reliably informed," this man tells me, "that Pitt still is seriously considering going to the Coast to play in the Tournament of Roses game if it gets safely past Nebraska and Penn State in its two remaining games. Why wouldn't it be a better idea, if Pitt is figuring on playing a post-season game, to play it at home and make it a 'natural' that will pack the stadium and help to pay off the mortgage on the old homestead, which is a staggering proposition? I think a return battle with W. & J. would be just about the ticket. It would decide which really is the better team and at the

New Card Pilot to Trade

SKIPPER BILL M'KECHNIE subscribes to the "early bird" theory. Back from St. Louis after being officially installed as manager of the Cardinals, Bill this morning grabbed the 6:30 bus for Little Washington and less than two hours later he, with his good friend, Wray Zelt of Washington, was deep in the woods of that neighborhood in quest of quail, pheasant and rabbit.

McKechnie returned in time to cast a ballot in the exciting election, after which he began to line up his dogs and guns for a two-day hike into the hunting zone. He expects to return late tomorrow night and will then be available to all baseball men who might like to discuss deals.

"We contemplate making a number of changes," said McKechnie. "Of course we would have to be satisfied with our end of any deals before we would complete the transactions. Every manager is out to strengthen his team, and we believe that we have a few players we can spare provided we get value in return.

"The St. Louis outlook, I think, is encouraging. The doctors inform us that Tommy Thevenow's bad injuries should be healed by the time we go into spring training. When Tommy went down we lost a great player and fine teamworker. Thevenow means

PITT WORKS CRIPPLED TEAM

By JESS CARVER.

THERE is a strange situation existing up on Duquesne University's Bluff. It's a state of affairs that wasn't dreamed of last season, or the season before that or in fact, for many, many seasons back. It's a situation that is giving the grid coaches plenty of worry, and threatens to become the big problem confronting them for the remainder of the season and for the Waynesburg game this week in particular.

A Duquesne eleven is threatened with over-confidence.

Had you made such a crack a year or so ago, folks would have given you goofy looks and tapped their foreheads, wiggled their ears or done whatever folks do when they are trying to convey the impression that a chap is a bit off. Back in the days when a first down at Duquesne against a good team was considered a moral victory, the record that the Dukes have compiled this fall was undreamed of. The Dukes have now won three football games in succession, downing Thiel, Westminster and St. Francis, have won four and tied another out of a possible seven. And what is more, the team is playing as good a brand of football right now as is any Class B team in the section.

The triumphs scored over Westminster, Thiel and St. Francis have had the tendency to buoy Duquesne hopes to a point that closely approaches the dangerous stage. In Waynesburg, the opponent of the week, to be played on the Bluff Fri-

THROUGH the SPORT LENS by HAVEY BOYLE

CHARLEY SHERMAN, the big barbecue man, was one of the local boxing fans, who for the last year or so have argued that Young Saylor, of Charleroi, was Jack Zivic's superior. That doesn't sound so strange now in view of Saylor's handsome victory over Zivic the other night at Motor Square Garden, but a year ago Sherman's remarks brought quite a few guffaws from the fistic intelligence. The fact that Saylor vindicated Sherman's judgment is the reason that Charley is walking around on air.

HAVEY BOYLE.

Having Mr. Sherman vindicated in this fashion is no small matter to a few of a circle that sit around once in awhile voicing divers opinions on the state of the nation with especial regard to fisticuffs. His recent success will make Mr. Sherman just a little more positive, and Heaven knows, when he says: "Ab-sol-lute-ly," he has plenty of positiveness about him.

Wielding a trenchant pen on occasion those who a year ago thought that Charley Sherman was wrong will likely find a few letters coming in.

The last time Charley wrote us we threw the letter in the waste basket. He succeeded so well in proving us wrong about a certain matter that we determined that letter should

MUHLENBERG STARS BACK ON SQUAD

ALLENTOWN, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Nick and Frank Borrelli and Eddie Dickert, the three star backfield men of the Muhlenberg College football team, who attracted wide attention when they turned in their uniforms between the halves of the Muhlenberg-Ursinus football game last Saturday, are back in the fold.

After a conference with Coach Benfer, the players agreed they had made a mistake in the heat of the moment, while the coach was pointing out the flaws in the team's play

GRID GREAT IS BANNED BY ELIS

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Because a youth four years ago played two insignificant games of football as an obscure freshman at Brown University the roaring tens of thousands at the Yale bowl for the Yale-Princeton game on Saturday will not see the head-long, hair-breadth, dashing play of one of the greatest half backs Yale football ever knew.

Ruled ineligible, Bruce Caldwell today considered dully the possibility of getting a job waiting on table to eke out his scanty funds. Training table fare has eased his budget worries thus far this fall by taking care of the item of board.

In Ashton, R. I., his father and mother, both weavers in a textile mill, whose earnings have supplemented his own in paying his way through college, are disappointed. They had planned to see him play against Princeton.

Among the athlete's fellow-students today appeared a feeling of pronounced resentment of what was seen as cruel personal injustice to Caldwell in revelation of his violation of Yale's eligibility rules just four days before the Princeton game and the realization of his greatest ambition.

"In the broadest interpretation of the rules of gentlemanly conduct," said the Yale News, "we cannot excuse this Shylock for waiting until now to demand his pound of flesh. What but the basest motives of personal bitterness could prompt a man to withhold his hoarded evidence un-

Vic Saier Off Bucs' List

VICTOR SAIER, a Pirate first baseman in 1919, who has been carried on the Pittsburgh reserve list for many years, today was given his unconditional release, according to an announcement made by President Barney Dreyfuss.

Vic Saier

Saier started his major league career with the Cubs in 1911 and for several seasons was a dependable player and slugger. In 1917 the Pirates claimed him via the waiver route. There was a dispute over his services, but Saier eventually was awarded to the Pittsburgh team.

Saier broke his leg near the end of his career in Chicago. He joined the Pirates in 1919, but although he played many games for the Buccos he could not get into his best stride and in August asked permission to retire. Since that time he has been on the voluntary retired list of the Pirates.

Vic was a left-handed batter of the slugging type. His home is in Lansing, Mich.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Fractional improvement was registered by a number of high-grade bonds in today's market, but trading continued relatively light. Firmness of federal government issues was a feature, giving further evidence of the satisfaction in financial circles over the terms of the November 15 refinancing program. Transactions in second Liberty 4¼s, which are to be refunded, have fallen off sharply in the last week, the price hovering around par.

Demand for railway liens was again rather weak, Mobile and Ohio 4½s reached a new peak at 98¼, and a few other such issues as Missouri Pacific 5s, Erie refunding 5s and Chicago and Northwestern 4¾s were moderately active at or just under their previous peaks.

Industrial and public utility mortgages were quiet, with easing tendencies in some quarters. International Agricultural Chemical 5s jumped 2½ points on a handful of sales.

In the foreign group United Steel Works 6½s fell back more than a point. There was some further accumulation of French issues and a few Italian municipal obligations gained fractionally. Prompt oversubscription of the $5,300,000 Mortgage Bank of Denmark 5s was reported. New offerings expected shortly include $20,000,000 North German Lloyd 6s.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows (000 omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Trading was on a large scale on the curb exchange today and the market generally displayed pronounced strength. Some issues, however, in which bullish developments occurred, reacted sharply under profit-taking sales. These included United Biscuit, which reacted 5 points, following the definite statements of the formation of a new merger in which it is to be the principal unit.

Vigorous advances were made in a long list of stocks. Celanese rose over 4 points and Deere & Co. moved up 6½ points to 217, establishing a new high record. Celluloid rose about 3 points and General Baking "A" advanced about a point, reaching a new peak for the year at 76½. United Leaf Tobacco also rose about a point, making a new high record at 65.

Alabama Great Southern entered new high ground when it climbed 2 points to 162, and the preferred rose a point. Bancitaly was strong in the early trading, selling at 117¾, and rallied after a moderate reaction. American Rolling Mills also showed strength in the early trading. Auburn Motor advanced more than 5 points and Caterpillar Tractor rose over 4 points. Servel new stock sold at 3⅝. Newmont Mining rose over 2 points to 107⅛.

Strength was shown in many of the utilities. American Gas and Electric moved up over 2 points and United Gas Improvement rose about a point. There was heavy trading again in Lehigh Power and Southwestern Power.

Vacuum was the strongest of the oil stocks, advancing 3 points to 125¼. British American Tobacco gained 2 points and Standard Oil of Indiana shares were in demand at a fractional advance.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—Influenced by crop damage reports from Argentina, wheat soon rallied today from an early decline. Buenos Aires dispatches said some zones south of Cordoba were injured 25 per cent. Opening unchanged to ⅛c up, wheat dropped ½c in some cases, but subsequently recovered to about yesterday's finish. Corn and oats were firm, corn starting unchanged to ⅛c up and later holding near to initial figures. Provisions showed weakness.

At noon wheat was ⅛c to ⅜c net lower, and corn ⅛c to ⅜c down.

Aside from reports that there had been crop damage in parts of Argentina, news today affecting the wheat market was chiefly bearish. This was the case in particular as to Argentine weather, which was described as fine, a condition auspicious for the approaching harvest. Meanwhile, export demand for North American wheat was apparently very small, and overnight business with Europe said to be next to nothing.

Unfavorable weather in the corn belt, together with a forecast of rain or snow, gave considerable firmness at times to the corn market. Adverse husking returns continued, with many points reporting a yield of hardly half what was expected.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—The raw sugar market was firmer early today and while no sales were reported there was a better inquiry, with buyers at 4.46c for Cuban duty paid, an advance of 1-16c over the last paid price, and offerings light.

Reflecting a firmer feeling in all of the foreign markets over our holiday, raw sugar futures were higher on covering and buying by houses with trade and European connections with the list at midday at about the best of the session and from 3 to 4 points above the previous close. Reports regarding the progress of the sugar conference abroad, relative to limitation of crops, were somewhat conflicting, but the action of the foreign markets was interpreted to mean that a satisfactory solution is possible. However, nothing definite along this line was reported and the trade was still inclined to be cautious.

In refined a fair inquiry was reported and prices were unchanged at 5.80c for fine granulated.

Window Glass Pfd. Sags Lower

There were no conspicuous changes in quotations on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange in the early session today. The market was quiet following the election day suspension of activities, and prices held very close to the levels prevailing on the close Monday.

Westinghouse Airbrake was steady. A small lot of Pittsburgh Coal preferred came out here at 90½, while in New York the quotation was a point higher. Coal common has been strong for the past few days and in the absence of official news, it was thought the old rumor of retirement of the preferred stock was behind the advance.

Fuel stocks were late in getting started here, apparently awaiting their cue from the big petroleum and gas shares on the New York exchange. Standard Sanitary was steady.

American Window Glass preferred established a new low for the year on sales at 88, continuing the downward movement which started shortly before the unfavorable earnings statement for the fiscal year made its appearance a few weeks ago.

Arkansas Gas livened up in the afternoon. Lone Star Gas was dull and slightly lower, but only a few shares of the stock changed hands. An odd lot of Peoples Savings and Trust stock changed hands at 545 per share, an advance of 10 points over the last preceding sale.

NEWTON STEEL DEAL FAILS

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Proposal for sale of the Newton Steel Company to an unnamed buyer who optioned the common stock at $42.50 a share has fallen through.

While official statements have not been made it can be said authoritatively that for the present the sale of the 100,000 shares of no-par stock is definitely off.

Difficulty in marketing the securities of the company in the present state of the market is given as one of the causes.

CROP FORECAST SHOWS GAIN IN COTTON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—An increase of 164,000 bales in this year's cotton crop during the last month was forecast today by the Department of Agriculture, which announced total production, as indicated November 1, to be 12,842,000 equivalent 500-pound bales. The indicated crop is 5,135,000 bales less than last year's record crop.

Generally warm, dry weather in October, the crop reporting board said, permitted rapid gathering of the crop, with less than usual loss to yield and quality, and bolls damaged by the weevil matured with less loss from rot than is usually experienced.

Prospects improved in Alabama, Mississippi and Oklahoma, but increases in those states were partly offset by a substantial decrease in the forecast for Texas, where production of 4,300,000 bales were indicated as compared with 4,430,000 bales a month ago.

Cotton of this year's crop ginned prior to November 1 totaled 9,925,735 running bales, counting 343,689 round bales as half bales and excluding linters, compared with 11,253,873 bales, including 358,327 round bales, to that date last year, and 11,207,197 bales, including 184,704 round bales, to November 1 in 1925, the Census Bureau announces today.

VETERANS OPEN REUNION HERE TOMORROW

Reunion headquarters for the veterans of the One Hundred and Seventh Field Artillery, gathering here for three days, will open at the Hunt Armory in East Liberty tomorrow morning. Capt. William K. Weaver, U. S. A., retired, president of the Veterans Association and Thomas M. Clark, chairman of the reception committee, will officially welcome the incoming veterans.

Each man registering will be given an overseas cap bearing the artillery colors, a reunion badge, and a program. The veterans will be assigned quarters at the armory, and will be taken on sightseeing trips. The One Hundred and Seventh Memorial tablets on the Hiker's Monument in Schenley Park, and the German heavy gun in Highland Park dedicated to the One Hundred and Seventh by the city will be two points of interest.

Meals for the veterans will be served at the Hunt Armory, and tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock the men will assemble to welcome at East Liberty station the delegations arriving in special cars from Eastern Pennsylvania. The arriving delegations will be escorted to the armory by bands and given supper, following which a vaudeville show and smoker will be staged.

Friday morning the artillerymen will assemble at the armory and will be transported to Marion street and Fifth avenue where they will lead the third division of the Armistice Day parade, under the command of Lt. Col. A. V. Crookston, former commander of the One Hundred and Seventh.

A luncheon will follow in an Oakland restaurant and the veterans will attend the Tech football game, led by the One Hundred and Seventh Band.

A business session with a memorial service will be held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at the armory. After the football game at Pitt Stadium they will assemble for their annual banquet in the William Penn Hotel. In addition to the various leaders of the One Hundred and Seventh Regiment who will speak at the banquet, Mayor Kline, members of the city council, and other officials of the city and county will be represented.

ELECTROCUTED MOVING AERIAL

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Nov. 9.—Six Ohio Power Company linemen unsuccessfully attempted for three hours to resuscitate Charles, 17, son of E. L. Morris, local dairy man, who was electrocuted yesterday at his home when he alighted from a ladder with a radio aerial wire in his hand, which he was drawing over a 2,300-volt power line. The ground formed a deadly contact.

AIRMAIL LINKS IN U. S.-GERMANY SERVICE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Letters and packages now may be mailed from Germany to the United States with swift carriage by air in both countries, the Commerce Department has announced. German postal authorities are accepting this mail at the German air mail rate, plus 21 cents per postcard to cover cost of carriage by ship and by plane in this country, the department was notified. The same charge is made for each 20 grams of heavier matter.

Odd Lot Wall Papers, Bolt	Small lots, 10 to 40 rolls of a kind—patterns suitable for any room. Sold with decoration only. Sixth Floor	2c

We find it always pays to take the public into our confidence. So here's the reason for the boldest and most revolutionary step that has been taken by a retail store in this city in the past quarter of a century

We planned to go after a record month in October. And HOW we bought! Market conditions were RIGHT, and our buyers accumulated enormous stocks.

But in our calculations, we forgot the WEATHER MAN! And instead of a cold October, we ran into INDIAN SUMMER, when the most attractive bargains could not influence the public to buy.

The net result is that we are now LOADED WITH THE BIGGEST STOCKS OF WINTER MERCHANDISE since we have been in business. So we are FORGETTING ABOUT PROFITS—and for the next THREE DAYS this town is going to see ACTION in this store that will make 'em think CHRISTMAS has come a month earlier than usual. Every department head has been ordered to contribute values sensational enough to bring capacity crowds, and we are going to offer

THE KIND OF MERCHANDISE THAT THE PUBLIC NEEDS NOW AT AN AVERAGE SAVING OF ABOUT A THIRD!

If you are economical. If you want to clothe your entire family at a big saving, then yours and a hundred thousand other families ought to storm the doors of this store during the next three days.

COOLIDGE FOR ESTATE TAX ABOLITION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—President Coolidge favors repeal of the Federal estate tax.

This was learned at the White House while the House Ways and Means Committee sought to get facts on alleged lobbying here for the repeal.

The President was represented at the White House as feeling the tax was a good wartime source of revenue, but that now it might well be left to the several states to levy if they chose. The President it was said, would not participate in an effort for repeal, but it was indicated he would not veto the measure if it came to him.

Shortly before the revelation there had been suggestions in the Ways and Means Committee hearing that agents, agitating for the repeal of the law, earned high sums—some as much as $5,000 a month—in getting subscriptions to back the repeal movement.

FILM ACTRESS NEAR COLLAPSE

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 9.—Virginia Lee Corbin, 17-year-old film actress, who swore out an insanity complaint against her mother and later withdrew the charge, was reported near a nervous collapse at her home here yesterday following a bitter quarrel over parties and her screen earnings.

Meanwhile, the young star's mother, Mrs. L. A. Corbin, who declared she swallowed "enough poison to kill 10 men" was under the observation of an alienist at a private sanitarium.

The daughter, who bitterly accuses her mother of "spoiling" her parties and "gambling away" thousands of dollars of her film earnings, relented and obtained the dismissal of the insanity charge.

WILSON PAPERS RESCUED

AMHERST, Mass., Nov. 9.—Invaluable papers and documents relating to the life of Woodrow Wilson were saved by firemen and townspeople here yesterday when fire partially destroyed the home of Ray Standard Baker, author.

Baker is now writing a biography of the late President.

Baker and his wife escaped from the building.

Firemen and volunteers joined in saving the Wilson papers, which were in trunks in the attic.

A valuable library also was saved. The fire was believed to have started from a fireplace in the rear of the first floor. The flames spread to the roof, causing damage estimated at $10,000 to $15,000.

HARD WINTER, BEES WARN

YORK, Pa., Nov. 9.—Bees are giving advance warning of a long, hard winter, according to E. E. Sterner, of Wrightsville. Dr. Sterner, who has made bee culture a lifelong hobby, based his prediction on the manner in which the bees are swarming, he said.

TRANTER FOR ROAD ACROSS CONTINENT

Cordial indorsement of the plan for the construction by the United States government of a transcontinental highway and feeders, as embodied in the Holaday bill now pending in Congress, came today from Henry Tranter, president of the Tranter Manufacturing Company and chairman of the committee on highways of the Chamber of Commerce of Pittsburgh.

Mr. Tranter is especially well qualified to render an opinion on the advisability of the project, because he has long been a student of road problems and only a few months ago made a motor journey from coast to coast. In discussing the matter he took a broad view, seeing not only benefits to transcontinental travelers by automobile and shippers by motor truck but to the American people generally by reason of the unifying influence that the coast-to-coast highway would exercise.

"I am heartily in favor of the Federal Government's building a paved transcontinental highway," he said. "The need of it has been brought to my attention by experience and observation.

HIS EXPERIENCE

"I was in California last spring and made the trip back by automobile. We went over the National Old Trail. After we left the pavements of California we encountered great stretches where they was no hard surface of any kind. We would go along for as much as 210 miles at a time in the dirt. Furthermore, there were long stretches in which the dirt road had not been stretched or dragged. There is gravel soil there and when the snow melts in the mountains and the water invades the roads in the spring it plays havoc.

"The distances out west are so great and the population in some of the states so small—Nevada in 1920 had only 77,407 inhabitants—that improvement and maintenance of the highways are too much of a burden for them to shoulder. Since the people of the whole country would benefit it looks like a Federal job to me.

FAVORS LINCOLN

"Forceful arguments can be advanced in favor of each of several trans-continental routes. We traveled over the National Trail, which has uninterrupted pavement from Topeka eastward to the Atlantic coast. But, personally, I favor the Lincoln Highway. Perhaps I am influenced by sentimental reasons—I admire so intensely the man for whom it is named. But a road that begins at New York, runs through Pittsburgh and Chicago, and ends at San Francisco has impressive claims to consideration. Before the route is definitely chosen the advice of many persons in all parts of the country should be solicited.

"In addition to a coast-to-coast road the government should develop a highway from our northern to our southern border.

"These highways would be invaluable for military purposes—in the event, for example, of trouble on our southwestern frontier. They would also promote friendship.

"They would have vast and far-reaching effect in getting the people of the different sections better acquainted with each other. Northerners and southerners would see more of each other and come to better understanding. East and West would find they had greater community of interest than they supposed. Patriotism would be stimulated. Let people mingle with one another and visit each other's territory and the barriers of distance will be broken down and sectionalism wiped out.

"The national highways should be of the most durable character. They should be not less than 18 feet wide at any point, and if we can stand the expense I would like to see the minimum width 20 feet, so as to provide two traffic lanes each 10 feet wide. Big trucks and busses are getting more and more numerous, and wide roads are needed to permit them to pass each other.

"Concrete roads are popular; they are preferable for traction; when well drained they are durable and substantial, and they are easier to drive at night, because of their light color, than highways constructed of darker material. A white strip in the middle of the road should be incorporated in its construction; it is better than a transitory painted line. The federal transcontinental and Canada-to-Gulf roads should have this feature."

NEW BUILDINGS IN CITY HELD NECESSITY

Pittsburgh needs all its new office buildings to provide for future growth, and the present building boom is the most hopeful sign in the city's progress in the last decade, according to James W. Bamford, president of the Pittsburgh Building Owners and Managers Association, who addressed the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board yesterday at the noon luncheon in the William Penn Hotel.

The city was badly underbuilt until new projects were started recently, Mr. Bamford pointed out. Pittsburgh now has but 50,000 square feet of vacant office space, with 500,000 square feet coming on in the new office buildings. This compares with more than 2,000,000 square feet of vacant office space in New York, and more than 1,000,000 feet each in Philadelphia and Detroit.

For a long time large blocks of office space were not available in Pittsburgh. Large firms wishing to establish offices here could not find available space. This condition exists now unless the new buildings are taken into account. Rents are not likely to show any drastic declines as the result of the new buildings, Mr. Bamford said. There will be more adjustments and probably considerable shifting by tenants, but prices are expected to hold firm. Mr. Bamford is rental manager for C. C. McKallip & Co.

M. J. Ehrenfeld sold for the John Haller estate to Joseph Barad two three-story buildings at the southeast corner of Pride and Forbes streets, lot 40x40 feet, for $22,000.

B. Thorpe & Co. sold for Clement Martin to Henry W. Stone a house on 40x110 feet, at 2816 Beechwood boulevard, Fourteenth Ward, for $16,500. The buyer take the property for a home.

A house at 1026 Davis avenue, Twenty-seventh Ward, lot 40x213 feet, has been sold by Louis C. Bruckman to Chester Stone for $15,000.

A house in Denniston avenue, Fourteenth Ward, lot 27½x100 feet, has been sold by Samuel Lando to J. Earl Henry for $19,250.

LIBERALS WIN IN NICARAGUA

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The Liberal Party in Nicaragua have defeated the Conservatives in the municipal elections, advices to the State Department indicated today.

The elections were supervised by American Marines, aided by native constabulary and passed without disorder or untoward incident of any kind.

The American State Department was represented as surprised at the strength shown by the Liberals. This government had been actively supporting the Conservative group headed by President Adolfo Diaz. All factions were promised fair treatment, however, and officials expressed gratification that a peaceful election had taken place.

TRAIN WIRES BURNED OUT

STEUBENVILLE, O., Nov. 9.—Four telegraph cables and new equipment for train control were burned out when fire started by an overheated stove destroyed MR tower of Pennsylvania Railroad at Millers Station yesterday. Damage was estimated at $25,000. The fire held up trains for a short time.

EAST END CLUB TO PRESENT DRAMA NOV. 21

On Monday evening, November 21, the Sodality Dramatic Club of the Sacred Heart Church, East End, will present a comedy, "The Rebellion of Mrs. Barclay." This will be the first performance of its kind in the new guild hall, 5920 Center avenue.

Oil Jury Fixing a Shock. Black Sheep Exception. A Shining Example.

By B. C. FORBES

HOW disgusting, shocking, discouraging these latest Sinclair charges at Washington! They will hurt big business.

You can't blame the public for reaching only one conclusion. This rich man having already been implicated in bribery charges, the revelations that an army of detectives were hired to delve into the character and financial condition of his jurors are enough to convince one that plans were thus being laid for the perpetration of further bribery should this appear to become necessary.

SHORT of murder, it is hard to conceive a more heinous offense on the part of a captain of industry. The charges that he bribed a member of the United States cabinet were and are grave enough in all conscience. But, somehow, this latest charge strikes ordinary folks as still more despicable. To use money to corrupt an ordinary member of the public ordered to do jury duty reaches a depth of infamy utterly revolting. Why should any poor man, compelled to render public service as a juror, be subjected to such temptation?

Capitalists should be the last persons in the world to attempt by iniquitous means to break down our system of government, our legal processes, for they depend wholly upon the protection of our government and our courts for the safeguarding of their fat possessions.

THE worst of it is that such acts tend to bring all capitalists and all business under suspicion. And, heaven knows, it has been uphill work to convince the public that big business has been raising its standards gratifyingly during recent years.

It may not help much by explaining that this man Sinclair has for years been regarded in the business world as—well, not a shining example. Years ago the writer frankly criticized Sinclair and subsequently refused overtures from his friends to bring about "a friendly meeting."

THE indisputable truth is that the vast majority of men of large affairs are absolutely honest and honorable. Black sheep there are, of course. But the percentage is smaller today than it ever was before. Not only so, but the whole code of business has been elevated most encouragingly.

BY way of relief and contrast, it is refreshing to turn to an incident concerning another American man of large affairs revealed by Henry L. Stoddard, the well known editor, in a book about to be published, "As I Knew Them, From Grant to Coolidge." The central figure in this instance was A. Barton Hepburn, the country boy who rose to high place and reputation in the financial world and capably filled the presidency of the Chase National Bank of New York for many years. Here is the incident; I happen to know that it is authentic because Mr. Hepburn narrated it to me many years ago:

"Hepburn was a village school teacher in St. Lawrence county, northern New York. Because he was not in politics, the warring Conkling and anti-Conkling factions in Hepburn's village compromised by selecting him as a delegate to the Republican state convention. In the county convention, however, the Conkling forces passed resolutions instructing all St. Lawrence delegates to vote with United States Senator Roscoe Conkling.

"When the issue came in the state convention, many of them ignored their instructions. Hepburn insisted that, inasmuch as he had come pledged, he would remain pledged to the end. That night he was aroused from sleep by a message that Senator Conkling desired to see him. Amazed that such a great man should send for a poor schoolmaster, he hastened over to Conkling's room. Conkling told him he had heard of his decision to stand by his instructions. He said to him: 'This is your first convention, but it won't be your last. Every man who stands by his word succeeds.' He then told Hepburn that he hoped he would call upon him if he could ever be of help to him.

"A year or so later, a national bank examiner was to be appointed. Conkling sent for Hepburn; offered him the position. He accepted, and thus began a career that brought Hepburn into national esteem as a student of finance, a banker of great ability and, finally, a man worth many millions. The experience of his first convention remained with him as a guide through life."

THE percentage of men whose word is as good as their bond is as high among our financial and business leaders as it is among other classes. To become and stay a very influential figure, a man nowadays must earn and retain the confidence of others. That can't be done by conscienceless trickery.

STOCKS BREAK AFTER COTTON REPORT

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Sharp breaks in stocks and cotton divided speculative interest in today's market. The reaction in the stock market came after an early period of strength and probably was influenced by the drop of as much as $7 a bale in cotton prices which followed the publication of an unexpectedly large crop estimate.

The recent recovery in stock prices had cancelled a substantial portion of the sharp losses last month and the spirited advance in some of the high priced specialties undoubtedly had weakened the market's technical position. At their top figures of the morning, such popular issues as General Motors, U. S. Steel common and General Electric averaged about 5 points above the recent lows while Houston Oil was nearly 20 points higher. Steel and General Electric reacted 3 points from Monday's closing levels in the early afternoon and Allied Chemical, Commercial Solvents, Delaware and Hudson and Dupont sold 4 to 6 points lower.

The weekly steel trade reviews reported that business in the first week of November was holding up to the October level and that a considerable tonnage, particularly for rails and pipe lines, was in prospect for the early months of next year. Another advance of 10 points was made in the price of export copper.

Banks called about $10,000,000 in loans during the morning but call money continued in plentiful supply at the renewal figure of 3½ per cent.

In the first up-rush of buying, Continental Insurance soared 4 points, Warren Brothers 6½, and the American Tobacco issues, Arnold Constable, Real Silk Hosiery, Fidelity-Phenix Insurance and several other specialties advanced 2 or more points, but these gains were cut down in the afternoon selling.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The cotton market opened firm today at an advance of 8 to 22 points, active months selling about 15 to 20 points net higher on buying encouraged by relatively steady Liverpool cables and reports of unfavorable weather in the South.

January advanced to 21.02c and May to 21.33c, but these prices met Southern hedging and realizing, and there were reactions of 8 or 10 points from the best. There seemed to be considerable covering, together with domestic and foreign trade buying, however, and the market showed a generally steady undertone in early trading. The bulk of demand was attributed to covering by trade or speculative shorts in advance of the government crop report.

The early advance extended to 21.06c for January, or about 18 to 20 points net higher, and the market was within a few points of these figures when trading was suspended to receive the government report. The ginning figures, showing 9,925,795 bales ginned prior to November 1, were about in line with expectations, but the official crop indication of 12,842,000 bales compared with the October 1 indication of 12,678,000 evidently made a bearish impression. The reopening of the market was accompanied by heavy selling, with a quick break of about 95 to 160 points from the high prices of the morning, or 79 to 143 points from the closing quotations of Monday. Trade buying on scale-down orders helped to absorb these heavy offerings, and there were sharp rallies, January selling up from 19.45c to 20.50c, but later easing off again to 20.06c. The market was still nervous and unsettled around midday and about 60 to 82 points net lower.

Export Tonnage Increase.

General expectation is that a moderate increase will be reported in unfilled orders of U. S. Steel Corporation as of October 31, last, to be published at noon tomorrow. Most estimates are that gain will be less than [illegible] tons. Corporation booked large orders for rails in October, especially in the Middle West and these contracts brought bookings to a point where an increase is possible. There was also a moderate gain in general run of orders last month, but shipments continued large and thus offset better bookings to some extent. As of September 30, last, unfilled orders were [illegible] tons. An increase as now expected would bring total to in excess of [illegible] tons. On October 31, 1926, bookings amounted to [illegible] tons.

Sargent's Views on Business.

A continued slight depression in general trade for the country as a whole is predicted by Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago and Northwestern Railway, now on a tour of the system. He added that Nebraska would be an exception, as the big crops in this section pointed to larger business. Mr. Sargent said that, while he feels sure there will not be another panic, business has not gotten away from the peaks and valleys of the past. "I am sure that it will always be natural to expect cycles of intensive business to be followed by at least a moderate slowing up in business," he added. "The next definitely upward cycle I expect will begin in the last months of next year."

same time would help Pitt to greatly reduce its stadium debt, a very worthy object."

The suggestion merits consideration. If a post-season game is in the wind, why not play it at home with a definite object in view, rather than on the far-away Coast, where nothing really would be decided?

YOUNG SAYLOR, the Charleroi auto mechanic and daddy, who rose to his greatest heights in accomplishing the downfall of Jack Zivic in the 10-round main bout at Motor Square Garden last Monday night, is slated for other choice assignments in the East End arena and may be well up in the big money before this indoor season goes by the boards. Already there is agitation for a match between Saylor and Cuddy DeMarco, who also has beaten Zivic, and it may be closed for an early date. In DeMarco, Saylor would meet a very clever opponent and one who should prove harder to defeat than the fighting Zivic, and if Saylor got safely past Cuddy he'd be ready to hold the local fort against the best at his weight in the country. Saylor is a stablemate of Willie Davies, the State flyweight champion, and is under the management of Jim Buchanan of Charleroi. DeMarco also hails from Charleroi, and started boxing there, but since his marriage has been making his home in McKeesport.

BILLY MURRAY, former manager of the Phillies and connected with baseball for years in the capacity of scout, coach, manager, player and what-not, was a visitor in Pittsburgh the other day and was in his usual fine story-telling mood. First off, he commented favorably on the appointment of Bert Shotten to succeed Stuffy McInnis as manager of the Phillies for next season.

"I've known Bert for years," he said, "and regard him as one of the smartest players in the game. He should make good in his new job."

Murray then told a corking story on Kid Gleason, former star player and later manager and coach. He recounted what a tough egg the Kid was in his palmy days when he was a member of the Phillies, managed by Murray.

"WE were Chicago for a series," Murray said, "and the Kid and some of his pals went out one night to make the rounds. They became mixed up in a quarrel in a tough joint and were tossed out on the cool night air. The Kid's pals had enough and beat it, but not the Kid. He went back for more and got it. And then he went back again. By this time he had two broken ribs and had been ruptured and had a flat nose and was otherwise busted up. Finally, just as they were drawing the blinds to close up in the wee small hours of the morning, he made his way up to the door again and knocked. One of the toughs opened it and looked at the Kid aghast.

"'What! Back again?' he gasped. 'Say, don't you know when you've had enough? What do you want now?'

"The Kid could scarcely speak through his mangled frontispiece, but he responded with:

"'I want my hat. I can't go home like this!'"

ACCORDING to Murray, the Kid got his hat, and, as he backed to the door, he came up with:

"And another thing, you guys. If I hadn't tripped over a chair, there'd be three or four of you bimbos stretched out on the floor right now."

AND, despite his many injuries, the Kid was at his regular position in the lineup the next afternoon and played a whale of a game.

never see the light of day. He got a bigger kick out of our fear than he would have got had we used the dirty old letter.

THERE is a suggestion of Jack Dempsey about Jack Zivic, barring, of course, the dimensions. Zivic, winning or losing, keeps pressing his foe; he uses a left hook constantly, and again like Dempsey he is not difficult to hit. Zivic's willingness at all times is one of his greatest assets. As a general rule you can always count on action when the Lawrenceville boy climbs into any ring. It's too bad that his sudden rise to fistic acclaim, produced by splendid kayoes over Goldman and Tendler, was suddenly checked. There was a time when to a great many he had the earmarks, meaning no pun, of a champion.

THERE are few places in the fistic woods where Zivic is not always considered a good repeater. He lost the other night to Saylor, something might relegate an ordinary scrapper to a point far away from the future matches, yet pick a good opponent for Zivic and he will draw far more business to the gate than his clever conqueror of the other evening.

WITH a little more heft in his punch Saylor would have gone far. No one has seen in recent years a left-hand that finds its marks so readily. He hits straight out and he can bring it up with great speed. What many things a left hand can do! It protects him from enemy rushes and it sends back, with a counter attack, many a pretentious punch.

POOR Zivic heard a razzberry chorus from some of his former constituents in Lawrenceville. This, because a couple of years ago Jack changed his address from historic Lawrenceville to New York. So far Zivic has missed the fate of the late Charley Case, who used to tell vaudeville audiences that two towns had a great dispute over him, Brooklyn insisting he was born in Boston and Boston maintaining he was a Brooklyn boy.

DID you notice in the Pitt-Wash-Jeff football game how the rival punters, Kirkman and Hagen, took their time in getting off their long punts? Each had the utmost confidence in the line to hold back those of the enemy side trying to break through to block the kick. Kicking punts is too often taken as something done easily. It is difficult, needing a combination of intelligence and power. A punter can move his team out of danger better than any other factor.

DUKES

day afternoon, the Dukes will be meeting a team that held Geneva to 12-6 and has potential power enough to wreck the hopes of better teams than Duquesne.

Yesterday, Layden and Weibel gave the Dukes a strenuous session of signal drill and scrimmage, taught the ends a few things about getting down under punts and polished the already neat aerial attack with a long workout. The drill was made especially hard, so as to destroy if possible, even the most faint trace of over-confidence.

PITT STILL CRIPPLED

Out on the Pitt Stadium, Jock Sutherland is whipping his crippled Panthers into shape for the Nebraska encounter, with fair prospects of putting his real strength on the field against the Cornhusker invaders.

This game will be another battle of lines, for the Westerners are bringing a ponderous 200-pound forward wall with a set of fast running and hard hitting backs. Pitt's light line, probably the fastest in the country, and also the lightest in major football today, came out of the W. & J. game in good physical shape, albeit the boys took a terrific pounding from W. & J.'s heavier wall.

Pitt's hopes of a victory over Nebraska are to be found in the aerial game and in the return of either Fisher or Edwards to the quarterback post. With another week's drill at the quarter job, Tom Parkinson might get along a sight better than he did against W. & J., but it will be far better if he can be used at fullback, working with Dickie Booth, of course, and give the quarter post to either of the regulars.

Jim Hagan's injured left arm is coming along in fair fashion, though he will not be at his best even by Saturday. Welch is o. k., as usual, and Dick Booth seems to have completely recovered from his stomach ailment. If the latter is true, Pitt will have a man to offset the undoubted strength that Nebraska finds in Presnell, the plunging Cornhusker fullback.

TARTANS READY

Carnegie Tech, having announced that the members of the One Hundred and Seventh Field Artillery, Twentieth Division, are to be guests of honor at the Tech-Western Reserve game Friday, turned around and made another speech, in which it was stated that the ball game will be known as the "Endowment Day Game" and that the proceeds will be turned over to the Carnegie Tech endowment fund, which will be worth $4,000,000, providing the local institution raises half that amount. The Carnegie Corporation is to double the ante raised here.

CALDWELL

til the eve of the realization of every boy's fondest dream?"

A tabulation of the games in which Caldwell has participated showed today that he played but three minutes against Harvard and not at all against Princeton in his three years of Yale varsity football. These are the only institutions with which Yale has the agreement barring athletes who transfer from other institutions from competition in the same branch of sport. For that reason there can be no taint on any of Yale's victories this year.

PROMPT TO ACT

Yale athletic authorities, who were prompt to verify and act upon the information concerning Caldwell, first published in the Providence (R. I.) Bulletin yesterday, bent their efforts today to discovering whether he ever played baseball at Brown. If so the ban will be extended to that sport, in which Caldwell is a star at second base.

The stroke that banished intercollegiate football from his life left tears in the steady gray eyes of this stalwart youth with the stubbornly upstanding hair. Leaving the practice field, where the news of the Yale athletic officials' action reached him, he sought solace in solitude.

Three men today were being groomed by Coach Tad Jones to carry the burden of the loss of Caldwell's "quintuple threat" abilities.

Garvey or Hammersley, who probably will share the left halfback assignment in his place, must take over the bulk of the ball carrying and punting. Duncan Cox, backfield regular, is to boot field goals and points after touchdown from placement in the stead of Caldwell's drop-kicking toe. Johnny Hoben, quarterback, will take over the forward passing, with Decker working on the receiving end with the wingmen in Hoben's place.

the same to the Cardinals as Glenn Wright does to the Pirates."

McKechnie did not care to go into detail as to the players he might be willing to trade. However, it is reliably reported that Bill would be willing to dicker in exchanges involving Flint Rhem and Jimmy Ring, pitchers, and Lester Bell, third baseman. Rhem incensed the St. Louis officials last season when he broke the training rules and Ring, apparently, was unable to do much for the club.

For some unknown reason Lester Bell, popular Harrisburg boy, went into a batting slump. McKechnie was a big booster for Bell as a third baseman, and up to this year Les was a dangerous boy at the plate. If he is put on the market quite a few clubs will be interested. The same applies to Flint Rhem.

It is McKechnie's intention to attend the minor league meeting which convenes at Dallas, Tex., December 6. After this session is completed Bill will travel to New York to the National League meeting.

LOCAL GOLFERS WIN

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 9.—Ellsworth Giles, Jr., and Lawrence Barr of Pittsburgh won, and A. P. Dyeart and J. B. Blackburn of Pittsburgh were beaten in yesterday's matches in the autumn tournament here. Giles, who was medalist, beat R. T. White of Ekwanok in a stirring 20-hole tilt, while Barr topped E. E. Marl of New York. Blackburn was eliminated by F. T. Keating of Boston and Dyeart lost a 20-hole contest to H. B. Hotchkiss of New Haven, Conn.

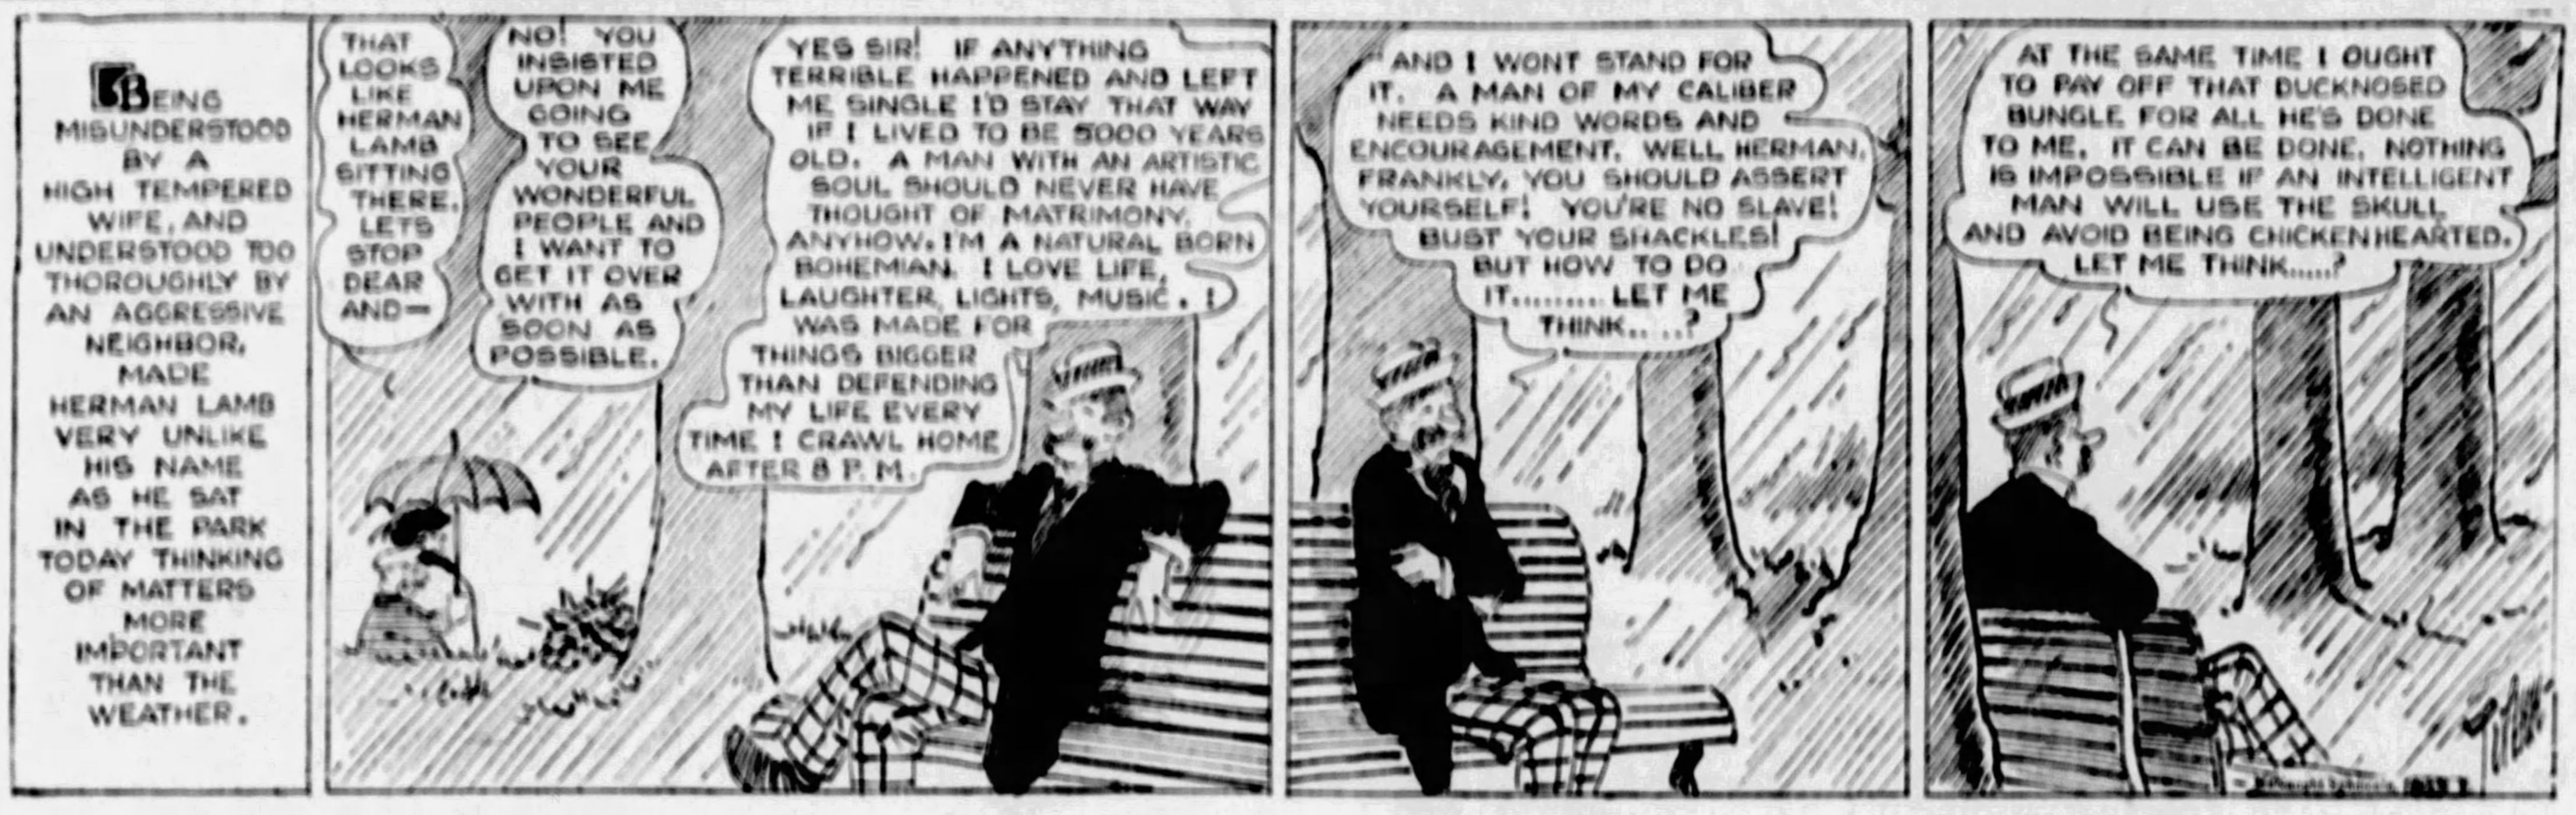
THE BUNGLE FAMILY

The Thinker



BEING MISUNDERSTOOD BY A HIGH TEMPERED WIFE, AND UNDERSTOOD TOO THOROUGHLY BY AN AGGRESSIVE NEIGHBOR, MADE HERMAN LAMB VERY UNLIKE HIS NAME AS HE SAT IN THE PARK TODAY THINKING OF MATTERS MORE IMPORTANT THAN THE WEATHER.
THAT LOOKS LIKE HERMAN LAMB SITTING THERE. LETS STOP DEAR AND—
NO! YOU INSISTED UPON ME GOING TO SEE YOUR WONDERFUL PEOPLE AND I WANT TO GET IT OVER WITH AS SOON AS POSSIBLE.
YES SIR! IF ANYTHING TERRIBLE HAPPENED AND LEFT ME SINGLE I'D STAY THAT WAY IF I LIVED TO BE 5000 YEARS OLD. A MAN WITH AN ARTISTIC SOUL SHOULD NEVER HAVE THOUGHT OF MATRIMONY. ANYHOW, I'M A NATURAL BORN BOHEMIAN. I LOVE LIFE, LAUGHTER, LIGHTS, MUSIC. I WAS MADE FOR THINGS BIGGER THAN DEFENDING MY LIFE EVERY TIME I CRAWL HOME AFTER 8 P. M.
AND I WONT STAND FOR IT. A MAN OF MY CALIBER NEEDS KIND WORDS AND ENCOURAGEMENT. WELL HERMAN, FRANKLY, YOU SHOULD ASSERT YOURSELF! YOU'RE NO SLAVE! BUST YOUR SHACKLES! BUT HOW TO DO IT......... LET ME THINK.....?
AT THE SAME TIME I OUGHT TO PAY OFF THAT DUCKNOSED BUNGLE FOR ALL HE'S DONE TO ME. IT CAN BE DONE. NOTHING IS IMPOSSIBLE IF AN INTELLIGENT MAN WILL USE THE SKULL AND AVOID BEING CHICKENHEARTED. LET ME THINK.....?

The man who heard Ella singing in the park turned out to be a radio announcer.... she's in his office now..........
WHEN I FOUND YOU IN THE PARK ON THE BENCH I ASKED YOU HERE TO JUDGE FOR YOURSELF FOR I THINK YOU ARE TO BE THE HEROINE OF A WONDERFUL STORY.
A HEROINE, AS THE HIGH SCHOOL SOPHOMORE SAID, IS THE GIRL ABOUT WHOM THE STORY IS ABOUT. BUT WHAT IS THE STORY ABOUT?
STATION POQ HAS MADE POPULAR AS PAY DAY A SINGER BILLED AS "THE MYSTERIOUS SOPRANO." SHE HAS LARYNGITIS BADLY, HASN'T SUNG FOR THREE DAYS. WE'RE GETTING LETTERS BY THE THOUSANDS ASKING HER RETURN, AND THE TELEGRAPH AND TELEPHONE WIRES ARE HOT WITH FANS' PROTESTS!
BUT WHAT'S THE CONNECTION?
YOUR VOICE IS AN EXACT DUPLICATE OF HERS. WILL YOU DOUBLE FOR "THE MYSTERIOUS SOPRANO" FOR A FEW DAYS WHILE SHE IS ILL? HIGH NOTES COME HIGH. WE'LL PAY YOU MIGHTY WELL!

BUGS BAER Says

THE election was a tune-up for next year. Straws show which way the soda water goes and politicians are eagerly watching the repeating business.

There have been complaints that voters have been registering from vacant lots and telephone booths.

The fact that justice will triumph in the end never appeases the candidate. When a candidate hears that justice has triumphed he immediately demands a recount.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER.

Much depends on the results, for if Kentucky goes Republican or Democratic both the wets and drys can claim a moral victory. We don't know how they figure results, but both factions always manage to salvage a battleship from the wreck of a rowboat.

California and Maine are also key states to next year's campaign and it is important for all good citizens to vote no when in doubt.

If they are only slightly puzzled they can uphold the glory of the Constitution and crossword puzzles by voting yes. The idea of modern ballots seems to be to tangle up the voter in a maze of circles and squares.

The citizens amble into the ballot trap, confident that they understand the complications perfectly. But one look at the ballot and they start shedding their intelligence. No voter ever understood the correct marking of official election placards.

The citizen is handed his ballot and retires into solitary confinement to figure it out. He puts an X in the first square, and O in the second, and the first thing you know we have a healthy maniac playing tick-tack-toe with the destiny of mankind.

The official watchers and coppers rush [illegible] struggle with him, but he refuses to give up his lead pencil [illegible] ends the rest of his career marking X's on rare tapestry and low [illegible].

His ballot is thrown into the fireless cooker and allowed to simmer overnight. In the morning the election judges open the box and start figuring out the votes. There is an X in every square and an O in every circle, there is a yes for every no and a vote for every citizen.

By subtracting the winning votes from the total and vulcanizing the minority on to the majority the judges decide that their man either won or the contest was fraudulent.

Nobody can dispute them because election ballots are the only modern documents written in ancient Babylonian heirogylphics.

Did Cain and Abel See Them?

Big Mouth, Small Birds, Very Interesting.

MR. HIPPO SAYS "AH!"

"The heavens declare the glory of God, and the firmament sheweth forth his handiwork."

The skies above us, where stars, a million MILLION times as big as our earth sail through space, are the real picture of God's glory.

Suns, planets, moons, flying comets, vast nebulae, are the proofs of power and grandeur far beyond our feeble conception.

Pictures such as the two you see in this column give to our weak minds a better idea of the endless creative power of the universe, endless VARIETY, endless adaptation to surroundings.

To impress a brain, you must know what a brain is, what it can understand, and give it the right sort of food.

Good missionaries of olden days, courageous fathers of the Catholic church that penetrated among savage tribes, many suffering death by torture, picked out of the Bible passages that Indians would understand and appreciate.

They read to them from the Old Testament stories of battles, telling how the Lord destroyed his enemies with great ease. That impressed the Indians. They thought there might be something in a religion with such a marvelous fighting God at the head of it.

AT HOME ON "PINNACLE ROCK."

If you went to the Congo and wanted to give an impression of English literature, you would not read Hamlet to the natives that live on hippopotamus meat. You would probably read them something so simple that a child of six would laugh at it.

To impress upon us the wonders of nature, our minds being so feeble, simple things are needed.

For instance, here is a giant hippopotamus, something the matter with his tonsils, opening his mouth to let the doctor look in.

And below, you see a gathering of birds in the Far North.

The Farne Islands, far away in the North Sea, are made up of gigantic basalt rocks called the "Pinnacle Rocks," flat on top, rising straight up from the ocean.

On those rocks hundreds of thousands of birds gather. You see one group of them here.

These birds, called "Guillemots," distantly related to the great auk, gather on these isolated rocks to breed.

They are as close together as human beings at a prize fight. Each mother knows her own egg, her own young one. Year after year the mother birds return here to lay their eggs, and care for their young. And that they have done through the centuries.

How strange a contrast is offered by this great hippopotamus mouth, and these beautifully made birds gathering for breeding purposes in the North.

Did little Cain and Abel, Adam and Eve's two sons, see a hippopotamus mouth like this, and a gathering of birds like this?

Was there room in the Garden for rocks where these birds could gather?

Was the hippopotamus there, and the rhinoceros, the giraffe, the orang-utang, and the gibbon, the giant sloth, the kangaroo rat, the Australian kangaroo?

Were the tens of thousands of different kinds of snakes, insects, toads, turtles, birds, in the Garden? Were all the animals of ancient times, the saber-toothed tiger, the mammoth, the dinosaurs 80 feet long, 40 feet high, etc.—were they all in the Garden?

Did little Cain and Abel play with them all?

It must have been very exciting and interesting.

Or is there, perhaps, truth in the scientific statement that the unlimited numbers of animals have come THROUGH EVO-

Garrett P Serviss Says:

An Electric Man

WHAT is more interesting than human nature with its quirks and quibbles? Here is an example among many that come to my attention. The writer of the letter (from Skaneateles, N. Y.) begs assistance to "fathom a mystery," the mystery being in himself.

"I am," says he, "what might be termed an electric conductor. With the aid of a copper wire and a silver coin I am able to attract this mysterious element, (electricity), and handle it at will. The coin and wire I hold in my right hand and my left hand I raise to the sky, or lower to earth, as I wish. In a few seconds the coin goes into action; up and down at a rapid pace, just as long as I hold it.

"I then take into my left hand a glass bowl. When I lower the coin so that the strokes touch the glass the coin rings the bowl. It stops when it gets ready. I have no control over the action of the coin whatever. I find under the earth that each ring means one foot. I have dug into the earth and proved that by finding veins of water.

"As near as I can study out this element comes into the body at the base of the brain, and is confined to bones and hair. All the organs of the body seem to be non-conductors. The action seems to work with mind and brain. For instance, I can call for the bones in your body and it will ring 208; skull, 8; hand, 19; foot, 26, and so on. So when transferred to the anatomy each ring is a bone. It also adds a row of coins, and subtracts any one that I pass my left hand over. Also it measures correctly the height of any building or tree. I can also touch anyone's skull and get the same action. What am I, or what is it?"

If you could have shown the coin in action to Mr. Barnum he would have advertised you as "The Electric Man," and have made a lot of money—some of it for you. The Barnums of today would be likely to use you in some connection with "disembodied spirits." But common sense at any time would counsel you to take as a "working hypothesis" the supposition that the explanation of the mystery lies in your own unconscious nervous action responding to mental suggestion.

The action of your suspended coin bears a very close resemblance to the performances of a "Ouija board," which are most reasonably accounted for as the result of unconscious nervous response. You say that you have no control whatever over the action of the vibrating coin, but you will find that if you hold any other object suspended in a similar way you will be unable, after a while, to keep it motionless, your control over the muscles of the arm becoming partially paralyzed by fatigue.

The indication of unconscious response to mental suggestion becomes manifest when you set the coin to counting the bones in the body. Your knowledge of the anatomical structure of the human frame, the hand, the skull, the foot was acquired from books or conversation, was it not? Then you knew the number of bones before your electric telltale appeared to reveal it.

Dress in Good Taste

YOU want to be considered artistic and proper in dress and manner but you won't take advice.

You know that with your coloring, build and style, everything is not suitable nor becoming.

Yet you follow your fancies unthinkingly.

You have been told that certain colors and styles clash with your make-up, but you don't pay any attention to that.

If a dress looks well on another you want one just like it.

You are tired of the colors and the styles your family insisted upon when you were under home control.

That "don't get a red necktie" or other admonitions sound in your ear yet, and you have decided to cut loose from tradition.

You imagine others buy what they fancy and you want to do that.

Why don't you try to look right, not gaudy?

You can wear bright colors if they are becoming.

But style cannot make you look well if you despise color effect.

Something to Think About

By BRUNO LESSING

Millions Worth of Reading

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, JR., has given $2,000,000 to the League of Nations for the construction and endowment of a library in Geneva. This is a generous gift.

What good will it do? It is an interesting subject to think about. Of course they must have a building to house the library. And if they erect a beautiful building it will enhance the beauty of Geneva and will give joy to the eye. A $2,000,000 building is infinitely more beautiful than the shack in which Lincoln did his reading.

But when one thinks of libraries, one cannot help thinking of the books they contain and the use that is made of them. Will $2,000,000 worth of use be made of this library?

It must, necessarily, be a reference library. That is to say, it must contain books of facts and figures, government reports, statistics and encyclopedias, etc. Most government reports are given free to anyone who asks for them. Anyone who is interested in the art and science of governing the nations of the world—which the League of Nations is supposed to dabble in—ought to be able to get all the books he needs for much less than $10,000. This would leave $1,990,000 for books on general subjects.

The books in the library and exhibition rooms of the British Museum in London are worth hundreds of millions of dollars. There are first editions of Bibles probably worth $1,000,000 each. It is very doubtful, however, if the books that are read and consulted in this museum in the course of a year have a cash value of more than $100,000. Most likely much less.

A library bears the same relation to the mind which a restaurant bears to the body. In each place you get something which you have to digest before you get any good out of it.

One could name a dozen books which, if thoroughly digested by the human race, would place our civilization upon a much higher plane. Foremost among these is the Bible. Next is probably Euclid's Elements or some one of the many books on geometry which are based on Euclid's thinking. The person who has a clear idea of mathematics can always be trusted to grasp a logical situation.

Then come the works of Homer, Virgil, Dante, Milton and Shakespeare which, when absorbed, develop our taste.

Now, if you can make a man's mind moral, logical and discriminating, what more do you want? He will then be able to pursue any kind of study or research that interests him and will know exactly how to go about it. The books mentioned above could all be bought for less than $100.

LISTEN, WORLD! ELSIE ROBINSON Says: Always Act Your Age

DO YOU get discouraged sometimes, thinking how little and insignificant you are, how unimportant in comparison to the infinite hoards of men who have come and gone?

Do you sigh—"My life can't possibly matter?"

Stop it! Your life does matter. As a human being you're the most important thing that has ever happened on this earth. Probably on any earth.

You, just as you stand, five feet eight in your socks, squint-eyed, knock-kneed, plumb full of cussedness, are still the most glorious, significant spectacle that has ever walked this stage.

Your relatives may not think much of you, your boss may be down on you, even the bill collectors may have given you up as a total loss. But you're not a total loss to the Big Boss who made you.

YOU'RE GOD'S LATEST, GREATEST PRODUCT, AND HE HAS PUT ALL HIS BETS ON YOU!

Millions, billions, endless trillions of experiments preceded your creation—

Millions, billions, endless trillions of organisms contributed to your existence.

God alone knows how long Life looked around for a proper vehicle to stage its big act before it decided to locate in you.

But it did locate in you. And, today, you're the record. You're the first thing in line, with the Whole Show going on for your benefit.

Fire and water, earth and air, sunset and moonrise, winter and spring, rose spray and bird song, all serving You.

And the Mysteries inside you—courage and laughter, pride and ambition, poetry and love—

Time and space topping to help You along. Submarines, aeroplanes, telephones, radios, autos and trains—

What more do you want?

You're the heir of the ages—and then some!

You're a million years old and a billion lives strong and you're leading the whole parade.

Yet you go around whimpering—"Guys like me don't count!"

Cut it out! Be yourself!

You're no worm! You're no blunder! You're not lost in the shuffle!

YOU'RE THE BEST THING GOD'S DONE!

ACT YOUR AGE!

New York Day by Day

by O.O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Broadway has three distinct shadings in its lower, middle and upper sections. It runs almost the entire length of the island and has been called "the street that whips the universe." It is true it sets the pace in amusements.

Its theaters are the finest and its productions the best. Its cafes and supper clubs on and near it are seldom equaled. Broadway is the playground where an overworked nation dons cap and bells. Its assessed property valuation is $2,741,115,600. The total valuation of all property on the island is $7,785,110,325.

In early days of Dutch settlers, all of Broadway was below Wall street. Lower Broadway is a jostling section by day and as quiet as its Trinity and St. Paul churchyards after dusk falls.

Until the skyscraper craze leaped northward, the city's tallest buildings — such as the Singer and Woolworth — were on the lower tip of the island. Thousands of clerks, stenographers and other office workers debouch there in the early morning. It ripples with high-speed activity.

The middle section, which begins at Twenty-third street and ends at Columbus Circle, is the strip devoted to gaiety and nightly pleasures. Here is the Rialto, with its scores of Thespic temples and cinema palaces. It is lighted with 1,242,538 lamps, casting a 25,000,000 candle-power glow.

The electric signs were used first by theaters, but the idea spread to cafes, barber shops, tailors, druggists, shoe stores and such. Fifth avenue is strung only with a necklace of amber-colored street lights. The gaudy electric signs have been banned.

Upper Broadway, which begins properly at Seventy-second street, has lately become a high-powered business section, almost comparable in hotel, cafe and theater glitter with the middle section. This continues for 20 blocks, when it begins slowly to taper off into an apartment house section.

The name The Great White Way for the middle section of Broadway has been attributed to various people. Some say it was Diamond Jim Brady. Others have claimed it was a comedian appearing at the old Herald Square, long ago. But the most conclusive evidence is it was bestowed by a reporter, unhonored and unsung, who used the description in a write-up on the old Sun.

* * *

Over in a Jersey village a local huckster fell heir to a cast-off moth-eaten camel in payment for room rent of a stranded street carnival crew. It looked as though he faced the white elephant problem, but being engaged as a sideline selling market vegetables he loaded the dromedary with his wares and made his daily canvass. He taught the camel many tricks and a few weeks ago a film scout signed him and his camel for the movies at a weekly salary the like of which he had never dreamed.

* * *

The latest in dinner extravagances is gleaned from a society weekly. A lady not satisfied with the local stock of dinner favors sailed for Paris two weeks before the dinner and selected an individual gift for 24 guests at a price averaging $100 each.

* * *

And gossip has it that at the same dinner guests became so hilariously cock-eyed a visiting lord got into the family icebox after midnight and staged a sham battle of left-over hors d'oeuvres which entirely ruined an imported Persian rug. Yet over on his island we are "vulgar Americans."

* * *

At one of those exclusive and dreary clubs where fathers apply for the membership of sons on the day of birth, it was discovered the other day the waiting list was so long a boy born that week could not become a member until he was 24 years old.

Ambassador Morrow

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Dwight W. Morrow was appointed by Mr. Coolidge as an interim appointment to be ambassador to Mexico.

A considerable stir was made by many persons to have his nomination refused indorsement by the Senate.

The reasons upon which this opposition is based are that he has been connected with J. P. Morgan & Co. and would stand for Wall Street instead of the common people.

By the way, when President Harding appointed Mr. Mellon secretary of the treasury, Mellon was criticized as the second richest man in the world, but he hasn't turned the country over to Wall Street as far as we have heard. Indeed, he has made about the best secretary of the treasury that we have ever had. Rich and poor throughout the country have felt the benefits of his actions.

It is natural to expect that when a man has been successful in managing his own affairs he can be successful in managing the affairs of his fellow-countrymen. He is quite as likely to be honest and upright as a failure would be.

The opposition to this kind of men rests upon the supposition that he who has made big money is, ipso facto, a scoundrel, and that you can't make a good deal of money honestly.

We should be getting over that idea in this country. Undoubtedly there are some crimes of great wealth, but there are no more crimes of great wealth than of great poverty. If a man is a bad man he will be bad anywhere, rich or poor.

One's record ought to count for him. Mr. Coolidge has known Mr. Morrow all his life. He has the utmost confidence in him and sends him to Mexico evidently because he believes that he is upright enough and intelligent enough to handle diplomatic affairs with satisfaction.

Mr. Coolidge's judgment should be worth something. He has made no glaring mistakes so far and most of the people will be satisfied with his selection. Because Mr. Morrow has been a member of J. P. Morgan & Co.'s firm, a connection which, however, he has given up, is no sign that he is allied with criminal wealth.

On the contrary, it is a sign that he is a man of signal ability. This country will be better represented by able and competent men than it will be by baby-kissing, hand-shaking and personally enchanting failures.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Their Worth

WHAT is the worth of a dream at dusk when the garden is growing dim and the scent of the roses is sweet as musk by the singing fountain's rim? What is the worth of a mood at noon when the pulses are stirred and swift, as the world whirls on to a thrilling tune while your hopes their bright banners lift? No man can measure the weight of a sigh, none can reckon the wing-beats of hope; yet the dream of the mood may have cleared from life's sky clouds that made the soul falter and grope. Welcome vision or mood when it comes, night or day, with the force of the heaven-drawn tide; though you know not its worth, turn no dream-guest away, fling the gates of your soul open wide!

GRAFTING

GRAFTING experts in California report amazing things in the production of new brands of fruit. Just about everything in that line has been done. Practically the only thing remaining to be done is to graft a kumquat on to a cactus and produce something that nobody can eat at all.

Reports of investigations in Washington and Indiana report great progress in grafting other than botanical, but in the latter line grafting seems to be only in its infancy. It has produced a good many unexpected lemons and more than a few cabbage heads.

Isn't It So?

Too much of our uplift is confined to noses.

A word to the wise may be sufficient to show your foolishness.

Most men can stand success a lot better than they can stand someone else's.

Generally speaking, it's the man who doesn't know what he's talking about who has the most to say.

Did Cain and Abel See Them?

We cannot possibly know.

But if Cain and Abel really HAD all these interesting animals to study, if they WERE surrounded by such evidences of creative power, it is really a wonder that Cain wasn't sufficiently impressed to behave himself, a great wonder that he killed his only brother from childish jealousy.

And you wonder also, since only Adam and Eve lived on the earth, who the women were that produced the human race. Of course, Cain couldn't marry his own sister, and besides he was driven out.

It is all puzzling, but so are many things, far beyond our feeble minds.
